CONDITIONS ARE different in France, where the French minister of agriculture advises peasants to sell their wheat "at the present high prices."

It will interest American farmers, selling wheat at 60 cents or less, on the farm, to learn that French peasants are getting $1.71 a bushel. France knows how to "stabilize wheat prices" and relieve the farmer.

Our government bought 69,000,000 bushels of wheat to relieve farmers, and the price dropped from well above $1 a bushel to well below 90 cents a bushel.

THERE IS NO secret about French wheat prices. They are due to French belief in protection, which has been strong ever since the "Field of the Cloth of Gold" where Francis the First wrestled with Henry the Eighth. Flour made or sold in France must contain at least 90 per cent French wheat, recently it was 97 per cent.

THOUSANDS of American citizens have been poisoned and paralyzed by an alcholic ginger extract called "jake." That doesn't surprise you.

When the government won't let people have beer, wine, or their old fashioned whisky, they will drink other things—varnish, hair tonics, or a poisonous ginger mixture.

BUT, YOU are surprised to hear that 1,100 of the paralyzed "jake" victims live in Kansas, supposed to be dry, by choice.

Collier's Weekly described young Kansas boys and girls drinking the alcholic ginger "jake" from innocent looking glasses in drug stores.

THE GOVERNMENT and people of South Carolina wish you to know that vegetables, fruits, milk, cream, eggs and other products of that state are rich in iodine, which prevents goiter. Through its "South Carolina Natural Resource Commission," the state gives information about goiter throughout the country. In some western and northern states "as high as 70 per cent of high school girls have enlarged thyroids." In other places, west, the proportion is 40 to 60 per cent.

A LARGE percentage of young pigs are "born dead or imperfect and soon die," because the mothers haven't enough iodine in their systems and in another state "sheep fail to reproduce for lack of iodine."

FARM LANDS in South Carolina may be had at the lowest prices in many years. The possibilities there are of interest to those that have money. To develop land you need money to start.

SHAKESPEARE'S father was punished for keeping a huge "midden," a large pile of refuse in front of his door.

We wonder how our ancestors lived in Europe when the only sewers were street gutters, and even in the French king's palace the stench of sewage was abominable.

TO THOSE THEN living, such conditions seemed natural and correct. What is, we take for granted.

Its health department tried vainly to prevent a swimming contest around the city, saying the contestants must swim with open mouths in water full of sewage, and many probably would be made ill.

The sewage could be piped to lands that need it, or chemically eliminated, and the garbage could be burned. That will come.

We may not be descendants of the monkeys, but we are not entirely unlike them.

PROF. EINSTEIN is working on another theory, which, according to an interviewer, enters a field "more vast than any field explored by him hitherto."

As he has already explored the universe, the new field must be very big.

One Einstein theory that anybody can understand and approve is this. He says:

"The most important work that the world has on hand is to improve the education of the young."

MISSIONARIES are fleeing from the interior of China, and the new Chinese authorities, blind and dead to their own chance for salvation, forbid any more teaching of Christianity in China's schools.

If the discouragement of China's missionaries should be permanent, many could find fields of spiritual labor here in the United States. The old hymn says, "Way out upon the prairie, how many children dwell, that never read the Bible, or heard of the Sabbath bell." That's true of big cities.

THIS COUNTRY is rich, but even a gold mine can be exhausted.

You realize partly what is wrong with us when you hear that the Shipping Board has cost the country, thus far, three billion six hundred and eighty-three million five hundred and sixty-nine thousand dollars. That's a good deal.

Add to that various other costs, including that of bootlegging, racketeering, etc., amounting to several billions a year, equaling the entire cost of the national government, and you realize that even the United States may spend too much.

GERTRUDE EDERLE

TRUDY REGRETS CHANNEL SWIM

RYE, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—She teaches swimming in a boardwalk pool—a bronzed young woman with a determined grin.

Unless you raise your voice she cannot hear you.

Four years ago this August, when she was 20, Gertrude Ederle swam the English Channel and came home to receive a great Broadway welcome, congratulatory messages from President Coolidge and Gov. Smith and vaudeville offers that were said at the time to amount to nearly $1,000,000.

Today she wistfully said:

"It wasn't worth while.

"I did earn about $150,000 in vaudeville, but I got less than $50,000 of it myself.

"I wish some one would build a pool and name it after me and let me be head instructor there. But I guess it would be pretty hard to get any backing now."

HIT AND RUN DEATH HELD MURDER

Bail Denied Pair in Jail Over Killing of Child; Both Accused as Drunk

The alleged hit-and-run autoists charged with killing one child and injuring four others in Lawn street, Frank Kubiszewski, 30, driver, and Frank Novak, 31, both of 28 Niagara street, were committed to jail today without bail on the charge of murder.

The accident occurred Friday afternoon. William Harris, 5, of 310 Lawn street, was killed instantly.

McGREGOR SEVERE

Commenting on the case, Coroner William J. McGregor, said:

"We are going to hold these fellows on charges of murder and I'm committing them to jail without bail. We may have to retract this charge and change it to manslaughter, but we will not do this unless an investigation of the law being made by the district attorney and this office, finds that recent court decisions definitely demand that we make the change.

FLAGRANT CASE

"I want the public to understand there is a possibility of a change, so there'll be no misunderstanding. This case is so flagrant, particularly when you consider the fact that there were two groups of children considerable distance apart involved in the accident. The machine struck and killed one child in the first group and continued, injuring a child in the second group. For these reasons, I strongly favor a murder charge and will accept no bail."

Police had said the accused men, both steel workers, told them they had "had a day off" and celebrated it by drinking.

RAIN TO END HEAT WAVE KILLING 4

Brotzman Sees Relief as Mercury Points to 95 Here; Cooler in West

Cooling showers tonight or tomorrow were expected to break the heat wave which cost four lives over the week-end and to bring relief from the severe drought.

The mercury passed the 90 mark this afternoon, with prospect that it would reach 95, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said.

The official forecast indicates thundershowers this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow morning, with much cooler weather prevailing tomorrow night.

With the thermometer registering nearly 100 in classrooms, English classes at the summer school of Duquesne University, were led onto the campus where lecturer were given by Dr. Michael Kelly, head of the English department, and the Rev. John F. Sullivan, under the trees. Priests and nuns were in the group.

Thousand in Panic on Subway

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Almost a thousand passengers of a subway train Manhattan-bound from Coney Island were thrown into panic early today when a fuse in the train blew out near Coney Island, darkening the train and filling it with smoke.

Women and children were pushed about and bruised in the confusion and police used their clubs to restore order when the doors finally were opened.

None of the passengers was hurt seriously.

AUTHORITY EXCEEDED, HE SAYS

Legislature Forbids Appeal Following Cartification, Ex-Governor Contends

Gifford Pinchot today challenged the right of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to entertain appeals on behalf of Francis Shunk Brown from Luzerne County designed to discard its vote and thereby overthrow Pinchot's Republican nomination for governor. Three motions filed by Pinchot with the Supreme Court at Philadelphia assert:

1—The Supreme Court assumes a right it does not possess and arrogates to itself power to alter the result of an election by its order of June 21 directing certification of results subject to change by its order.

NO APPEAL

2—The Legislature expressly provided no appeal shall be allowed in such a case, involving the action of the Luzerne return board in counting ballots, and the Supreme Court has wrongfully assumed jurisdiction.

3—The certification of the count in Luzerne and other counties of the state is final and the Supreme Court has no power under the Constitution, or statutes to modify or reject it.

Two appeals are pending and, if successful, would void the primary vote in Luzerne County with its 26,000 Pinchot lead over Brown and transform the Pinchot nomination by 20,000 to a Brown nomination by 6,000 votes.

In one appeal, three electors of the Second District of the Eighth Ward of Wilkes-Barre, seek to invalidate the district's vote, although it became known that the three were asking that their names be removed from the petition. In the other, Brown asks the Supreme Court to overrule the

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 28.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

When the country needs a little encouragement it can look at the condition of the Federal Treasury.

Since August, 1919, the national debt has been reduced over $10,000,000,000 and now stands at a little over $16,000,000,000. The interest charge has been practically cut in two, but is still over $600,000,000. In the meantime we have had five reductions of taxes which give the people direct relief of about $2,000,000,000 yearly and indirect relief to an amount that it is impossible to estimate.

Calvin Coolidge.

Nevertheless expanding business brought sufficient revenue to meet increased expenditures and show a large yearly surplus.

The credit for the original draft of tax bills and issuing new securities so as to cut the average interest rate well below 4 per cent belongs to the Secretary of the Treasury. The credit for a policy of economy that produced a surplus, reduced taxes and increased prosperity belongs to the President. He has been aided by the budget bureau, the departments and the Congress. It is a wonderful record. But because of decreased business there must now be some rigid economy to prevent a deficit.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

100 AMERICANS FLEE CHINA

PEIPING, China, July 28.—(INS.)—Approximately 100 Americans, living in Kiukiang and Changsha, were taken aboard the American gunboats Monocacy and Palos today as Chinese Communist troops approached the outskirts of the latter city.

The gunboats had been dispatched when the Communist forces advanced almost unopposed from the south. The Changsha garrison was attacked by the raiders, reports stated, whereupon the Americans were evacuated immediately.

Preparations had been made for days for an immediate evacuation for the Communist advance into the Hunan and Kiangsi provinces was expected. The forces of Presi-

Alarm Here For Tourist In Quake

Grave fears for the safety of J. Frank Lanning, president of Lanning & Co., of 127 First avenue, now in the devastated earthquake zone of Italy, were expressed today by relatives.

When last heard from Lanning was in Sorrento, Italy, in the earthquake zone, on a trip around the world, and was believed to have been there the night tremors began last week.

Cablegrams to his Sorrento address remain unanswered. Efforts to have the Department of State locate him have, so far, been unsuccessful. Lanning left Pittsburgh about a year ago. The company which he heads distributes mill supplies.

ROME, July 28.—(INS.)—The earthquake-torn areas of South Central Italy, swept alternately by high winds, heat and rain, blossomed forth with the first signs of reconstruction today when concentrated efforts to enumerate destroyed and damaged buildings began.

Belated reports by rescue workers from the collapse of weakened walls will further add to the official casualty lists, which now number 2,142 dead and 4,551 injured.

Midget Killed by Auto After 'Heart' Battle

DETROIT, July 28.—(INS.)—Members of a troupe of midgets playing at a downtown theater are being questioned by police today about a boxing match from which one of the participants, Joseph Pozer, a dwarf, 28 years old, two and one-half feet tall, walked to his death in front of an automobile here.

Attaches at the theater said that Pozer and his opponent in the ring, Eddie Bures, three feet tall, were jealous of the attention each had been paying Dora Vig, 25, a woman midget and fellow trouper. The midgets pummeled each other severely, police learned from spectators.

PARTY GIVEN '2-FACED' ROLE

Must Back Prohibition Foes To Cut Democrat Inroads In Congressional Voting

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, as dry chairman of the Republican National Committee, will keep "hands off" G. O. P. anti-prohibition battles this fall, it was learned today.

Fess has been chosen to succeed Chairman Claudius H. Huston on August 7 because he personifies the conservative, standpat, dry Republican leader of the type most acceptable to the party as a whole.

That does not mean, however, the committee intends to be lukewarm in its support of senatorial and congressional candidates who have stood against prohibition, it was made known in inner circles.

For one thing the G. O. P. faces a serious situation in the fall campaigns. There is little prospect of making gains. The problem is to hold present majorities, to cut Democratic inroads as low as possible.

DRY AND ANTI-DRY

The National Committee, therefore, will present the unusual picture of having a dry chairman, but meanwhile working hammer-and-tongs in behalf of anti-prohibition Republican candidates.

It was that understanding, according to authentic information, which made Fess acceptable to eastern leaders who are ready to throw prohibition, as a campaign argument, into the scrap basket.

In New Jersey, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow will be Republican candidate for United States senator on a platform for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Morrow is going to have whole-hearted administration support from top to bottom.

WANT TO BEAT WALSH

In another outstanding instance, Judge Albert J. Galen, anti-prohibitionist, is the Republican senatorial candidate in Montana against Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, and a dry.

A real drive will be made to defeat Walsh, for it would mean replacing a Democrat with a Republican.

Just how long Senator Fess will continue to serve as chairman of the Republican committee after the fall campaign is concluded has not been decided.

There is talk that Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, who is to be made chairman of the executive committee of the national committee, may succeed Fess as national chairman.

If Lucas is not elevated, David Mulvane, veteran committeeman, of Kansas, will be the likely choice.

NEW DRY CHIEF BANS GUNPLAY

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The inquisitional prohibition policy of the past—"shotgun enforcement"—is facing drastic reform under the regime of Amos W. W. Woodcock, new dry chief under the Justice Department, it became known today.

With two officers already suspended for "hair-trigger" methods, an another under investigation of Justice Department operatives in his fortnight of office tenure, Woodcock declared that under his direction prohibition agents can expect no "whitewash" vindications when they use improper strong arm methods.

He stated flatly that his administration will positively recognize no policy of "the prohibition agent can do no wrong."

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Dry leaders of the nation, in a declaration of policy published today, "repudiate all enforcement policies that do not regard and safeguard every personal right guaranteed by the Constitution."

Sewell Joins Staff For World's Fair

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—John Stephen Sewell, president of the Alabama Marble Company, which has its principal sales office here, today joined the staff of the Chicago world's fair to take charge of all foreign participation in the 1933 century of progress exposition. He will manage the office the exposition will open soon in London. Sewell is a close personal friend of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the exposition. They worked together during the World War.

Famous Art Works Taken By Robbers in Britain

The latest in the series was the abstraction Saturday night of a valuable Reynolds portrait from the London home of the Earl of Minto. The earl and countess were dining out, leaving only the servants and children behind.

When they returned a portrait of the first Countess of Minto was missing, also a string of 300 pearls and other jewels valued at $100,000. The picture was valued at a like amount.

The Reynolds portrait had been unframed and rolled up in the library. A Romney had been meddled with, but the thieves apparently were disturbed before they were able to take it.

Three weeks ago a Van Dyck portrait of "Ferdinand, the Cardinal," was stolen from the Earl of Clarendon's house but later was recovered. Other cases this year include the theft of 18 pictures, including Rembrandts and Gainsboroughs, from the Carlton galleries; a Van Dyck stolen between Ostend and London, and a Hoppner from a residence at Stanmore.

BROWN APPEAL REPUDIATED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Three residents of the Eighth Ward, of Wilkes-Barre had signed affidavits today asking the removal of their names from a petition now on file with the State Supreme Court attacking the use of perforated ballots at the last primary.

The affidavits will be presented to the Supreme Court by counsel for Gifford Pinchot, it is expected, at the opening of testimony in the case started by Francis Shunk Brown. Counsel for Brown is asking the court to reject the entire vote cast in Luzerne county on the ground that the primary ballots were mutilated.

The three affidavits, whose existence became known today, have been signed by Joseph Razkowski, a printer; Oscar Biner, a merchant, and Victor Snyder, a clerk.

They are quoted as saying they want their names stricken from the Brown petition because they were not qualified to sign it.

PINCHOT URGES AID FOR NORRIS

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(Universal)—Members of Congress, educators, economists and newspaper correspondents, today were united in a "broadside" urging the re-election of Senator George W. Norris, (Rep.) of Nebraska, an outstanding liberal.

Republicans and Democrats alike urged support for Norris, who has waged unceasing warfare against the power trust and other special interests.

Other tributes were received from William Allen White, of Kansas; Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania; Prof. John Dewey, of Columbia University, and Jane Addams, of Chicago.

Democrat Shifts At 76 to Vote For Pinchot

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 28.—Newt Reddick, for many years a tipstaff in a local justice court, yesterday celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday. While doing so he declared his intention of voting for Gifford Pinchot for governor this fall.

It will be the first time in his life that Reddick, a staunch Democrat, will vote for a Republican candidate for governor. He declared he believes Pinchot is the friend of the working man and will attempt to stamp out corruption in state affairs.

VOTE AUTHORITY QUESTIONED

County Commissioners of Luzerne County who refused to reject the primary ballots because they were perforated to prevent fraud, a customary practice of the county now alleged to be mutilation contrary to law.

HEARING AUGUST 19

Hearing on the appeals has been fixed for August 19, speeded up to enable a decision in time for the loser to pre-empt a party.

Pinchot's motion to quash the Brown appeal avers that the Legislature has specifically barred appeals in such cases; that the Common Pleas Court of Luzerne County dismissed the proceedings for lack of jurisdiction, nullifying the Supreme Court's ruling in accepting the appeal that notwithstanding the legislative ban it had the right to examine the record to see if the lower court exceeded its jurisdiction; that the certification of the Luzerne returns was final, with no jurisdiction in any court to disturb it, and that therefore any question which might otherwise be raised is now a moot question and the Supreme Court has repeatedly held it will not consider such a question.

PINCHOT CONTENTIONS

The motion for revocation of the order of June 21, directing certification of the Luzerne County returns to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, "subject to such modification, correction or rejection as may be ordered by this court," rested on these contentions:

On June 21 only the Wilkes-Barre district appeal was before the Supreme Court, on nothing on which the court could make its order; that none of the Luzerne County litigation involved certification of the return, as no suit had been filed to compel or prevent the certification by the County Commissioners, and the question of certification was not involved; that the Supreme Court is without authority to exercise jurisdiction once the returns are certified; and that the Secretary of the Commonwealth has never been a party to the proceeding and could not be bound by any order.

Pinchot asked dismissal of the Wilkes-Barre appeal because it involved only the vote of one district and would not change the statewide result.

RED WARNS U. S. OF TRADE LOSS

MOSCOW, July 28.—(INS.)—A gloomy picture of future United States-Soviet trade relations was painted by S. O. Zuckerman, chief of the export department of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, New York, the Soviet purchasing and selling organization in the United States, following his return to Moscow for a visit.

American firms, he said, have become dizzy with success—the phrase which Joseph Stalin, proletarian director, used to describe the blundering actions of provincial Soviet officials during the period when the drive to socialize agriculture was apparently going over big. He declares:

"American firms got the impression we need their business. They reduced their credit terms so we could not buy. Last year, in contrast, they gladly extended our promissory notes whenever we requested."

In the first six months of the present Soviet fiscal year, which bemn last October, Amtorg, he said, placed $60,000,000 worth of orders in the United States, compared with $72,000,000 for the preceding year. But in April and May of this year, orders dwindled from an average of $10,000,000 a month to $3,000,000.

REED ASKS CURB UPON IMPORTS FROM RUSSIA

Calls on Secretary Mellon To Invoke New Legislation Which Bars Convict Goods

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Application of the new tariff act's exclusion against imports of Russian lumber and anthracite produced by convict labor or "dumped" into the United States at low prices was urged today by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, in a letter to Secretary Mellon.

Senator Reed expressed the opinion that such commodities could be barred either by Treasury regulation under the section prohibiting entry of convict-made goods, or by presidential embargo under the provision dealing with unfair competition. He wrote:

"As you are doubtless aware, a serious situation has arisen as a result of importation of lumber, anthracite and the threatened importation of other commodities produced or supposed to be produced by convict labor at prices much below the cost of producing similar commodities in the United States.

"This competition, unless checked by the exclusion of foreign goods so produced, not only will prove ruinous, but will contribute to the unrest and unemployment in our own country."

SOVIET SLEUTHES FOUND

NEW YORK, July 28.—(Universal.)—Discovery has been made of the American headquarters of the Chrka, the Russian secret service corps, which the police have been seeking several years, it became known today. The headquarters was found through the concentrated movement of government officials against alleged illegal Soviet and Communist activities in this country.

Revelations made by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, of the connection between the Amtorg Trading Company and the wholesale smuggling of watch movements supplied the lead by which the Cheka headquarters was traced.

Police officials today were making plans to raid the place in the expectation of seizing documents, records and other evidence of Cheka activity. It is on the East Side in a pharmacy which is understood to serve as a blind for the international activities of the Soviet secret service.

ASKS ABOLITION OF JUSTICES

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 28.—(AP.)—Elimination of the office of justice of the peace and substitution of a "Court of the First Instance" was advocated today by John T. Simms, attorney for the state tax commissioner, at the opening session of the West Virginia Bar Association convention here.

Simms, who some months ago made the same recommendations before the state constitution commission, reiterated his statement that the office of justice of the peace is obsolete and should be replaced by courts of the first instance sitting at a county courthouse, but with the power to hold regular or special sessions anywhere in a county.

Judges of these courts, he said, should have educational qualifications for the office and be members of the bar in good standing. They should receive stipulated salaries, he said, in proportion to the amount of litigation in the courts and the fee system should be abolished.

Georgia Senator's Statement Opposing League Hints Hard Fight for Hoover

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The campaign declaration of Senator William J. Harris (Dem.), of Georgia, against all proposals entangling the United States in European affairs, today indicated the Hoover administration will face a tremendous task next fall in seeking American adherence to the World Court upon new and modified terms.

The Harris statement, issued on the eve of his campaign for renomination was the first sign that the Wilsonian Democrats of the South may bolt President Hoover in the next World Court fight, even though they stood staunchly behind President Coolidge on the same issue.

Harris, a personal friend of the late President Woodrow Wilson and generally classed as an "internationalist," announced he would vote against American adherence to the court unless the reservations "preserve the absolute independence and sovereignty of the United States."

The Georgian's attitude was significant, because it follows the declaration by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Dem.), of New York, that he too will vote against the World Court on the so-called Root terms of adherence.

This split in the Democratic ranks of the Senate will double the administration's difficulties, since the old "irreconcilable" bloc—which always has fought World Court and League of Nations projects—has been largely composed of Republicans.

STATE POLICE RAID LOTTERY

GREENSBURG, July 28.—For the first time the state police today struck out against the clearing house lottery in Westmoreland County. They raided what they said were the headquarters of the lottery in Greensburg and Jeannette and arrested 15 men and three girl stenographers.

The Jeannette prisoners were taken from the McDonald Hotel and in Greensburg a cigar store in West Otterman street at Pennsylvania avenue, supplied others.

Those arrested were:

Albert Cuneo, of Greensburg, who played freshman football at Pitt a half-dozen years ago; Alfred Rose, 30, Monessen; Emil Cairo, 49, Trafford; Angelo Samolos, West Newton; Andrew Chakeres, McKeesport.

Sid Chaplin Quits Studio To Face Suit by Actress

LONDON, July 28.—(Universal.)—Sid Chaplin has been served with a writ on behalf of Molly Wright, beautiful blonde English film actress, who claims damages for alleged attack, libel and slander, it was learned today.

Miss Wright, who has appeared in a number of British films, has been out of work for 12 months. In 1928 she appeared in the British International Picture film "Little Bit of Fluff," which starred Sid Chaplin, brother of Charlie Chaplin, and Miss Betty Balfour.

Sid Chaplin has suddenly suspended work on his latest production, "Humming Birds," and left for the continent. The new film is not yet completed.

Young Mrs. Ott, heiress to her San Antonio (Tex.) father's $70,000,000 oil fortune, who has divorced her Swiss geologist-husband, Dr. Emil Yates, said to have helped in the discovery of the vast oil pool that has resulted in the great wealth of the family.

BAPTISM ADDS TO 'MIXED' BABY FEUD

One Set of Parents Fights Ritual; Also Will Sue Hospital for $100,000

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—The Watkins-Bamberger baby tangle, which has been jounced from the laps of obstetrics, department of health, fingerprint experts, bone, blood and baby specialists, a maternal mass meeting and even the law, lay cradled today in the bassinet of the church. Still it did not rest.

SEEK ADIVICE

The William Watkinses, who are Presbyterians, and who believe the baby baptized a Bamberger is really their own offspring, today sought the advice of a clergyman of their own faith, with a view to having the child in their possession baptized without application of a name.

The Watkins' attorney, Barratt O'Hara, was getting ready to ask a writ of habeas corpus, to compel the Bambergers to produce their baby in court and show cause why they should not surrender it. In such an action, it was explained, the matter would be placed before the court, which would make final decision as to whom the infant belongs.

TO SUE HOSPITAL

The attorney also was instructed to bring suit for $100,000 damages against the Englewood Hospital, where the Bambergers and Watkins babies were born, June 30. Bamberger, on the other hand, has announced that everything is settled, that he is satisfied he now has his own infant and that no legal action of any kind is contemplated.

'MA' PILES UP BIG LEAD ON PUBLISHER

Senator Sheppard Easily Renominated; Box, Raskob Critic, Apparently Beaten

DALLAS, Tex., July 28.—(AP.)—Partisans of two Democratic gubernatorial candidates today forecast one of the most bitter political campaigns in Texas history as tabulation of Saturday's primary vote virtually assured a run-off between Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, Texas' only woman governor, and Ross S. Sterling, of Houston.

Sterling is chairman of the State Highway Commission through appointment by Gov. Dan Moody, arch enemy of the Fergusons.

Mrs. Ferguson late today was 59,443 votes ahead of Sterling and he was 37,237 in front of Clint C. Small, of Wellington. The election bureau then had compiled 638,016 votes.

The vote for the wife of James E. Ferguson, barred from the race by his impeachment as chief executive, was expected to reach 225,000.

RODE INTO OFFICE

Runing for vindication of the family name after her husband had been impeached, Mrs. Ferguson rode into office on an Anti-Ku Klux Klan campaign in 1924. Gov. Moody, then attorney general, uncovered alleged irregularities in the Highway Department and defeated her for re-nomination by a tremendous majority.

Sterling, a Houston multi-millionaire publisher who organized the Humble Oil Company, has promised the state a business administration and favors a big highway bond issue.

Gov. Moody and State Senator Thomas B. Love, Hoover-Democrat and defeated gubernatorial candidate, have promised their support to Sterling.

SHEPPARD FAR AHEAD

Morris Sheppard, Texas' senior United States senator, was not faced with the worry of a runoff. Sheppard, an ardent dry, received more than twice as many votes as both of his opponents, one of whom, Former Congressman Robert L. Henry, of Houston, made an active campaign as an anti-dry.

Congressman John C. Box, of Jacksonville, who has publicly requested the resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, appeared defeated for renomination by young Martin Dies, Jr., of Orange, son of a former Congressman.

All other congressmen who had opposition appeared to have been nominated in the first primary except Guinn Williams, of Decatur. Williams had a plurality, but not a majority.

MOONEY CASE RECORDS GONE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—(INS.)—Announcement that two important documents in the Mooney-Billings case have disappeared from the files created a sensation here today on the eve of the State Supreme Court's hearing of John MacDonald's repudiation of his testimony in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing trial.

The documents, police reports, have a direct bearing, according to authorities, on the issue raised by MacDonald's assertion that he gave perjured testimony at the murder trials which resulted in the conviction of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings.

MacDonald now maintains that his "identification" of Mooney and Billings was the result of coaching by Capt. Charles Goff, at that time a sergeant in charge of the bomb bureau.

Goff, in a prepared statement, contradicted MacDonald's story. He declared two police reports were in existence to prove that the recanting witness before meeting Goff voluntarily told his story. Search, however, has failed to reveal the missing reports.

DRUNK, HIS FALL KILLS BABY

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Two policemen sat before a cell in a South Side lockup keeping constant vigil over a father who confessed that while intoxicated last Friday night he fell upon and fatally crushed his 5-month-old baby.

The father—Edward M. Johnston, 36, war-time aviator, and now employed in a brokerage office—while walking the floor with the infant, stumbled and fell upon it. At first he told authorities the child had fallen from its crib.

Johnston's brother expressed fear that the prisoner would try to take his life and asked for the guard, which was detailed.

A coroner's jury will hold an inquest into the death today. Mrs. Johnston was reported in a state of collapse.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are clear over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and the high temperature still prevail everywhere east of the central Plains. There were light scattered showers over the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley states and southward over the mountains of West Virginia and Virginia. There was not sufficient rainfall to break the severe drouth except in scattered localities in the mountains of Virginia and West Virginia.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 0.1 foot. Lock No. 7, 9.1; Pittsburgh, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 9.2; Dam No. 5, 7.5; Dam No. 9, 8.1, and Dam No. 12, 4.8. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are overcast over portions of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and along the Atlantic coast, and thundershowers are in progress in the northern portions of the Ohio Valley states. Ceiling there ranges fgrom 2,000 to 5,000 feet; elsewhere the ceiling is unlimited. Visibility ranges from two miles to unlimited; wind, light from the south or southwest.

Local thundershowers will occur over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region this afternoond tonight and Tuesday.

Kurds Stage New Attack on Turks

INSTABUL, July 28.—(INS.)—Raiding Kurd tribesmen crossed the frontier from the Mosul River today and attacked the village of Orthan, forcing Turkish forces fighting the rebels at Mount Ararat to send detachments to the fresh outbreak. Turkish troops are bombing the Mount Ararat stronghold of the rebels heavily in the hope of crushing the uprising.

Two U. S. Soldiers Drowned in Panama

PANAMA, July 28.—(AP.)—Two American soldiers stationed at Fort Sherman, Canal Zone, were drowned when a rowboat capsized in the lagoon outside the coast artillery fort. They were Frederick Wakefield, New York, and Harvey A. Martin, Salt Lake City.

Emma Marble Dead, Once Stage Notable

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Miss Emma Marble, 87, a member of one of the oldest stage families in America, will be buried today from the Universal Chapel. She died Saturday. Miss Marble, who was the last member of a long line of actors beginning in England in the eighteenth century, last appeared on the stage 40 years ago, when she toured the country with Edwin Booth.

Soviet Trade Agent To Address Parley

WILLIAMSTON, Mass., July 28.—(INS.)—The first two round table conferences of the tenth session of the Institute of politics, opening here Wednesday, will be devoted to problems of Russia, it was announced today. These sessions will be held August 1 and 2.

Peter A. Bogdanov, of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency, will be among the speakers.

Bee's Sting on Thumb Costs Woman's Life

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—Stung on one thumb by a hornet while picking blueberries, Mrs. John Holt, of Butler Township, is dead. The coroner found the virus had penetrated a vein and was carried to the heart. Death came in a few minutes.

Tree-Perching Contests Spread Over Country

While most of the population of Pittsburgh and its environs sought relief away from the city over the week-end, the various tree sitters kept on sitting.

Result! James and Robert Gravely and their cousin, Sam King, youthful contenders for the tree-sitting championship, and what it may or may not eventually mean to them, passed their three hundredth hour keeping the birds from making nests in at least two trees.

PERCHERS ROUTED

Reports from East St. Louis, where the health commissioner chased juvenile tree sitters down out of the trees, state that Clarence Smith and Arthur Quick sat for 301½ hours up to last Wednesday.

Reports from Homestead indicate that 13 teams aloft there within a few blocks of each other are still sitting or sitting still, as the case may be.

A boy in Los Angeles has had a shower bath installed in his perch. Another in Michigan is up from now on. Two women at Charlotte, N. C., one weighing 180 and the other 213, started straining the branches Saturday in hope that they can make some money out of it.

CLAIMS RECORD

Calvin Neil, of Harrisburg, according to an Associated Press dispatch, is now claiming the sitting record for all time. He begins his third week aloft today. Harrisburgers, who otherwise would have been at the zoo yesterday, thronged around the trunk of his tree.

BYRD'S VESSEL ON EXHIBITION

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The City of New York, flagship of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, will start an exhibition tour in New York Saturday, August 9, Capt. Ashley C. McKinely announced today.

The ship will be tied up in the Hudson River for several weeks. Then it will go to Boston and other New England ports and down the Atlantic seacoast.

Quarters of the ship will be left as they were on the trips to and from the ice barrier, so visitors may see how the expedition members lived while at sea.

A crew of 12 men recruited from the expedition will remain aboard to act as guides, and the proceeds will go toward clearing a deficit which now amounts to $100,000.

Predict Early Frost As Katydids Chirp

STONY POINT, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—Folks hereabouts are convinced there will be frost right after Labor Day with an early fall. The katydids are chirping in hot weather. Their appearance, old-timers say, means frost in six weeks.

Teach Pupils to Run Electrical Devices

Name Was Good, But He Was Tagged

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—The traffic cop halted the big automobile, pulled out his book, poised his pencil, and asked, icily:

"What's your name?"

"John H. Alcock," said the automobile driver.

"Oh!" said the policeman. "The police commissioner? Well, well! I'm the Prince of Wales, myself, and the President wants to see you about driving through that stop light. What's your real name?"

"John H. Alcock," repeated the automobile driver.

And it was, indeed—not the commissioner, but his nephew. And the officer gave him the ticket, anyway.

HOLD 4 ON HILL FOR LOTTERY

County Detectives raided two stores in Wylie avenue today and arrested four persons, all charged with maintaining lotteries. At 1209 Wylie avenue, Rufus Thompson and Lou Alice Cranshaw, Negroes, were taken and at 1714 Wylie avenue, J. Hoffman and Norman Leifer were arrested.

All were given hearings immediately and held for court in $2,500 bail. Hoffman and Leifer posted bail.

'TORCH' VICTIM IN BURNED CAR

TOLEDO, July 28.—(INS.)—With a charred rope tied tightly about his neck to the steering wheel of a burned automobile and a flame-blackened hammer on the seat, the body of Russell Tibbs, 23, who was to have married tonight, was found early today on a highway near his home at Clyde, O., near here. Investigating police described it as a "torch murder."

Tibbs was to have married Miss Doris Kuns, of Clyde, but police are convinced they said, the youth had no rivals for the girl's affections.

They said the machine may have been owned by liquor runners and that the youth may have attempted to thwart the taking of it from his father's garage.

Vought's Funeral Held in New York

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The funeral of Chance Vought, aviation pioneer, who died last Friday, was held today from St. Thomas' Church on Fifth avenue.

Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, for whom Mr. Vought was an aero engineer in the early days of flying, and Orville Wright, Grover Loening, F. B. Rentschler, Thorne Donnelley, of Chicago, and Col. E. A. Deeds were among the honorary pallbearers.

Inquest Ordered In Woman's Hanging

CHICAGO, July 28.—(INS.)—An inquest was ordered today into the apparent suicide of Mrs. Eleanora Courtnay, Jr., whose body was found swinging from an attic rafter by her 9-year-old son.

ROBBER SLAIN IN DETROIT

DETROIT, July 28.—(INS.)—An unidentified robber was shot and killed and Policeman Evert Wuokila, 33, was seriously wounded today in a gun battle when the robber attempted to hold up a chain grocery store here.

Several pedestrians were endangered by stray bullets.

Another raid was made on a fashionable Grosse Pointe residence. After 60 police, armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs, had besieged the place for more than two hours, five Italian gangsters were taken into custody.

Owen Paughman, an oil station attendant, was beaten to death with a heavy chain by a robber who held him up early today.

AIRSHIP READY FOR SEA TRIP

CARDINGTON, Wales, July 28.—(INS.)—Fully provisioned and ready for its projected cruise to Canada, the British dirigible R-100 was swinging at its mast here today waiting the Air Ministry's order to start.

Crew and officers expressed themselves completely ready for an immediate start, and are eager for the trip. The airship has been fueled to full capacity.

The Canadian voyage, in the general opinion around here, may start tomorrow, but menacing weather reports point to a further delay.

Flames Destroy Tenement Floors

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed the rear of the second and third stories of a three-story brick building occupied as tenements.

Wife Sees Mate Drown in River

ELKTON, Md., July 28.—(AP.)—Frank Gregson, 27, of Wilmington, Del., was drowned in Elk River off Henderson's point yesterday while crabbing from an open boat with his wife and brother-in-law. The body was recovered.

Chides British Envoy For Importing Rum

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS.)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, new British ambassador, who reversed the dry policy of his predecessor and resumed the importation of liquor for embassy use, should get today a letter of protest from Samuel B. Woods, former mayor of Charlottesville, Va. Woods charged the ambassador with having taken advantage of a "technicality and of the immunity of your office to do yourself what would be a crime for a citizen of the United States to do."

'Thumb Touring' Snares Escapers

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 28.—(AP.)—Constable Okey Hawkins will receive $100 because he gave two "thumb tourists" a ride. The "thumb tourists" happened to be prisoners who escaped from State Penitentiary July 7. The convicts—Shirley Hannigan and Sehan Chinn—both of Fairmont, were on the highway near Grafton yesterday seeking rides to Fairmont. Hawkins came along, recognized the men and forthwith carried them to the county jail here.

Two Long Termers Bolt Prison Camp

AUBURN, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—Two convicts serving 20 years to life for murder, and another doing five years for a criminal attack, walked away from the Auburn prison road camp at Virgil, near Cortland, last night.

The camp, having 63 so-called good conduct prisoners under its jurisdiction, has no walls, only deadlines beyond which camp rules do not permit a prisoner to go.

Widow Reports Messages From Conan Doyle

LONDON, July 28.—(AP.)—Lady Conan Doyle, widow of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, said today that Sir Arthur had established definite communication with his family through the medium of a psychic photograph.

She told the Daily Herald in an interview that the Rev. Charles L. Tweedale, vicar of Weston, Yorkshire, and an investigator of psychic phenomena, sat for the photograph.

Sir Arthur's picture, Lady Conan Doyle said, is superimposed upon a photograph of Tweedale. The picture was made by a professional photographer, but the plate was developed and printed solely by Tweedale.

Furthermore, said Lady Conan Doyle, Peter Powell, of Chester, received through the spirit guide a message from Sir Arthur about a sealed envelope which Sir Arthur left with Lady Conan Dyle. She said there is such an envelope but that it can only be opened when Sir Arthur directs her to open it and tells her in advance what it contains.

She asserts that the family already has had several marvelous experiences and that there has been much evidence of communication from Sir Arthur.

12 AWAIT START OF DERBY EAST

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—(INS.)—With the first half of the All-American air derby from Detroit to Los Angeles and return completed, 12 airmen rested here today while their planes were being conditioned for the eastward flight.

Wednesday, the fleet of contestants, still led by Lieut. Lee Gehlbach, of Little Rock, Ark., again will take off for a series of hops to Detroit.

Gehlbach led the field to the Los Angeles airport yesterday on the flight from Douglas, Ariz. The Little Rock flier negotiated the 858 miles from Douglas in 4 hours, 16 minutes and 47 seconds. Of the eight laps Gehlbach has won six, officials said. His elapsed time he leads the field by more than two hours.

Behind Gehlbach but 11 minutes came J. R. Wedell of New Orleans, flying a specially constructed monoplane similar to Gehlbach's.

Herman Hamer of La Salle, Ill., arrived third. These three entrants received special respective prizes of $500, $300 and $200, awarded on behalf of the airport here.

Parents of 2 Killed, Suicide Pact Hinted

CHICAGO, July 28.—(INS.)—Despondency over a stomach ailment was held responsible today for a murder and suicide which took the lives of Edward Rath, 43, and his wife, Marie, 36.

Sending his two children to visit relatives, Rath shot his wife and himself. Police believe the couple may have entered in a suicide pact, for there was no evidence of a struggle.

Fascist Militia Man Stabbed to Death

MILAN, Italy, July 28.—(AP.)—Orazio Porcu, an official of the Fascist militia, was stabbed and killed in an altercation near Claretta Park here. Political motives were believed to be behind the crime.

HOOVERS BACK FROM CAMP

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—President Hoover arrived at the White House early today, refreshed after his week-end stay at his Virginia mountain lodge.

In the automobile with him on the return trip were Mrs. Hoover, Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries and Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician.

Mr. Hoover spent most of his time at the camp recuperating from the strain of intensive work and the hot weather in the capital. He discussed, however, affairs of the District of Columbia and returned with more definite ideas about his trip west this summer.

He went over the various tentative itineraries prepared by White House aides and it was indicated a definite announcement of his plans would be made soon.

4 MILLION VOTE IN CANADA

OTTAWA, July 28.—(INS.)—Canada's 4,000,000 voters went to the polls today to elect the 245 members of the Dominion's House of Commons.

The principal issue in the campaign was the tariff, the Liberals—in power for the past 12 years—urging a low tariff and the Conservatives demanding a high tariff in retaliation for the Hawley-Smoot bill of the United States.

R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party, and W. L. MacKenzie-King, Liberal leader and premier, closed the campaign with radio appeals.

Woman Kills Taxi Driver and Herself

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28.—(AP.)—Marty Ford, a cab driver, was shot and killed Sunday by Norma Clay, who then killed herself.

Ford was asleep in his cab at a street stand when the woman approached, and asked him if he wanted her to shoot him. He told her to "go ahead" and she did, Ford said to have come from Chicago, had been friendly with the woman, according to police reports.

Davidson Funeral Rites Set for Tomorrow

schools at 10:30 a. m., the swimming pools and recreation centers during the hours of the funeral. School flags were ordered to half mast for 30 days.

Six associate superintendents were named active pallbearers. They are Benjamin G. Graham, W. F. Kennedy, Frank M. Leavitt, R. M. Sherrard, S. E. Weber, J. Freeman Guy. There will be 68 honorary pallbearers.

TEACHERS' TRIBUTE

The Pittsburgh Teachers' Association today issued the following memorial on the death of Dr. Davidson:

"The Pittsburgh Teachers' Association express their great sorrow and loss in the death of William B. Davidson. Foremost in the country as an educator, executive and administrator, he was foremost in the hearts of his teachers as a counsellor, advisor and friend.

"They were proud of his outstanding leadership in national education; they loved him for the beauty of his soul."

Dr. Davidson, one of the country's outstanding educators, had been in ill health more than a year. His condition became serious a month ago.

Appointed last year by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur as a member of an advisory committee of 46 to study the relations of the national government to education, public tribute was again paid Dr. Davidson's wide success in his chosen work, his last recognition coming from the federal government.

HERE 17 YEARS

He was selected unanimously by the Board of Education as superintendent of the public schools in 1913, already possessing a record as an educational leader, and began his career here with the first day of 1914.

Dr. Davidson was born in Jamestown, Pa., May 8, 1863. He spent his boyhood in Kansas, graduating from the Kansas State Normal School at Emporia in 1886.

His educational career began as a teacher in the rural schools of Lyon County, Kansas, where he taught from 1882 to 1884 before his graduation.

Newspaper work also became part of his experience before he actively assumed his work as a teacher. He was city editor of an Emporia paper from 1885 to 1886.

He was superintendent of Topeka (Kan.) schools 12 years following his appointment in 1892 and left in 1904 to assume the same position in Omaha, Neb., where he remained until 1911. During this time he was a member for that state of the Rhodes Scholarship Committee.

CALLED TO WASHINGTON

Chosen by Congress as superintendent of Washington (D. C.) public schools in 1911, he held the post until 1914 when he assumed the directorship of Pittsburgh's schools.

Numerous educational institutions conferred honorary degrees upon him, including the University of Nebraska, Miami University, Bethany College, Duquesne University and the University of Pittsburgh.

He leaves, besides his wife, Mrs. Nettie A. Davidson, a daughter, Helen Mehard Davidson; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lowry, of Topeka, Kan., and two brothers, Samuel and James Davidson, of Yates Center, Kan.

FIND BIG GROUP OF MUMMIES

LONDON, July 28.—(Universal)—The biggest collection of mummies ever found together has been discovered in Egypt near the Sphinx.

Dr. Selem Hassan, professor of Egyptology in the University of Cairo and honorary keeper of the Cairo museum, who directed the excavation of the mummies, is now in London.

When work was about to be halted he came upon four layers of mummies. After his arrival here he commented:

"It is impossible to say how many mummies there are. I have examined only one of them and I am satisfied that they are mummies of very important people. There were leaves of gold upon their breasts and the wrappings were covered with hieroglyphics.

"They appear to be about 5,000 years old. The work of excavating them without damage will take about three years.

"I have discovered what I am pretty certain is a vast royal temple of the fifth dynasty. If I am correct, this 5,000-year old temple should contain magnificent relics in the shape of jewels and statues of enormous archeological value."

Bandit Kills Grocer Resisting Robbery

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—This is what you get for resisting, said a robber to Samuel Esserman, 45-year-old grocer, last night.

"This" was a bullet that killed him.

From the till and from two customers who saw the slaying, the robber and a compahion got less than $25.

Austrian Socialists Arrive for Study

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—Eighty-nine Austrian Socialists, including political leaders and teachers, arrived here today to spend two weeks visiting principal American cities in the study of industrial and economic conditions.

Dr. Robert Dannenberg, heading the party, said the Fascist movement in Austria was subsiding.

'Crash' Damages Airplane But Not Cow

MINEOLA, L. I., July 28.—(Universal)—His airplane crippled from collision with a cow, Frank Steinman, of Mineola, sought aid at Roosevelt Field. Steinman explained he had brought his plane down in a pasture near Bridgeport, Conn.

The plane went into a ground loop. Steinman knew he had hit something. He looked at his plane's left wing. Three ribs were broken.

VISITOR FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

NORFOLK, Va., July 28.—(AP.)—Found dead in a room at the Pinewood Hotel, Virginia Beach, yesterday, the body of a well-dressed foreigner, whose name was reported as Carl Rothausk, of Paris, France, was at a local undertaking establishment today, while efforts were made to locate relatives.

The body was found by a maid and death apparently had come 10 or 12 hours before. Personal effects found in the room included a checking arrangement whereby any amount up to $10,000 could be secured at any bank in the United States.

Passports and letters found among the effects were written in French, making it difficult for positive identification to be made.

Dr. R. M. Woodhouse, coroner of Princess Anne County, examined the body and said death had probably followed a heart attack.

Gibbons and Wife Get Pope's Honor

OSAKIS, Minn., July 28.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Gibbons, St. Paul, yesterday were invested with the insignia "bene merenti," meaning well deserving, in the new church building erected by the parish of the Immaculate Conception. The insignia was conferred on the former heavyweight boxer and his wife recently by Pope Pius XI.

The insignia, in the form of a gold medallion, is conferred particularly on those who have contributed to charity.

FINANCE NEWS IMPORTANT, FORBES SAYS

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—"And why shouldn't the general public be interested in the financial sections of our newspapers?"

B. C. Forbes, noted business expert and writer of a financial column in Hearst newspapers, answers his own question.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes are here for a brief visit. They are at the St. Francis Hotel, where they arrived from Portland, Ore.

Forbes said:

"We are all interested in living and in getting ahead, and since money and its uses are such important parts of our daily lives, it is inevitable that we should manifest a lively interest in financial news and views.

VOICES OPTIMISM

As to business conditions the country over, the stock market crash of last fall and its persistent "hang over." Forbes expressed himself rather optimistically, saying:

"We are at the bottom now and cannot very well get any lower. The turn must be for the better.

"Deflation is not only completed but has been greatly overdone. Our next movement will be upward.

"Better times will be reflected first in the stock market; and then in business circles generally. They should be manifest during the last quarter of 1930 and certainly not later than the first quarter of next year.

TIME TO GET BUSY

"The country is virtually bare of surplus stocks, prices are in all too many instances down to cost levels, and some below. Merchandise invoices are too low and purchasing is at a low ebb.

"Now is the time for all to get busy. It is the time to build—commodity prices are low and labor is efficient. It is the time to buy—and it is certainly the time to cheer up."

Forbes said he is purchasing stocks and has been for some little time, and that he expects to make money thereby.

WEST NOT PESSIMISTIC

He said the West is not so pessimistic as the East, was not so panicky and consequently did not participate so actively in the deflation process.

Forbes commented favorably on the announcement that the Southern Pacific is about to embark on a major expansion program, through acquisition of the Cotton Belt line and eventual extension of its lines direct to Chicago. He remarked:

"The Southern Pacific is a virile organization and when Paul Shoup, its president, comes to New York and talks, he is given marked attention.

KLEIN EXPLODES 'OCTOPUS' VIEW

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(Universal.)—The United States is the heaviest debtor nation in the world's history, owing seven and a half billion dollars to foreign nations.

In an address last night over the Columbia broadcasting system, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, thus exploded charges of economic competitors that the "American octopus" is rapidly buying control of all their industries.

He declared foreign nations, particularly those of Europe, are investing capital in American enterprises at the rate of about $450,000,000 a year, and that these investments are largely responsible for the economic stability they enjoy.

Of the 23 Rayon manufacturing corporations in this country, he stated, 20 are owned by European interests.

The British-Dutch Oil Company is now waging a relentless war on the automobile fuel market of this country.

Hawks Forced Down On Eastward Trip

COLUMBUS, O., July 28.—(AP.)—Capt. Frank Hawks, transcontinental speed flier who plans to try to establish a new East-West coast to coast record next week, landed his new "Travelair" mystery plane here last night.

On his way to New York from Wichita, Kan., he was forced to land by mechanical trouble. He expects to resume his journey eastward today.

P. R. R. Engineering Worker Promoted

Thomas M. Boyle, a member of the engineering corps of the Pennsylvania Railroad for 24 years, has been named assistant to the chief engineer of that company, E. W. Smith, vice president, announced. He was graduated in the 1907 class of the school of engineering, University of Pittsburgh.

Exquisite Afternoon Frock

Pattern 1993

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Both collar and skirt flare point to chic in this ravishing summer frock. An unusual feature of the cape collar is the shoulder seam which may be closed entirely to the end if desired, thus covering the arm almost to the elbow. There are sleeves with the pattern, also.

Pattern 1993 makes up beautifully in chiffon, georgette, voile, swiss or organdie. Pastel shades are cleverly combined to create the most glorious fabrics that are cool and refreshing on warm days. Today's model has a narrow belt and bodice bow of black velvet ribbon that is indeed chic.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 5¼ yards of 39-inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS. Book with pattern, 25c. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 242 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5.—Address your request to

BLAZE WRECKS MINE TIPPLE

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., July 28.—Firemen from five towns late yesterday battled flames which destroyed the Nioma coal tipple of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company one mile from here, resulting in a loss estimated by officials at $100,000.

Traffic on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad was tied up four hours when a part of the tipple fell across the tracks. Five firemen were overcome by smoke, but were revived and returned to their posts.

Fire companies were sent form Fayette City, Charleroi, Donora, Bellevernon and Monessen. Lack of water thwarted the work of firemen, who were forced to lay 5,000 feet of hose from the outskirts of Fayette City to the fire.

'RANCHER EARL' TO SELL HOME

LONDON, July 28.—(Universal)—The heavy English death duties are forcing the Earl of Egmont, known as "The Rancher Earl," to sell Avon Castle, Ringwood, Hampshire, his family seat according to the Daily Mail.

The Earl, but recently succeeded to his estates. Previously he had been a rancher in Western Canada. He is quoted as saying:

"Avon Castle has not been advertised. But it's in the market if I get a reasonable offer. I also have a lot of other property to dispose of, such as pictures and silver."

POPE SURPRISED BY REPORTS OF ILLNESS

Assures Justice Dowling He Is in Good Health; Touched by Many Inquiries

(Universal Service is able to present herewith the first authentic interview with Pope Pius XI in which the Pontiff sets at rest reports of his ill health. The following is an interview recorded in a private audience the Supreme Pontiff granted to Justice Victor James Dowling, presiding judge of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York.)

VATICAN CITY, July 28.—"How do I look? Do I look well?"

This was the abrupt question Pope Pius XI put to Justice Dowling when the New York jurist visited him recently, when rumors were rife of the Holy Father's dangerous illness.

Justice Dowling had been received in a most private audience in the papal private library, and their conversation, up to this point, had dealt with the work of the Roman church in America.

The Pontiff had asked of the work of American priests, the Knights of Columbus, and other organizations, and had expressed high praise of those Americans whose gifts have aided in the work of the church.

PUZZLED BY REPORT

Justice Dowling assured the Holy Father of his surprise at the Pontiff's evident health, strength and energy, to which His Holiness smilingly replied:

"I cannot exlain even to myself how it has been possible to spread such bad news about my 'poor health.' You can be sure it was not my fault if that information was so widespread.

"Besides what has already been published, I have received many letters from the faithful from all parts of the world, and especially from America, in which everyone has asked with filial interest about my health and expressed their heartiest wishes for my life's preservation.

TOUCHED AT INTEREST

"All added that they were praying for me and communing in my benefit, asking for my recovery. I was indeed touched.

"There was a tremendous amount of telegrams and letters from physicians offering their services and suggesting remedies and medicines for the different ailments from which they supposed I was suffering.

"On the contrary, thanks be to God, I am feeling most well, and can do everything I set out to do. What more could a man ask?

JESTS WITH DOCTORS

The Pontiff told the Justice that when the rumors about his bad health were most current, he gave an audience to representatives of the Italian Association of Catholic Physicians, telling them:

"If some newspapermen could see me so healthy among so many physicians, that would surely stop any pessimistic reports. With so many doctors around, I can be quite safe, even though in the rest of the world they will say I am quite ill."

JUST URGES CAUTION

Justice Dowling warned the Pope:

Your Holiness should take care of yourself. I hear that you begin work at 9 in the morning."

The Pontiff replied:

"Oh, even earlier. This morning at 8 o'clock it was my task to arise, and I am afraid it will be very late in the evening before I end my work."

"I understand that Your Holiness, besides your intense personal work, gives a great many audiences. I am told your audiences take four and five hours a day, and that you are always afoot."

The Pope answered:

"I cannot slow down my audiences. People come from every part of the world to see their common father and receive his greeting and blessing.

"I cannot deprive them of this consolation which gives them so much pleasure, and can do good to so many souls."

Educator's Rise Traced From Log Cabin

BALTIMORE, July 28.—(AP)—From a one-room log cabin in Virginia to a chair in the Westminster Theological Seminary is the record of Dr. Charles E. Forlines, who has been appointed director of religious education for the Maryland conference of the Methodist Protestant church.

As a boy Dr. Furlines was a sweeper in a cotton mill at 25 cents a day. Out of the money he earned working overtime he purchased a small library and laid the foundation for his scholastic education, which began when he had saved $50.

AMERICAN GETS EINSTEIN NOTES

BERLIN, July 28.—(Universal)—The original scrap of paper on which Albert Einstein made his first calculations, which later developed into the famous Einstein theory of relativity, are now in the possession of an American.

The noted savant has given Ralph Beaver Strassburger, of Norristown, Pa., financier, newspaper proprietor and sportsman, his original notes, written 25 years ago when he was a student in Switzerland.

This precious document which Einstein has kept for a quarter of a century has been eagerly bid for by autograph collectors throughout the world. Up until now, the professor refused to part with it.

Strassburger, who has been spending some time in Germany, stein at his summer home in Fo[illegible] recently spent a day with Ein[illegible]dam.

TENTH STREET AND PENN AVENUE

U. S. SHIPS HOLD TRADE RATES

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP.)—Thirty nations competed for world steamship traffic to and from the United States in 1928-1929, but the shipping board estimates American vessels carried 41 per cent of the total tonnage.

In a report, the board said American ships are "holding their own in competing for cargoes of the foreign commerce of the United States.

The percentage of the total cargo tonnage in this trade carried by American vessels was the same in 1929 as in 1928, but the board predicted:

"The new construction program now under way and projected will facilitate the services now operating under the American flag and it is anticipated that a substantial increase in the carriage of both passengers and freight will result with the placing of these modern ships in our established services."

The board estimated that United States vessels obtained one-third of the $1,100,000,000 cost of transporting passengers and cargoes in the American foreign trade.

Connellsville Units Going to Guard Camp

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 28.—The Howitzer Company and medical detachment of the One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, National Guard, will leave Friday night for Mount Gretna. Both have full quotas.

Dentist, Veteran Of Civil War, Dies

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 28.—Dr. Samuel D. Woods, 82, a civil war veteran and one of the city's leading practicing dentists for 35 years is dead, here. He was born at Rogersville, Greene county, and attended Waynesburg College.

Real Estate

A substantial comeback in home building will follow the marked decline which was reported June 30, according to builders, architects and others connected with the construction industry. The advice of Calvin Coolidge "that times may be better or they may be worse, but time to build a home is now" has taken hold of a goodly number of prospective home owners.

Inquiries for home sites are increasing, it was reported. A prolonged season of hot weather has increased the popularity of the suburbs. A better building prospect is found in the keen interest manifested in the development of new plans where modern improvements are furnished and also in the moderate cost home built on modern plans and supplied with up-to-date conveniences.

Henry P. Jackson has purchased for a consideration of $10,500 a seven-room brick dwelling and five garages at 7633 Thoga street from Henry Halliwell. The new owner will take possession August 1.

Henry Apel has sold to Peter Young a brick dwelling of eight rooms and bath at 5448 Kincaid street for a private consideration. The lot is 50 by 106 feet.

Alexander R. Coates has acquired from Charles K. White title to a property in Bracken avenue, Brentwood, the lot involved being 65 by 298 feet.

M. Fielder, of 2001 Library road, has contracted with C. F. Bilstein to erect a brick dwelling in Odette street, Thirty-second Ward. In the application for the building permit the estimated cost is $6,000.

Frank Hahn has conveyed to Louis Holmes a property in Climax street, Eighteenth Ward, with a lot 25 by 100 feet. The consideration is not disclosed.

The Hemp Rope

CHAPTER I.

Robin Dale, star reporter on the Daily Journal, was at his desk when the telephone rang.

He, for almost an hour, had been deeply immersed in the crime-detector apparatus with which the police of Chicago were experimenting. The device was called the Chirlot and was quite simple in conception and use. A motion picture was produced, having for its action the enactment of a crime as conceived by the police. If there was more than one plausible explanation of the action of the criminal a second, or even a third picture was produced. The picture or pictures were made in silent form. Sound of any kind was considered to be a fatally-distracting factor. A simple electrical apparatus was synchronized with the motor of the film projector attached to a pressure gauge wrapped about the suspect's left arm and set at normal blood pressure. Connected directly with this was an indicator needle which recorded the variations of blood pressure on an electrically-advanced platin. Because of the synchronization any point of variation on the completed chart traced by the needle could be matched to the very frame of the film.

In this way the reactions of a suspect, through the uncontrolable heart-impulses, gave invariable proof of the true portions of the imaginative, filmed re-enactment of the crime.

Robin Dale had read the article a second time with studied interest when the telephone summoned him. Capt. Blake, chief of the homicide squad, was calling.

"Can you get over to headquarters in 10 minutes, Dale? Old Jonathan Hubbard's been murdered and we'll be leaving by that time to investigate. If we've gone you know where the Hubbard place is up on Fort Washington avenue."

"I'm leaving right now, Capt. Blake."

Robin Dale made a hurried report to Elbert Bailey, the city editor, and was on his way. In the cab on the trip to police headquarters Dale made a hurried survey of the facts known about Jonathan Hubbard. The name had broken into print on two or three occasions. The last incident Robin Dale remembered quite distinctly as he had reported it for the Daily Journal.

A report had been current on Washington Heights that the old mansion, one of the few still existent in New York, was haunted. People in the neighborhood reported that in the dead hours of the night strange lights would come and go off in the attic of the huge, frame dwelling.

Robin Dale had been assigned to get a story out of it and had, at that time, met Jonathan Hubbard an eccentric old fellow well over seventy though still straight as a ramrod, and proud of his six feet of ruddy health. He lived alone in the old house with a single servant, a middle-aged German woman. They both laughed at the idea that the house was haunted but Jonathan permitted Dale to spend two nights in the attic. Nothing ghostly of any nature appeared during these vigils and Dale filled out his story with a history of the Hubbard family.

In the days when New York extended no further north than Fourteenth street the Hubbards owned practically all of what is now Washington Heights. With such a start it was natural that old Jonathan Hubbard should be immensely wealthy. It was also natural that, with the continued wealth of the famly, its descendants would eventually run to eccentricities.

One odd feature had come to life during Dale's investigation. It had to do with a dissolute Hubbard, head of the family during the early part of nineteenth century. He was an inveterate gambler and a heavy drinker. Having lost practically all his wealth at the gaming-tables he was supposed to have put up the Hubbard estate as a stake which he lost to a gambler named Darrel.

That night Darrel was murdered and as the deed was never found, the estate remained with the Hubbards.

It became a legend that the lost deed was hidden somewhere in the Hubbard mansion, and this belief was probably what led to the report that the house was haunted. The popular conception was that the ghost of Darrel, the gambler, had come back to find the long-lost deed.

The journey to headquarters gave Dale sufficient time to review those few facts. He found Capt. Blake, Sergt. Jardin, Phelps, the fingerprint expert, and the police photographer already in the police car. Dale jumped in and the car started. He learned that Dr. Wattles had proceeded from his home uptown to the scene of the crime.

"Yes, few facts yet, Dale . . . Hubbard's housekeeper called up about 20 minutes ago, nine-twenty, to be exact, saying that she had just returned to the house after being away overnight, and found Jonathan Hubbard dead, hanged from a rafter in the attic. I told her to leave everything as it was, and to allow no one except members of the police to enter the place."

During the drive to Fort Washington avenue Robin Dale gave his police companions a brief resume of the facts within his knowledge concerning the Hubbard family. The facts were unusual enough to portend an interesting case.

The Hubbard mansion occupies almost a square block. The dwelling is a huge, three-storied frame structure, dating back more than 100 years. In building it none of the present-day methods of skimping for space were used. All the rooms were large and high-ceilinged, with wide, ample hallways, and the attic floor, with its slanting roof, gave a height of about 14 feet from the floor to the apex of the roof. A beam, supporting these, ran across the attic at a height of approximately 12 feet.

Suspended from this beam, by a hemp rope about four feet long noosed about his neck, was the remains of Jonathan Hubbard. The rope was tightly knotted about an immense hook driven into the beam. On the floor, near the body, was an overturned chair to give the affair the appearance of suicide, but this theory was neglected from the start.

With the exception of the overturned chair the attic was practically bare. When Robin Dal, entered the huge room with the police Dr. Wattles had about completed his examination.

"Dead since midnigh.. last night . . . strangulation!"

LODGE SEES U. S. IN PEACE ROLE

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Sir Oliver Lodge, British scientist, speaking Sunday from London over the Columbia broadcasting network on "The Destiny of America," said the United States "probably hardly yet realizes the part it is to play in human progress."

Mentioning the nation's great wealth, geographic isolation and skill in industry and science, he said this country ultimately would take the lead in the world-wide co-operation of peoples.

Sir Oliver expressed the conviction that the first steps for world peace were already well under way. He pointed out the need of a power to keep international order, and said:

"I believe in due time the police force of the world will be in the hands of America. Such a power can only be in the hands of a people who can afford it, a people who can be trusted not to abuse it."

TARIFF SCORED BY COPELAND

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS.)—Through the Democratic National Committee Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, has launched an attack against the new tariff bill. He declared:

"Lack of discrimination in fixing tariff rates has added to the distress of the present era of commercial depression, and is in no small degree responsible for the continuance of the period of industrial woe."

"In signing the bill President Hoover showed no hesitancy in affixing his name not only to a few rates which may have been justified, but to certain schedules that heap an additional $1,000,000,000 to the already stiff burden of the cost of living this country is bearing. The circumstance that this is a period of curtailed income and of unemployment did not deter him.

Copeland quoted figures to show that the tariff bill has cost New York an average of nearly $42,500,000 a month.

Three Men Killed When Plane Falls

MATAWAN, N. J., July 28.—Three persons were killed as an airplane owned and piloted by Al Buddle, of Red Bank, crashed a half mile away from its airport yesterday. Those killed, in addition to the pilot, were George Schrank, of Freeman, and John Housman, of Morganville.

34 Building Permit Hearings Scheduled

Hearings on 34 applications for building permits were to be held by the Zoning Board of Adjustment today. They are permits refused by the Building Inspection Bureau, most of which are for one and two-family dwellings.

Carries Out Threat To Leap From Bridge, Dies

DOVER, O., July 28.—Carrying out a threat made as he passed two acquaintances, to jump into the river, Antonio Companero, 24, a laborer, ended his life by leaping from a bridge here. To Dewey Young and W. B. Cook, Companero smilingly called:

"Goodby, I'm going to jump off the bridge."

They tried to overtake him but were too late. The body was recovered by firemen.

How the Serpent Crawls.

Some snakes have more than 300 vertebrae—these have ball and socket joints—to each vertebra, except those in the tail and neck, is attached a pair of ribs, and to each pair of these a scale-like plate under the body is fastened—when the snake travels he moves his ribs forward, raising the edges of the plates—these grasp the rough surface of the ground and are pushed backward—by moving the ribs first on one side and then the other he makes a forward movement—a snake is almost helpless on a smooth surface such as a pane of glass.

REVOLT LOOMS IN AFGHANISTAN

LONDON, July 28.—(AP.)—A Daily Herald dispatch from Peshawar says a widespread revolt is brewing against Nadir Shah, king of Afghanistan.

The paper adds that the insurrection is led by followers of Bachai Sakao, who usurped the Afghan throne last year, but later was deposed and killed.

One report asserted the rebels had arrivad near Kabul without opposition by Nadir's forces, who had refused to fight because they had not been paid, but another said that the rebels had been routed.

WOMAN MAY OUTBID GANDHI

LONDON, July 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, woman leader of the Indian Nationalists, is said by the Daily Herald to be willing to compromise with the government somewhat short of Mahatma Gandhi's demands for independence.

Gandhi, who is in Yeroda prison at Poona, is reported holding out for some assurance from the viceroy that his demands for Indian independence will be met as a condition to his entering negotiations and attending the London conference this fall.

The Herald bases its story on a statement by Sir Ramaswamy Aiyar, who says he visited Gandhi and Mrs. Naidu in Yeroda prison. Mrs. Naidu was jailed after she led salt raids.

CALCUTTA, India, July 28.—(AP.)—A British police sergeant named Ford today was reported stabbed in the back by a native who escaped. Officials said Ford was dying.

OFFICER LOSES LIFE IN GALE

RICE LAKE, Wis., July 28.—(AP.)—One man was killed and much property damaged during a severe wind storm which struck this section last night. Louis Gagner, a local policeman, was electrocuted when he came in contact with a power wire which had blown down.

Gagner was directing traffic around a tree which had pulled down the wire, when the accident occurred.

The wind blew off the roof of the Elks Building and landed it across the street, on top of four automobiles. One car had four persons in it, but none was injured.

Because of the numerous light and power wires torn down, the city was without lights.

Wife Tries to Haul Mate 1,800 Miles

BALTIMORE, July 28.—(INS.)—Police today were caring for Mrs. Mary Hemphill, 40, and her paralytic husband, Leonard 45, until their children in Kansas can be reached, as a result of an attempt by the devoted wife to haul her husband about 1,800 miles to Meade County, Kan., in a child's express wagon.

The woman was pulling the wagon in which her husband was sitting along Pratt street yesterday when a policeman stopped her. She had spent three of her last $4 for the wagon.

TORNADO RAZES TURKISH CITY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 28.—(AP.)—A torpado and hailstorm killed 20 persons and injured hundreds in Adrianople yesterday. Eighty per cent of the houses were destroyed and crops in the surrounding country were ruined.

Nine minarets crashed to the ground, as did the tops of the four minarets on the famous mosque of the Sultan Selim, one of the greatest treasures of Moslem art.

FOX 'ADS' GO TO NEWSPAPERS

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The Fox Theaters Corporation announces that henceforth it will advertise only in newspapers. Money heretofore used in other forms of advertising will be used for increased newspaper space.

The reasons assigned are superior flexibility, ability to make last minute changes and digestion of newspaper advertisements at the convenience of the reader.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO TALES, REVIEW AND LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Evalyn Knapp Given Role In Sophisticated Film, 'Red Hot Sinners'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.

For the first time since she arrived on the Warner lot, Evalyn Knapp is going to play a part that is not an accidental overnight decision when she assumes the feminine lead in "Red Hot Sinners."

Dorothy Mackaill

Upon her arrival from New York a few months ago she was given a test for an unimportant role in "Maybe It's Love." Looking at the film the next day the officials immediately cast another actress in her place, and phoned her that she was to be the leading lady in "Penny Arcade."

She had just finished that picture when Dorothy Mackaill and Warners had their disagreement over "Rivers End," and Evalyn stepped into that lead on another 12 hours' notice.

The blonde actress hails from Kansas, where she played in stock. At her director's suggestion she went to New York to acquire an English accent which he claimed would be an asset in her stage work. She mastered the accent but strangely enough has never used it in a play.

"Red Hot Sinners" is a sophisticated story of Palm Beach society. It will be directed by Ray Enright.

AN ALTERNATIVE

Wesley Ruggles, who has tested nearly every actress in Hollywood for the part opposite Richard Dix in "Cimarron," with no favorable results, has about resigned himself to one of two alternatives. He says he is either going to wait for Mitzi Green to grow up or sign Julian Eltinge.

JOE'S HOBBY

Joe E. Brown is the third actor in the film colony to form a baseball team. The other two manager-players are also comedians. Lucian Littlefield conducts the destinies of the "Lucien Littlefield Tigers," and Buster Keaton is at the helm of his M. G. M. Club. All three teams meet amateur teams around Southern California Sunday afternoons.

Joe E. Brown

Before entering pictures Brown was in professional baseball, having played with the St. Paul Club. Later he went to the big league and spent most of seven months on the New York Yankees' bench. He is playing short stop on his team.

KNITTING CONTEST

In competition with the almost forgotten flagpole sitters and the more recent endurance fliers, Pert Kelton, Tiffany player, is scheduled to go into an endurance knitting contest in an attempt to win a $50 wager.

The bet was made at a party given by Pert at her own hotel in Hollywood. In an argument regarding domesticity the assembled girls admitted that the star was an excellent business woman, but added that all business women possessed little domestic ability, which of course eliminated the actress. Also they said that most business women made poor wives.

That was the last straw. Pert proved that she could cook and wagered the fifty that she could knit a seven-foot scarf or a sweater within 12 hours. Her bet was covered by Betty Pierce. Rex Lease's fiancee, and the event takes place in the near future.

MODERN SKIPPER

The Volga Boatman has turned into a modern skipper. William Boyd, who made screen fame for himself in the De Mille film of that name, has purchased a 60-foot cabin cruiser and is busy dashing up and down the coast before leaving for Arizona to start "The Painted Desert." The romance between the Pathe star and Dorothy Sebastian still continues and looks like a serious one.

HOLMES BORROWED

Since Phillips Holmes' appearance in "The Devil's Holiday" he has been one of the busiest young players in Hollywood.

The Edmund Goulding picture has proven to be the turning point in his career, as he has been loaned by Paramount for three leads since its completion.

Fox is the latest company to borrow him. He reports Monday to appear opposite Lois Moran in "Play Called Life," which is being directed by Chandler Sprague. Walter Byron and Mrs. Pat Campbell are other important members of this cast.

Previous to the Fox assignment he was at Pathe in "Her Man" and at Warners for "Barber John's Boy."

700 Attend Annual Church Homecoming

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 28.—Over 700 persons attended the annual homecoming and reunion of the Hickory Square Methodist Protestant Church at Broadford yesterday. Dr. L. M. Herrington, of McKees Rocks, was the principal speaker.

Warner Bros. List Jubilee Month, Aviation Week

Beginning next Friday, August 1, Warner Brothers' silver jubilee month, marking their 25 years in the motion picture industry, will be celebrated all over the world. Vice President Charles W. Curtis will inaugurate the observance by pressing a button in Washington, the effect of which will be heard simultaneously in the greatest cities of the United States, signalizing the opening of a notable group of pictures.

Opening the celebration in Pittsburgh will be "The Dawn Patrol" in the Stanley, starring Richard Barthelmess, and "For the Defense," in the Enright, starring William Powell.

In conjunction with the showing of Richard Barthelmess in "The Dawn Patrol" in the Stanley, beginning Thursday, all Warner theaters in the Pittsburgh district will celebrate "Aviation Week." Special events will include an air parade over the city at noon Thursday. A complete pilot's course, ground school course and a number of free flights will be given away in Warner Brothers' theaters during the week.

Aerial

Pilot Saves Crash When Motor Fails

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 28.—Quick work by Pilot Jack Faulkner at the controls of a cabin monoplane, averted an accident here Sunday when the airplane's motor went dead at 500 feet. The plane swooped to a forced landing in an oats field, broke off some of the landing gear, and swung quickly around, damaging one wing. The pilot and two airport officials with him suffered no injury.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That the term cowboy originated in Westchester County, N. Y., during the Revolution to designate Tories and guerrillas who harassed Colonials by thefting their cattle, and so forth.

That orange juice, with sugar in it, is not good for you.

That battleships are lined with cocoanut shells.

That no door in the House of Commons must be locked. It originated in olden times when locked doors implied conspirators.

That bourbon is the hardest whisky to imitate.

That the origin of handshaking dates from the time people shook paws to show that they were unarmed.

That if you have an ordinary gold dollar, dated 1875, you can get one hundred silver dollars for it from A. C. Roessler, of 140 South Parkway, East Orange, N. J.

That some clouds are ten miles thick.

That an apple a day doesn't keep the doctor away. Even a good ripe apple takes about 90 minutes to digest and it contains little of the vitamin C essential to every well-balanced diet.

That German silver is the invention of Chinese and is not silver at all, but a combination of inferior metals.

That an Irish stew is an English dish; and that an Irishman's hurricane (nautical term) is a dead calm.

That the Russians invented what we call the Turkish bath.

That the famous Cleopatra's Needle, now in Central Park, was made thousands of years before that gal was born.

That despite popular belief there is no definite connection between the moon and the weather.

That the cramp which attacks swimmers is usually from one of two causes, one being interruption of digestion and the other—excessive use of muscles unaccustomed to exercise.

That no man... the circumstances no court can make you marry.

That many attempts to extract the gold in sea-water have been made, but the cost was always prohibitive.

That more than a thousand books have been written in support of the theory that Shakespeare didn't write those plays.

That a cod can have nine million children.

That the hottest place in the United States is a valley between Panamint and Funeral Mountains in Calif., where often it is 122.

That the largest and hottest geysers are in Iceland.

That the best species of blackberries are white when ripe.

That sun dials are not accurate—except H. I. Phillips'.

That the reason why fishermen are so particular about having bystanders keep quiet is that sound travels four times as quickly though water as through air.

That submarines were used before steamboats.

That the great flounces of women's sleeves and the large cuffs which were in vogue up to 20 yrs. ago were originated by Anne Boleyn, second of Henry VIII's many wives, who had six fingers on each hand. To cover this deformity she created the trick sleeves.

That the strongest man in the Revolutionary War was Peter Francisco for whose remarkable feats of strength and valor the Continental Congress awarded a sword seven feet long. This was actually used by Pete, who is now buried in Shockoe Cemetery, Richmond, Va.

That nearly a mile of wire is used in an ordinary piano.

That the Anti-Saloon League claims that it put 177,970 saloons out of business when the law was passed. Also, 1,090 breweries, and 216 distilleries in the U. S. There are, however, almost thrice that many speakeasies and other "amusement" places today.

That among other thrills scheduled for the Saks-Winchell broadcast Monday over WABC at 7:45 will be Marion Harris, who will 'torch' Phil Baker's new chune "Humming a Love Song." Don't miss her!

And that the school of hard knocks has very few holidays.

STOMACH TROUBLES EXPLAINED

Danger of Excess Stomach Acid and the Serious Results From Them Can Now Be Eliminated in a Large Percentage of Cases.

Super-Acidity (too much acid) in the stomach is the reason a large percentage of people suffer from stomach trouble. Depression, nervousness and sleeplessness are also usually caused by excess acidity and gas.

Nearly everything you do, everything you eat, everything you drink makes acid which often results in sour stomach, gas, heavy lumps pressing above your stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, colds and mental depression. Without the normal "alkaline reserve" you are almost sure to suffer from these troubles. If you do suffer, there is nothing which will help you like Acidine. Nothing that will make the excess acid neutral so quickly, and keep it neutral so long, even far down into the intestines where acid often causes pain and inflammation.

A well known physician says: "I am convinced that Acidine is an anti-acid of first rank. For those who are troubled with gas on the stomach, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

RAE VAN STRONG
23 West 51st St., New York, N. Y.

"Rich or heavy food and my stomach didn't get along at all," says Miss Van Strong. "I guess I would be that way yet if I hadn't heard about Acidine. It relieves me quicker than anything I ever heard of. I can take a dose of it now, and in a few minutes my stomach is settled, the gassy belching is gone, and so is that burning sensation in my throat."

If any readers of this paper have had or are having similar troubles, they can purchase Acidine at any drug store. No formula for over-acidity surpasses Acidine. Its instantaneous action in clearing up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress are more pleasing than you ever dreamed possible. If it fails to clear up your distress, you should see your physician at once. Acidine is safe, harmless and pleasant. Used by millions of people. It is sold under a money-back guarantee that if it fails to help you, it costs you nothing.

'TIS FOREIGN LEGION AND DESERT SAND IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Ralph Graves and Jack Holt are in the French Foreign Legion now. They tramp through endless miles of sand on the Harris screen in a picture, "Hell's Island." And they love the same girl. But, of course, only one of them gets her in the grand fadeout. The other gets a bullet in the back.

The picture has much that we have met with before in the movies. There is the brutal sergeant. It's nothing for him to leave a wounded man to die under a scorching desert sun. There is the soldier with the comedy complex. No movie army is complete, you know, without at least one clown. And there is the the cabaret girl. And she is a good little girl, after all.

LITTLE WHITE DUCKS!

Come a couple of lively battles. One is between the Foreign Legion and the Riffs. Pop, pop, pop go the soldiers' guns. And the Riffs topple over with the mechanical grace of little white ducks in a shooting gallery. The other is a fistic battle between Messrs. Graves and Holt. "Bam" and "wham" goes the sound machine, registering the blows.

The closing sequences of the the story are laid in a convict colony, known as "Hell's Island." So now you know where the title comes from.

AWAY THEY DASH.

Dorothy Sebastian has the heroine role. She turns out to be the kind of a gal who will wait for a fellow 10 years. But she doesn't need to. Her boy friend manages to escape a prison and away the two of them dash in a motor boat.

"Hell's Island" is an adventure film. But it is a far cry from a "Beau Geste."

We Now Present

By ROY JANSEN
Until Darrell V. Martin Returns

The first coast-to-coast appearance of David W. Guion, authority on cowboy and mountaineer music, takes place tonight at 9:30 o'clock and will be broadcast through station WCAE. "The Bold Vaquero," the first cowboy song ever to be published, Guion learned as a child from a wandering Englishman and believes it dates back to the days of the troubadours and minstrels. The program, in addition to breakdowns and spirituals, will include "The Lonesome Whistler," a musical picture of a solitary Negro aimlessly walking down a dark alley at night, whistling as he goes.

David Guion.

Good music never grows old, and proof of this is that "Beautiful Blue Danube," undoubtedly the world's most popular waltz, will be featured tonight in the Stromberg-Carlson program over KDKA at 10 o'clock. The Rochester Civic Orchestra, under direction of Paul White, will give a generous list of splendid airs. Originally written for a male chorus, "Beautiful Blue Danube" was a flat failure when produced in Vienna more than 50 years ago. Rewritten for orchestra by its composer, Johann Straus, it immediately became a world hit.

Wendell Hall, who writes not only the music, but the words, to his songs, and who has sung all of his creations for the radio and records, will be master of ceremonies during a program of lively music at 10:30 tonight over WCAE. Sarah Ann McCabe, soprano, will be featured with selections from DeKoven's operetta, "Robin Hood" and "Carnation."

The other day KDKA's Good News reported some facts about Molly Pitcher.

Molly is a homing pigeon belonging to the United States Army. She had been missing about four weeks. She was one of the most dependable and fastest birds connected with Fort Monmouth, N. J., and the boys there were greatly perturbed. However, Molly was found at Camp Dix in a bad way. She had evidently had a fight with a hawk and was somewhat mussed up, but is now recovering in a veterinary hospital.

Unless Grove City College is more liberal in financing station WSAJ, it is evidently doomed to go off the air, according to a report sent out from Washington. Armstrong Perry, educational radio expert with the Federal Bureau of Education, makes this announcement, and he intimated that many other educational broadcasters are in a similar condition. During the past six months 14 of the 77 educational broadcasting stations ceased operation, he said, and laid the blame on lack of financing and also lack of technique in management.

Lot of Navy boys in radio work. Everett Clark, who writes the "Peewee and Windy" sketches heard in the National Broadcasting Company Hickok program, served 12 years in the Navy and acted as press representative for the Marine Corps during the Nicaraguan campaign.

BIG COAL LAND TRACT SOLD

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 28.—The M. A. Hanna Company, of Cleveland, has purchased the holdings of the Sagamore Coal Company in the Indian Creek Valley which includes 1,400 acres of coal and 70 houses, 53 at Sagamore and 17 at Romney. The price was not made public.

The Sagamore company, built up by the late Isaac Taylor, of Pittsburgh, had been operated by James Taylor, a son, and S. A. Gilmore, a son-in-law, both of Pittsburgh. Six hundred tons of coal is the daily average output. One hundred and 50 men are employed.

Star Back in Films After Fatal Fight

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 28.—(INS.)—Dorothy Mackaye was back in Los Angeles today to resume her career on the stage—a career which was interrupted more than three years ago when her husband, Ray Raymond, stage comedian, died following a fist fight with Paul Kelly, juvenile actor. She is to be starred in a play titled "A Cup of Sugar."

Kelly was released from San Quentin last August. Miss Mackaye was released from the same prison shortly before.

I

Housewife or Grocer

Whose interest should come first

A & P, though a grocer itself, votes for the housewife. She has a right to as much good food as her money can buy under the most favorable conditions.

Not everyone takes this view. By some strange reasoning certain people see harm to human welfare in cutting your food bill. A & P cuts your food bill to the minimum. So these people are against A & P.

They are all for raising the standard of living—provided their profits go up the same slope. How the housewife is to pay her part . . . that, they say, is her affair, not the grocer's.

A few noisy politicians have taken up the cry, shouting "Away with low profits!" as loudly as, when it suited their purpose to denounce profiteers, they shouted "Away with high profits!"

But A & P sticks to its knitting. Its job is the same today as it was seventy years ago . . . to make it easier for more housewives to buy the best food.

That's A & P's story in a nutshell.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Doyle Arranges Debut

Society folks, like all the human race, find that their present life is colored by anticipation of the future as well as by participation in the present, which is, by the way, most pleasant just now because of resort life in the East and North and informal summer entertainments here at home.

But no matter how delightful or how busy the aspect of the social world may be, everyone finds time to anticipate events in the future. And now that we know who practically all the debutantes of the coming season will be, we're already wondering about the buds of year after next.

Rebecca Doyle, another sister, who made her debut during the past winter, is in Watch Hill, R. I., the house guest of the William Christopher Robinsons, of Ridge avenue, North Side, and "Franklin Arms," Sewickley.

* * *

Next month Eugenia Nash, daughter of the Thomas Nashes, of Bellefonte street, who is a debutante of the coming fall, will leave for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va., to be the guest of relatives and friends.

August Visit

Eugenia will make her bow at the Norfolk Cotillion, held always in early November. Her aunt, Mrs. Reverdy Jones, of Portsmouth, Va., will entertain in the home of the bud's late grandfather and grandmother, the Edgar Nashes, of Portsmouth, the scene of many a debut in the Nash family. The historic family home will be opened especially for the debut party. And Eugenia will also be presented to society in Pittsburgh. Her mother is planning to give a luncheon for her.

* * *

No matter how high the mercury soars society women never lose their enthusiasm for golf. And golf tournaments figure prominently in the lives of folks in town for the summer or for a few weeks.

Today a group of golfers is in Erie and will stay there, tomorrow, too, to play in the annual invitation tournament of the Kahkwa Club of Erie.

* * *

Several events have been scheduled for the month of August at the Pittsburgh Country Club in Beechwood boulevard. On Tuesday, August 12, there will be a bridge luncheon for women and every Wednesday there will be a golf event for the women. Every Thursday there will be a special dinner and on Thursday, August 14, there will be a mixed foursome and a mixed two-ball foursome, followed by a dinner dnace. Every Saturday there will be a special dinner and dance and on Sundays there will be the usual buffet supper.

* * *

Travel Popular

Dr. and Mrs. George O. Cruikshank have as their house guest Dr. Cruickshank's sister, Hazel Cruickshank, of Cabot.

Have you heard that Mrs. Alexander M. Brooks, of Sewickley, and her niece, Mary Colwell Jennings, daughter of the Richard W. Jenningses, of Sewickley, sailed Friday night for Europe?

Alexander M. Brooks, Jr., who sailed for Europe earlier in the summer, will meet his mother and Mary in Paris.

After being the guests of the Stuart H. Robinsons, of Sewickley, Mrs. Garrett Denise Bowne and her sons, Garrett, Jr., and Hays Gormly Bowne, will return to their home in Brookline, Mass., today.

And another European trip is planned. The Frank R. Dravos, of Sewickley, will leave Wednesday for England.

From the Eastern Shore comes news of a summer wedding of interest to Pittsburgh folks. Kathleen Grier Ritter, daughter of Howard A. Ritter, of Buttonwood Farm, Bristol, has named August 23 as the date for her marriage to Joseph Wilkes Jennings Cooper, son of the J. Crossan Coopers, of Roland Park, Baltimore.

Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler was the guest Thursday afternoon, of the Chautauqua Woman's Club at Chautauqua, N. Y., bringing to the several hundred representative club women of the country, including many Pittsburgh women, graphic portrayals of European celebrities.

Fresh from a tour of Europe, Miss Butler's impressions of the notables whom she met and talked with were related. Interspersed with her description of personalities were comments on the present political situation abroad. She explained that traveling as she did with her father, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, she had an unusual opportunity of meeting and exchanging ideas with statesmen controlling the destiny of European countries.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the Chautauqua Woman's Club, who each season invites to Chautauqua outstanding women in American life, arranged a reception in Miss Butler's honor following her talk. In keeping with her usual policy of inviting men as well as women to club functions, Mrs. Pennybacker made the reception a joint one, Miss Butler sharing the honors with Dr. John Erskine, author-musician and president of the Juilliard Musical Foundation.

The Brentwood Civic Club is planning an exhibition of modern quilts, made by club members, and of old quilts. Monday afternoon there will be a meeting in the home of the president, Mrs. M. A. Keefer, of Francis street, to make plans for collecting antique pieces of handwork. In charge of the exhibition are Mrs. Daniel Leech and Miss Elizabeth Sorg.

Quilt Show

The club is to hold a garden party on August 16 at the home of Miss Ada and Miss Louise Kaufman. Mrs. C. H. Bracken, Mrs. Daniel Feick, Mrs. Charles Martin and Miss Minnie Riley are in charge of arrangements for the party. The proceeds will be used for various philanthropies and for the club's tree planting event.

The Brentwood Council has given the Civic Club a tract just inside the Community Park, where the club house is to be erected. The members of the club plan to swim in the Brentwood pool every Thursday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock.

There will be a verse contest on home subjects this fall. A prize will be given for the best verse on some home-making task.

TENNIS FROCKS NEEDED FOR VACATION WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JULY, 28.—Every dressmaker here is caught in the net of tennis frocks and many are scoring heavily with the type of frock that can be so simple and unobtrusively smart. Silk shirting, shantung, linen and fancy cotton weaves are the materials most favored for these little frocks that are charming enough to score not only on the tennis court, but on the golf course or any other spot where athletic endeavor is emphasized. The majority of these dresses are sleeveless and although a great many of them may, at first glance, seem of identical pattern and silhouette, each one has some distinctive and interesting detail. We would advise you to include a couple of these little tennis frocks in your vacation wardrobe, even if you have never even handled a racquet, and you will find yourself almost "living" in them to the neglect of the rest of your daytime wardrobe.

* * *

TO GUIDE YOU in your choice of tennis frocks we are sending you sketches of the two most pleasing models seen at the various collections recently, each of them the creation of a famous designer. The first is from Jane Regny who used white cotton of a fancy weave for her model. The simplicity of the frock is relieved by angular piecings on the bodice and the front of the skirt. A colored leather belt, matching the hat, or shoes, or bag, is worn to give color and character to the scheme.

* * *

MIRANDE IS RESPONSIBLE for the other tennis frock which is of men's shirting silk in white with a satin fleck here and there in the weave. It is most simple in both cut and detail with a V shaped neckline at both front and back, the latter, however, being very shallow in cut. A stitched belt of the material is worn, but if a color accent is desired, a colored leather belt is equally smart and may be chosen to match the accessories and add a dash of color to the simple scheme.

U. S. TAX RAISE SEEN IN BUDGET

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS.)—Serious obstacles developed in the path of the new Hoover economy program today as the Budget Bureau continued to apply a fine comb to the demands of departments for increased funds for the next fiscal year.

Not only is the administration confronted with a national expansion in government activities, but increased authorizations by Congress are regarded in some quarters as a mandate to supply funds.

Many of the departmental budgets will be rejected and drastic revisions ordered, it is expected. With preliminary estimates placing the total of next year's budget at $4,203,254,457, exclusive of postoffice expenditures, and expenditures for the past year placed at $3,994,152,487, the administration must either economize or find new ways of raising money.

Continuation of the $160,000,000 tax cut of last year is regarded as entirely out of the question. The specter confronting the administration now is the possible necessity of seeking an increase.

A deficit of $160,000,000 at the end of the present fiscal year, which began July 1, has been forecast by the Treasury, based upon a liberal estimate of expenditures and a not over-optimistic estimate of receipts.

Former McKeesport Pastor Dies in York

YORK, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Rev. Andrew Hoffa Smith, a native of Berks County, and prominent in clerical circles in this city, died here after an illness of six years. A graduate of the Reformed Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., he served pastorates at Newton, N. C.; First Reformed Church, McKeesport, Pa.; Tome's Brook, W. Va., and this city. In 1916 he was chosen superintendent of the Hoffman orphanage of the Reformed Church at Littlestown, which position he continued to hold until forced to resign due to ill health in 1924. He leaves his widow and two sons, Rev. Sidney Shultz Smith, and Charles Nevin Smith, both of this city.

Revolution Plot Revealed in Mexico

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, July 28.—(AP.)—An alleged attempt to instigate the people of Jalisco to take arms against the government has been revealed by Gov. Garcia De Alba, according to newspaper reports published here.

It was said that during recent political meetings the opponents of the government incited the people to start an armed revolt and also made speeches assailing the government and President Ortiz Rubio.

Killed Stringing Lights for Church

HAZLETON, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Anthony Genesoro, 60, of Lattimer, while assisting in stringing electric wires across the street for a church celebration, was struck by an automobile and so seriously injured that he died at the Hazleton State Hospital.

GAS WELL FIRE PERILS TOWN

REFUGIO, Tex., July 18.—(AP.)—A roaring jet of flame leaping into the sky from the Houston Oil Company's wild gasser, No. 1 Strauch, today had driven 200 residents from threatened homes and was defying efforts of workmen to extinguish it.

The well ignited from an unknown cause Saturday night with an explosion which blasted a crater 20 feet across. The parched oil field settlement of frame buildings, handicapped by drouth-depleted wells, was in imminent peril of destruction.

Steam lines were being laid for attempts to smother the flames. Two small frame structures owned by the Houston Oil Company burned yesterday, but other buildings and derricks were hurriedly moved back to a safer distance.

No estimate of the flow of gas was obtained, but it was believed to be several million cubic feet daily.

Chinese Arrested As Tong Slayer

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—A Chinese described by police as a tong killer was arrested in Chinatown today on a charge of homicide in connection with the killing on June 9 of Hong Wah Hong, president of the Chinese Peace Society, in a Chinese theater on the Bowery.

The prisoner, Wong Sam, 30, of Newark, N. J., is credited by police with more than half a dozen tong killings. He escaped life imprisonment for murder in Minneapolis in 1925, they said, when his sentence was set aside on an appeal.

Mexican Legislature Dissolution Asked

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, July 28.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court has requested Gov. Escobar to dissolve the present state legislature and call elections for a new one. The present legislature is divided into two equal groups neither of which constitutes a quorum and, according to the state constitution, the legislature in such cases should be dissolved.

Plan to Tap Lake Brings on Clash

TAHOE CITY, Cal., July 28.—(AP.)—A smoldering controversy flared today after an attempted diversion of the waters of Lake Tahoe, on the California-Nevada boundary, for use in irrigation.

Word of the issuance of a peace disturbance warrant yesterday halted operations of a steam shovel apparently designed to cut a sump into the lake to drain its waters.

Powder Won't Hide Disgusting Pores

Out in Hollywood they have the recipe for a lotion that quickly removes flaws and makes the skin beautiful and soft. Get 3 ounces of Orchard White from the druggist and mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. You have a full quarter-pint of the finest lotion.

The very minute you pat this cooling, reviving lotion on the face it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt that settles in large pores. It removes blackheads, closes the pores and quickly makes the skin smooth, good-looking and youthfully fresh.

You'll notice, too, that the skin is no longer oily and perspiration doesn't bother you any more.

Now if you want a smooth, soft, beautiful skin—just get 3 ounces of Orchard White from any druggist, mix it with the juice of 2 lemons and you have the new Hollywood beauty lotion.

Note: In the summer this lotion keeps the skin free from freckles and guards against that leathery look caused by wind and sun.

No bulk disturbs your summer comfort because Kotex is made to fit

WARM weather... how disturbing to comfort on certain days... if one didn't have Kotex!

Kotex is lighter and cooler. Five times lighter than cotton, for the same amount of absorption. Cooler, because it is made up of many filmy layers, laid lengthwise, which permit free circulation of air.

Don't think for a minute that other pads are "like" Kotex, just because they bear a certain exterior resemblance. Superficially, Kotex can be copied. But in the things that count, Kotex stands alone.

Made of unique substance

Kotex is not made of cotton, nor of any other usual material. It is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding... the same material used by 85% of our greatest hospitals to replace fine surgical cotton.

Isn't it wonderful that the absorbent chosen by famous hospitals is available to every woman in the United States? Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

HUNT 2 AFTER $1,500 HOLDUP

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 28.—Two bandits, who, unmasked, robbed the Paul grocery No. 2, here were being sought through the tri-state district today. The pair held up the proprietor, A. G. Paul, and nine others in the store, escaping in an automobile with loot said to have been close to $1,500, of which $1,000 was cash and the rest in checks.

Each man flashed two guns on entering the store. The customers and proprietor were forced to lie on the floor, and were robbed of their valuables by one of the bandits while the other ransacked the cash drawer. Paul ran out after the robbery and fired three times at the bandits' fleeing car.

Mine Employing 400 To Resume Work

STAR JUNCTION, Pa., July 28.—The Washington Run mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company is being cleaned preparatory to early resumption of operations.

One hundred and fifty men are cleaning the workings while a force is driving a heading from the Colonial belt system into the mine. The coal will be transferred over the belt to the Colonial docks for shipment by water. More than 400 men will be employed.

TWO DIE, FOUR HURT IN AUTO MISHAPS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

THE CROWD that gathered in Newell's famous saloon in Fifth avenue was one of sporting celebrities, actors and newspapermen, most of them willing to wager you a pretty penny on the color of the next horse to move by, or the age of the belle of the town.

On one occasion a hot tip on a horse race reached the long, shiny bar and one and all contributed to a pool which was to be bet on that horse.

A newspaperman was chosen to make the trip to New York, where the race was being run, to place the bet.

The horse won, and there was rejoicing that night in Newell's. A champagne party was arranged for the following night to greet the returning newspaperman, who was imaged as a messenger bent under the load of the winnings.

The champagne was flowing freely and expensively when the newspaperman stepped from the train into its midst and misgivingly announced in all truth: "Gentlemen, I bet on another horse."

THE HEAT WAVE reminds Bill Mossman, who is the Mossman of Jones & Laughlin, of the drought of several years ago. Things finally reached the stage where the minister of the little crossroads church announced that, come next Sunday, prayer would be offered for rain. One and all turned out for the occasion and professed high hopes, but only one, a girl of tender years, brought along an umbrella.

ALL OF WHICH reminds Wilmer Jacoby of his favorite old story. Two dyed-in-the-wool card players were enjoying a prolonged session of pinochle when a silent kibitzer dropped into a chair alongside them.

At midnight they were still at it, but not a word had the kibitzer, watching intently, spoken. At dawn he was still on the alert, but silent.

Finally the players became involved in a heated argument.

All right," suggested one, as

"Don't ask me, boys," the kibitzer answered. "I don't know a thing about the game."

No Pittsburgher sees more big prize fights than Harry Neaman, the Homewood businessman. No matter where the fight is being held, you can win cigaret money for yourself by betting three cigarets to one that Mr. Neaman will be at the ringside. Uncomplaining, too, he is, unless his seat is back of the first dozen rows. Mr. Neaman would rather see two palookas from the ringside than Dempsey and John L. from the twenty-fifth row.

HEAT SENDS CROWDS TO SHOWS

Overflow at North Side Entertainment Holds Up Traffic on Three Streets

The excessive heat last night swelled the audience at the Sunday night free motion picture shows in city parks, crowds estimated at more than 20,000 attending the exhibitions. The programs consisted of features, novelties, educational films and news reels.

The largest crowds were reported from Schenley, Highland and Arsenal parks, each having crowds estimated at more than 5,000. At East Park, North Side, the crowd was so large traffic was stopped by police on Union and Cedar avenues and Canal street.

Several thousand persons attended the show at McKinley Park, many of them carrying boxes and boards, which they used for seats.

HUNT BANDITS AFTER $400 HARVEST

Gunmen Get $300 in Holdup Of East End Store; Safe Robbed in Forbes Street

Thieves obtained loot placed at $400 over the week-end, according to reports received at the city detective bureau today. Descriptions were furnished police, and search has been started to round up those responsible.

Two armed men took $300 from the Newark Shoe Company, at 6321 Frankstown avenue, after forcing J. R. Thomas, the manager, to open his safe. Thomas was placed into a rear room after he opened the strong box, reports said.

The Dusenberry Company, bakes, of 3100 Forbes street, reported thieves knocked the combination off the safe, and rifled a cash drawer, obtaining about $45.

MEN REPORTS HOLDUPS

James Bencha, of 36 South Fourteenth street, told police he was strongarmed by two men on the steps leading from South Tenth street to Second, avenue and beaten. He was robbed of $5.

Sullivan Cuzzelli, of 4696 Lorigan street, reported that at Somers street and Bedford avenue he was beaten by two Negroes and robbed of $15.

Mrs. R. W. Barner, of 534 Haberman avenue, said she was accosted by two thugs while on her way home and robbed of her purse containing about $4.50.

ROBBED OF $20

Two Negroes attacked A. Dugan, of 7225 Idlewild street, according to his complaint to police, and took $20. The holdup occurred near his home, he said.

Oscar Witt, 2119 Sidney street, told police that while he was riding in a street car at the P. & L. E. station, a pickpocket obtained his pocketbook containing a small amount of money.

J. A. Griffin, whose address was not learned, and G. J. Burk, of 7705 Hamilton avenue, also reported that their pockets were picked on street cars.

TRAIN KILLS MAN RIDING TRUCK

Pedestrian Loses Life When Hit by Machine; Two Men Held as Hit-Run Drivers

Two dead and four injured was the toll of automobiles in the Pittsburgh district yesterday and early today.

Mihalyi was killed when a truck on which he was riding was struck by a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad train at the Ivanhoe crossing in Groveton. Steve Joseph, 33, of 807 Sixth avenue, Coraopolis, was injured.

Welsh was killed when he was struck by an automobile on West Carson street, near the Corliss street tunnel. The car which struck him was driven, police said, by John B. Conley, of Bayridge street, Overbrook.

TWO DRIVERS HELD

Two men, described by police as hit-and-run automobile drivers, were being held by police today.

Ike Farley, of 113 Schley avenue, Ingram, and George Barbery, of 5824 Rural street, were the drivers held, according to police reports. Both were arrested, police reports said, when they tried to recover their machine after abandoning them in accidents in the North Side district.

CAR HITS BUILDING

Farley's car crashed into a building at Bidwell street and Pennsylvania avenue, endangering pedestrians, while Barberry's, police report, ran into a fire plug at 3812 California avenue, causing injury to a passenger, Anna Messer, 24, of Beaver Falls, who is in St. John's Hospital.

In other accidents Joseph Shapiro, 25, of 307 Beech street, East Pittsburgh, and Abram Sax, 24, of Margaretta street, Braddock, escaped injury when their car was forced off the Lincoln highway near Johnstown.

MACHINE HITS TROLLEY

Donald Robertson, 5, of 305 George street, Turtle Creek, was seriously hurt when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a street car in East Pittsburgh. H. A. Simpson, of 633 Locust street, Turtle Creek, driver of the car, was not hurt. The machine struck a pole after hitting the street car, police said.

Arthur Gruber, 32, of Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, received lacerations when the automobile he was driving struck a street car in front of 1641 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, early today. He was admitted to the McKeesport Hospital in an unconscious condition.

Jacon Washington, Negro, of 6 Moore street, suffered cuts and bruises to his right leg and forehead when pinned under his automobile after it collided with a bread truck at Fifth avenue and Dithridge street, early today. Thomas P. Connors, of 3224 Juliet street, a taxicab driver, released him and took him to Homeopathic Hospital.

Two automobiles overturned in a collision early today at Fifth avenue and Dithridge street. Jacob Washington, Negro, of 6 Moore street, was slightly injured, and with John Reed, 626 Fifth avenue, Carnegie, was arrested. Both were charged with reckless driving.

ITALIANS HONOR CONSUL HERE

Two hundred and fifty officials of the various Italian organizations in Western Pennsylvania honored Dr. Giovanni Giurato, of 514 Neville street, Italian consul to Pittsburgh, yesterday at a reception tendered him in his home before his six-month furlough in Italy.

Dr. Giurato came here in September, 1928, after service in Peru London and the Orient. He expects to return after his vacation in Rome.

Steel Worker Dies As Result of Hurts

Andy Martin, 52, of 605 Fourth street, Braddock, a timekeeper employed by the Edgar Thomson Steel Company, died early yesterday as the result of injuries suffered when he was struck on the head by an acetylene torch dropped by a workman.

When removed to the emergency hospital he was found to have suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull which caused his death.

2 Held in Tailor Shop Clothes Theft

Russel Davis, 25, Negro, of 1520 Claire street, was held for court today on a charge of entering a building and robbery at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. A companion, John Armstrong, 60, Negro, same address, was also held for receiving stolen goods. Davis admitted entering the tailor shop of Abe Swartz at 2300 Wylie avenue, and Armstrong admitted having received the goods.

WELFARE AIDE WED TODAY

The head of the psychiatric bureau of the Pittsburgh Department of Public Welfare, Miss Kathryn E. Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Stewart, of Edgewood, is to be married to John Jarvis Butler, of Alexandria, Va., today at noon in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. J. S. Helm officiating. Miss Mary Frances Moore is the maid of honor, and John S. Quinlan, of Schenectady, N. Y., is best man.

There is to be a breakfast in the Edgewood Country Club after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Butler will go to Canada and the New England states on their honeymoon, and will make their home in Alexandria, Va.

Temperance Union Elects Officers

The Perrysville unit, Women's Christian Temperance Union, has elected these officers: President, Mrs. Emma M. Eisenhauser; vice president, Mrs. Nannie W. White; recording secretary, Mrs. W. A. Whiston; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Martin; treasurer, Mrs. John Bauer.

Former Policeman Injured in Fall

Dennis Cush, 50, former Homestead policeman, was recovering in Homestead Hospital today from injuries suffered when he slipped and fell near his home, 504 Ammon street, Homestead, late last night. At the hospital it was said he suffered cuts and bruises on the head and body.

SEEK SUSPECT AFTER RAIDS

Following the seizure of two stills in the North Side, police are searching for William Herd, who, according to the report on a raid at 3 Petrowsky place, is connected with the case.

The police "special" on the raid states:

"There is another man, named William Herd, who is connected with this raid and has not been arrested at this writing."

Two Negroes—Clarence Reese, 38, of 17 Petrowsky street, and Wylie W. Fitch, 47, of 14 Petrowsky street—were charged with violating the Snyder act after the raid.

A 75-gallon still and a quantity of moonshine were seized.

Store Robbery Suspect Shot by Policemen

Harry Jackson, 29, Negro, of Lexington, Ky., was in Presbyterian Hospital today with a bullet in his left lung as a result of attempting to escape from two policemen who caught him robbing a tailor shop at 510 Jacksonia street, North Side, early today, they said. His condition was regarded as critical.

Jackson, police said, was trapped in the store by Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Williams and Patrolman John Thompson, Jr. As he ran from the store Williams fired at him and Thompson later fired three times, police said. Jackson disappeared around a corner, but was found a short time later. He told police he had just arrived from the South.

Investigation of the stores revealed Jackson's hat and shoes and a pile of suits believed to have been stacked by Jackson, who had ransacked the place, police said.

Owner 'Beats Up' Thief He Finds In His Car

There's an autoist who believes in dispensing punishment to a car thief without police courts.

R. J. Ford, of 1320 Oakhill street, telephoned Police Operator George Vogel that his car was stolen at 11 p. m. from Liberty avenue and Ella street. At 11:45 p. m., Vogel answered another call to learn that Ford found his car four blocks distant.

The thief was sitting in the machine, so Ford proceeded to administer a beating before giving the man his freedom.

Raquel Accepts Invitation To Attend Night Club

CHAPTER XI

Raquel had been in New York a week before she ventured out of her hotel at night. She loved this great thrumming giant of a city, and hated it. Loved it for the promise it gave of thrilling adventure. Hated it for the fear she felt to seek its adventure.

Already her woman's intuition, her hunger for and appreciation of beauty, had drawn her to Fifth avenue. She spent hours, whole days, along the main artery of foibles and fashions. The allure of it. The splendor. Window after window filled with such dresses as she had never dreamed could be. Of jewels that blinded the eye with their sparkle. And whole shops filled with more dresses and more jewels behind the windows.

She wished men would not stare at her in quite the way they did. It was a satisfaction, though, to see that once women caught a glimpse of her face, they no longer tilted their nose at her gawky clothes.

On the seventh evening after her advent in New York, Raquel stifled her fear and walked toward the big street she had come to know as Broadway. Her hotel was in the Forties, half way between Fifth avenue—Raquel referred to it mentally as "my street"—and Broadway.

She drifted along with the human stream until she came to Times Square. Automobiles, drawing to the curb, disgorged beautiful ladies in dresses and jewels like those she saw on Fifth avenue, and sleek men in evening clothes. Raquel stopped to take her fill of them. They went into the theater before which she was standing.

Impulsively, she followed them. She was going in the theater. Going to see a play. The ticket cost $3.30. A staggering sum. She must never be so reckless again.

More of the gorgeous gowns and jewels from Fifth avenue, on the stage. Actresses wore them, too. Raquel could not follow what the women in the play were saying and doing for admiring them. If she could have her pick, which one of them would she want to be?

The curtain fell on the first act. Raquel followed a trickle of the beautiful women in low-cut gowns and men with spotless white shirt fronts down into the lounge of the theater. Men were smoking there. Women put dainty cigarets with gold ends to their carmined lips. Women smoked in Hermosa. Strong tobacco wrapped in corn husks.

A woman spoke to her. A tall blonde woman in a gold dress. Carrying a red feather fan. The biggest fan Raquel had ever seen.

Raquel was pleased to be addressed. Maybe this woman was alone, like herself. Maybe she felt the need for company in this crowd of chattering strangers.

An Invitation
Invited to Attend a Night Club

"I think it's grand," Raquel confessed. "You see, it's the first play I've ever been to."

"No! Really?" The woman showed amazement, interest. "Then you are a stranger in New York?"

"Yes, quite a stranger." She was not going to tell this beautiful creature how strange, Arizona. That wild place.

"I know just how you feel." Sympathetically. "Sort of lost. I felt the same way when I first came to New York. I'm genuinely sorry for anyone alone in this heartless city. You are alone?"

"Yes. That is. I am alone now—"

The woman hesitated. Then, with a burst of generosity that took Raquel straight into her confidence she said:

"I tell you what I'll do. My escort is coming for me after the theater. An old friend. We are going on to a night club, where there's dancing, you know, and a show. Everyone goes to night clubs after the theater. It's quite the thing to do. If you think you'd enjoy seeing the fun, I'll take you with us."

Night club. That must be a cabaret, a real one, with music and the latest songs and more beautiful women with men in black and white dancing the latest dances.

Would she like to see the fun?

CHILDREN HER MODELS

By PENELOPE REDD

Dolores Gardino may wear a sun suit as she frolics about East Park on the North Side, but ere she makes her appearance in Virginia Wallace's final drawing, she probably will be attired in peeping pantalettes.

Penelope Redd

Virginia Wallace, whose quaint illustrations have delighted visitors to the Associated Artists' exhibitions at the Carnegie Institute, uses children, wherever she finds them, as her models.

When she makes her illustrations, however, she converts the general racial characteristics into the individual's particular appeal. She re-combines dissimilar persons from life into the congenial companionship of fancy.

Miss Wallace's drawings are not in the modish fashion, at all.

To those whose memories go back to Dickens, Thackeray and Washington Irving, her work will prove a new delight.

She has been studying with Thomas Fogarty, the old line illustrator, whose drawings so greatly enhanced the Coolidge biography Mr. Fogarty, who accepts but a limited number of carefully selected students, regards Miss Wallace as his most promising.

Miss Wallace's work will be shown at a special exhibition in Pittsburgh sometime during the late summer or early autumn.

Two Face Court In Narcotic Case

Israel Cohen, 42, of 735 Mellon street, and James Hanlon, 30, of 722 Clarissa street, today were to explain in East End Police Court the morphine found in their possession when arrested yesterday, police said. The men were arrested at Penn and Negley avenues.

Youthful 'Tramp' Passes Million-Mile Mark

"I'm not a hobo. I'm a tramp," explained Leonard V. Parker, 21, of New York, who believes he's the longest distance traveler of his age.

When he reached Pittsburgh, coming here from Chicago in 26 hours by free auto rides, he had passed 1,000,000 miles. Europe and South America, Alaska, Canada, Mexico—they, too, have seen his roving feet. Parker, who was born in Sweden, remarked:

"I've missed, so far, Iceland, Greenland, Asia, Africa and Australia, but they are about all."

Will Rogers Says:

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 28.

Well sir, yesterday was Bernard Shaw's birthday. He was 74 years old. I had a great visit at his London home with him when I was over to the "increasing of naval armament conference." He has more original ideas on any subject you name than any man in the world.

He has lived in England all these years and they don't know yet whether he is "for 'em or against 'em." Here was one of the observations he turned out on me: "America and Russia are the only two countries left in the world with any scheme of life. Russia is trying an experiment, and America is trying everything." So good luck to the old rascal. I hope he lives to be a thousand.

Yours,
WILL.

DRY CZAR CHARGES CORRUPTION TO HIGHER-UPS

WILSON HITS POLITICS IN CHURCH TALK

Says Prohibition Cannot be 100 Per Cent Efficient As Other Laws are Broken

Charging corruption travels from the high official down, not from the bottom up, Harold D. Wilson, in charge of federal prohibition enforcement in Western Pennsylvania, flayed the lack of respect for all laws.

Wilson referred to the Federal raid on the recent Ameri Corner picnic in speaking at the Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday, declaring:

"I do not intend to be stampeded into raiding every little two by four drinking party nor scared from raiding the big fellows when they think they become greater than the law. When high public officials, sworn to uphold the laws of nation and state, publicly flout the liquor and gambling laws, it is time to make an example of them."

When women play auction bridge they are violating the law as much as the man who makes liquor, Wilson charged in citing prohibition enforcement cannot be expected to reach 100 per cent when other laws are flouted. He urged sympathy for the average police officer because the higher-ups will not permit him to function.

K. OF C. ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Other officers were: John L. Skarry, Chartiers Council, recording secretary; Joseph Cawley, Duquesne Chapter, treasurer; Leo A. McMullen, Bellevue Chapter, historian; Patrick H. Thornton, Allegheny Chapter, and John J. Fedigan, Homestead, guards, and William J. Yester, Thomas Quinn, John F. Sullivan, M. J. Britt, Joseph H. Hamill, Francis L. Horn, James F. Jordan, John L. Purvis and J. J. Ribar, trustees.

Child, 3, Injured Playing With Gun

Robert Mason, 3, of 23 South Wheeler street, today was suffering from a wound in the left hand, received, according to a police report, yesterday while he was playing with a revolver. He took the gun from his father's bureau, the report said.

Throngs Attend Closing Service

More than 1,000 persons attended the closing service of St. Ann's Novena at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Carrick, last night. The Rev. L. A. Yeske, of Cleveland, was in charge of the services.

POLICE DRIVE ON 'CHEATERS'

Police of the First district today were reported on the alert for any violation of the city ordinances following Inspector Albert Beebe's announcement that he was "after cheaters who fail to report violations."

Beebe, in his announcement, said that by "cheaters" he included lieutenants whose men permitted resorts to run unmolested. Proprietors of five alleged gambling houses and almost 100 visitors were to be arraigned today as a result of Beebe's clean-up order.

Those fined for keeping disorderly and gambling houses were Bennie Robinson, of 2135 Center avenue; Thomas Welsh, of 1521 Wylie avenue; William Reese, of 46 Roberts street; Sydney Isabel, of 2325 Wylie avenue, and Thomas Dodson, of 1323 Wylie avenue.

Wills Bequests To Two Friends

Two friends were remembered with bequests in the $12,000 estate of Mrs. Lizzie A. Selby in a will filed today for probate. Mrs. Mary McSweeney and Mrs. Harriet Miller, both of Conoquenessing, Pa., each received $500. After small bequests were named to several nieces and nephews, the bulk of the estate was given to three nieces, Edna R. Seavy, Virginia R. Brown and Mrs. Doro R. Monahan.

Denmark to Drop Cruiser 'Fleet' In Naval Cut

COPENHAGEN, July 28.—(AP.)—Denmark, which owns but two cruisers, the Heimdal and Neils Juel, has decided to dispose of them. The Heimdal will be scrapped and the Niels Juel, just returned from a royal visit to the Iceland jubilee, probably will be sold to China, naval officers believe.

Hotel Guest Jailed On Check Charge

James W. Blackhall, age 40, a guest of the William Penn Hotel, was arrested today by city detectives Ed Harkins and William Sullivan on a charge of passing worthless checks. It is alleged he passed checks for $2,000 at several downtown stores and hotels. The charge was filed before Alderman George Anderson.

Fine Man $100 After Raid on His Home

John O'Connor, 36, was fined $100, with the alternative of 60 days in the workhouse, charged with keeping a disorderly house at 102 Flavel street, by Magistrate Charles Papale, in East End Police Court, today. Twelve male visitors were assessed $5 each. A small quantity of moonshine was confiscated, police said.

NEW PLANE LINE BEGINS SERVICE

Service on the new "Sky-View Airline" airplane system between Pittsburgh and Buffalo was inaugurated today with the arrival of the new company's first ship from Buffalo.

The plane, one of the company's three Ford tri-motor ships, arrived at Bettis Field this afternoon two hours after taking off in Buffalo. It carried 12 passengers, officials of the company, members of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce and newspapermen, and was piloted by R. V. Kent.

Daily two-hour service, a trip each way, will be maintained on regular schedule. The plane will stop on signal at Greensburg, Youngville and Lamartine, N. Y. Bus service from the landing fields is included in the fare.

Minister Departs For New Church

The Rev. J. Reginald Moodey, for five years rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, East End, yesterday preached his farewell sermon here, and today was to leave for the East, preparatory to assuming the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church in Williston Park, L. I. Prior to coming to Pittsburgh he was rector of Christ Church, of Indiana, Pa.

Argues With Jailer, Prisoner Fined $10

Andrew Neibauer, 24, giving his address as 1021 Menetta street, was fined $10 or 10 days in jail before Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court. Neibauer was arrested following an argument over a receipt for money taken from him by Acting Turnkey J. Wantje, after Neibauer had been arrested for drunkenness.

Bidding Godspeed to the Italian consul in Pittsburgh who after two years' service is returning to Siracusa, his native town in Italy, for an indefinite stay. The Italian Legion held a testimonial for him yesterday at 514 Neville avenue, the Legion headquarters.

SWEENEY WINS VICTORY OVER POLICE

Absence of Star Witness Balks Effort to Convict; Hearing Delayed One Hour

Magistrate John J. Sweeney, who seems to be at odds with the South Side police over the investigation of rackets, scored somewhat of a victory today. In South Side Police Court he discharged two of three prisoners whom the police had arrested and reserved decision for one week on the third.

The freed defendants were Thomas (Goose) Goslin and George Kallaway, of Carrick. The third was John Prendergast, of Spring way. All were charged with maintaining gambling devices.

SLOT MACHINE CHARGE

The police attempted to show that all three were connected with the distribution of slot machines on the South Side. But they could not produce their star witness, Mrs. John Leindecker, who conducts a store in Arlington avenue. She was said to be ill.

Plainclothesman George Franz testified that when police raided the Leindecker store and found slot machines there, Mrs. Leindecker called the telephone numbers of the three defendants.

HEARING DELAYED

The hearing was delayed more than an hour when Magistrate Sweeney demanded from Patrolman Louis Foster corroboration of the testimony of Max Wolfe, storekeeper in Arlington avenue, who identified Prendergast as the man who insisted on leaving a slot machine in the Wolfe store. Foster finally produced Mrs. Wolfe, who contributed the corroboration.

To Wolfe's testimony Prendergast answered:

"A man on the street asked me where he could put a slot machine, so I took him to Wolfe's."

Turtle Creek Man Hurt in Crash Dies

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—William Smudski, 29, of Turtle Creek, died last night in a hospital shortly after being injured in an automobile accident near Jeannette.

Mrs. Smudski, 20, and Smudski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smudski, each 60, of South Greensburg, suffered lacerations and Mrs. Stanley Smudski a fractured arm. The victim's two children were uninjured.

Clevelander Held In Dope Selling

Edward Alcorn, 23, giving his address as Cleveland, O., was arrested today and lodged in Central Police Station in connection with an investigation of dope selling. At the police station two decks of marked playing cards were found in his possession, and police said they believe the man to be a card sharp. He was held for a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

Robbery Suspect Up for Hearing

Accused of having committed 19 burglaries in Mt. Lebanon and vicinity, Frank Lawson, alias Frank J. Taylor, 43, of 280 Shady avenue, was to be given a hearing today at the Mt. Lebanon Municipal Building. Lawson was arrested by Mt. Lebanon police last week, when jewelry said to have been stolen was found in his possession, police said.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Why are you glad you live in Oakland?

Max Miller

MAX MILLER, store manager: Why it's a great town. Business out this way is good and, besides, it's close enough to the city to be very convenient.

Miss Sussman

MISS BETTY SUSSMAN, student: For no particular reason, but I like Oakland and am glad I live here. It's conveniently near both the city and East Liberty. The universities are here, and Schenley Park is one of the prettiest around here.

James Hughes

JAMES HUGHES, schoolboy: Because it has good baseball fields and Schenley Park is here. And it's a nice section of the city and its streets are pretty.

Miss O'Neill

MISS CLARA O'NEILL, clerk: Well, I've lived here for 12 years and like it better than any other section of the city. It's a good location and is near to my work.

Owen Gormley

OWEN GORMLEY, schoolboy: The football and baseball fields are both good—the best around here. All my friends are here and I go to school here and everything.

Miss Mooney

MISS ANN MOONEY, clerk: There are a lot of reasons for liking Oakland, I think. I was born and raised here and like it immensely. Schenley Park is a beautiful place, too, and is one of the main attractions of the section.

PRIVATE POOL POPULAR

There is at least one Beechview mother who is sure that her children do not have to run the gauntlet of drunken and reckless drivers on the city streets. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Haven, 1323 Methyl street, Beechview, built a backyard swimming pool for their two children, Alvin, 9, and Gloria, 7, in order to keep them off the streets.

The pool has proved a boon for the entire neighborhood.

No longer are the mothers apprehensive over the dangers that city children usually run; for they know that they are safe in the pool. The neighborhood gang flocked to the pool in such numbers that the Havens were finally forced to charge a nickel a day in order to keep the numbers down.

BRITISH GRANT ARAB DEMANDS

JERUSALEM, July 28.—(AP.)—The official report of the Arab delegation to London, read today by Auni Bey before the executive, says the British government has promised the Arabs in Palestine certain administrative changes realizing at least some of their hopes.

These changes, Auni Bey said, would be carried out on the return from London of Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner. They include transfers of real estate from Jewish holders to Arabs who can show title deeds to the land in question.

Auni Bey said the hope of a permanent decrease in Jewish immigration also had been suggested by the British government.

TWO WEDDING GUESTS KILLED

READING, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Returning to a wedding celebration, after seeking relief from the heat by riding in the sidecar of a motorcycle, the father of the bride and a guest were killed last night when the motorcycle struck a rut and they were thrown out.

The father, Nazareth Negri, thrown against a pole, sustained a fractured skull. The guest, Carmen Besonia, of Temple, received a fractured skull and severe lacerations about the face. He died an hour later.

Angelo Gaspero, 36, of Temple, driver of the motorcycle, and Francisco Yetto, also of Temple, who was riding on the seat behind the driver, were held pending a coroner's investigation.

BOAT EXPLODES, 3 BURNED

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 28.—(AP.)—Ten men, women and children were rescued from a 40-foot cabin cruiser a few minutes before the craft blew up yesterday one mile off Lido Beach.

Three women in the party were slightly burned by a first explosion which set the craft afire. The engineer and two of the guests were thrown into the water.

Just ahead of the boat, owned by George W. Edwards, of Freeport, N. Y., was a cruiser commanded by Samuel Summers. He turned back and took aboard the three in the water and those aboard the burning boat.

They were hardly aboard the Summers cruiser when the Edwards boat blew up. Only the hull remained when coast guards reached the spot.

49 WILL TAKE EDISON TESTS

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 28.—(Universal.)—Forty-nine of the brightest youngsters in the 48 states and District of Columbia will gather here tomorrow preparatory to taking this year's examination for the Thomas A. Edison scholarship prize.

Last year Wilbur B. Huston, of Port Madison, Wash., received the highest rank and won an education at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The examination this year has been prepared by Edison; Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University; George Eastman, Harvey S. Firestone, Henry Ford, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Lewis Perry, headmaster of Phillips-Exeter Academy.

Wednesday has been set aside for entertainment. The examination will be Thursday and the results will be announced Friday.

Soviet Gives Relief In Shoe Shortage

MOSCOW, July 28.—(AP.)—The government today instituted a system designed to check speculation and end the famine of shoes selling in the private market at prohibitive prices.

Children will be provided with shoes upon presentation of their bread cards and adults may purchase shoes at normal prices in government shops upon presentation of special coupons issued by the House Committee of the Trade Unions' Factory organization.

'Bob' Jones Ends Tarentum Services

THEATERS SEEK TO CUT STAFFS

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—Chicago motion picture exhibitors today were seeking a conference with union operators of picture and sound machines, looking toward reduction of staffs, as part of a similar movement throughout the country.

Jack Miller, business representative of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago, said in announcing the plan last night that the small theaters must cut their staffs or go out of business. He will ask that one operator be in charge of both sound and picture devices, instead of one for each device as at present.

OBITUARY

Steinetz Funeral.

Funeral services for Joseph M. Steinetz, justice of the peace, who died yesterday at his home, 405 Hawkins avenue, Rankin, were to be held at 2 p. m. today at the Jewish Community Center, Fifth street, Braddock. He was born in Hungary, August 20, 1877, and came to the United States in 1897. He moved to Rankin from Braddock 10 years ago. In 1923 Gov. Pinchot appointed him a justice of the peace, and later he was elected to that office, remaining in it until his death. He was a member of Agudath Achim Congregation, Braddock; B'nai Israel Congregation, Rankin; Iron City Lodge No. 3, Independent Order Sons of David; Independent Order Moses Ben Amron of Braddock, and of the board of directors of the Jewish Community Center of Braddock and of the Maccabees. Besides his widow, he leaves a son, Julius Steinetz, of New York; a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Green, of Rankin, and two sisters in Budapest.

Coyne Funeral.

Funeral services for Martin T. Coyne, 51, a former Pittsburgher, who died Thursday in Memphis, will be held tomorrow at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. E. G. Havens, of 1105 Park street, McKeesport. He formerly lived in Allentown, and at the time of his death was employed as a construction engineer on a government project in the South. He leaves his widow and two sons, James and Joseph Coyne.

Fisher Funeral.

Funeral services for John Fisher, 94, who died Saturday at his home in New Derry, Pa., will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow in St. Martin's Catholic Church, New Derry. Interment will be in St. Martin's Cemetery.

FAMILY SEES RACER KILLED

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—Before 8,000 spectators, among whom were his wife and baby, Bob Robinson, of Daytona Beach, Fla., automobile racing driver, was killed in a spill of his car during a race on the speedway here yesterday.

When Robinson was going at 80 miles an hour in third place in a 50-mile race, a rear tire blew out on the car of Rick Decker, of Staten Island, who was in second place.

Decker's machine careened and Robinson's struck it a glancing blow, then shot up the embankment of the track, shattered the guard rail and plunged 20 feet to the ground outside.

Robinson, 35, was one of four drivers involved in a quadruple crash during a 200-mile Flag Day race at Altoona, Pa., last year in which Ray Keech, noted racing driver, was killed. In that accident, Robinson escaped unhurt.

Youth Suspected In Fourth Death

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va., July 28.—Sheriff L. B. Snyder, of Wetzel County, today stated that he was investigating a story that Melvin Slider, 23, held in connection with the death of J. L. Loudenslager, his wife and daughter, may also have murdered the mother of Loudenslager, who died under mysterious circumstances sometime ago.

Dorothy Mackaill Quits Films, Sues

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—(INS.)—Dorothy Mackaill and First National Pictures have come to the parting of the ways, it was learned here today, when her attorney announced he intended to file suit to collect the actress' final month's salary of $16,200, alleged to be due her.

Miss Mackaill had been with First National for five years.

2 BANDITS SHOT TO DEATH

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP.)—Two bandits were shot to death by the owner of a roadhouse they held up.

A confederate, running a gauntlet of shotgun fire, escaped with $300 and jewelry, but left behind the bodies of his companions, identified as Milton Simons, 26, and Alexander Zill, 25, an ex-convict.

As the trio stripped valuables from the patrons of the resort, the proprietor, Tony Sodo, caught up a shotgun, crept unobserved from the building and hid in ambush near the front door. The marauders left hastily, to be met by a withering broadside of slugs that cut down Simons and Zill. The third sprinted to an automobile and drove away.

Meanwhile, the police war on crime resulted in the arrest of Louis Clementi, who was questioned but later released in connection with the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter.

The grand jury investigating the murder of Lingle resumed its inquiry today with Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson as the first witness.

Pittsburgh War Mothers Hear Chaplain Tell Of Sons' Burial

By CHARLES A. EARLEY,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 28.—A long-expressed wish to meet the chaplain who officiated at last rites for their hero sons in France during the World War was realized by three Pittsburgh district Gold Star Mothers just before they sailed on the Republic Saturday.

To each the Rev. Edward A. Wallace, chaplain of the Three Hundred Twentieth Infantry, Eightieth Division, related the circumstances surrounding burial services of their sons on the battle field. Father Wallace himself was wounded while engaged in one burial service.

The mothers were Mrs. M. C. Boyd, of 807 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg; Mrs. Anna Bortkiewicz, of 1422 Hamlin street, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Philomene Maas, of Heidelberg.

KILLED IN ARGONNE DRIVE

To Mrs. Boyd he said:

"I buried your son, Pvt. William Boyd, of Company E, Three Hundred Eighteenth Infantry, amid dramatic circumstances. He was killed in the last big drive in the Argonne. As shells whined by and machine guns rattled, my 12 grave squad helpers wrapped him in a blanket, placed his steel helmet on his bosom and lowered him into a shallow grave at a cross-road near Nantillois."

Similar procedure marked the last rites for Pvt. Anthony Bortkiewicz, Company D., Three Hundred Nineteenth Infantry, Father Wallace told Mrs. Bortkiewicz, saying:

"After Pvt. Bortkiewicz was killed, it was a few hours before we could reach his body. Then a shallow grave was dug while my helpers dodged shrapnel and machine gun bullets. We wrapped him in his blanket, read the burial service, and covered him. Later he was taken to Romagne Cemetery."

HASTE NECESSARY

The burial of Pvt. Alfred Maas, Company G, Three Hundred Nineteenth Infantry, Father Wallace recalled:

"The shell fire was incessant. We could brook no delay. Private [illegible] had been shot down hours before, and the problem was to bury him and his comrades before the enemy might counter-attack. We had a hard time but finally the job was completed. He too had his preliminary resting place under the tern trees.

Of 151 Eightieth dead Father Wallace buried, more than 60 were interred under heavy shell and machine gun fire. The others for the most part were those whose bodies had been exhumed after the heat of battle had cooled.

The method used in burials, according to Father Wallace, made it almost impossible for confusion of identification. One of the twin identification tags each man wore was left with the body. The other was tacked to a cross over the grave. Care was taken not to bury the bodies too close together. When the bodies were disinterred for removal to American war cemeteries, the system was found invaluable.

The Eightieth Division, Father Wallace recalled, was the only one of the American Expeditionary Force sent into the Argonne fight three times.

28 Pairs of Feet Out for Air Bring Fines

Twenty-eight men, arrested in a raid on a vacant building at 414 Third avenue, were fined $5 or five days in jail by Magistrate Leo Rothenburg in Central Police Court. The men were arrested after complaints that they were loafing in the building and sticking their feet out the windows.

This morning they testified that on account of the excessive heat they had cooled their feet by this method. The magistrate said:

"I realize that you men have no lawns or front porches, but you can't stick your feet out of windows."

Banker and Woman Die in Ohio Crash

FINDLAY, O., July 28.—(AP.)—Charles Schultheis, 55, vice president of the Mutual Savings and Loan Company, of Lima, and Mrs. Victor Adams, 22, of Butler, Pa., were killed, and five persons were injured, four of them seriously, in an automobile accident 10 miles south of here late Sunday.

A car driven by William Shoemaker and owned by Schultheis collided with one driven by Victor Adams, of Butler, in which Mrs. Adams and [illegible] were riding.

Mrs. [illegible], wife of the banker, was [illegible] hurt.

Urges Licenses Be Taken From Chronic Crashers

Revoking the licenses of "repeaters," or drivers who are prone to accident, is advocated by Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee.

That many repeaters in traffic accidents are unfit to drive a car has been proved through a study of figures from other cities and partial data available in Pittsburgh, Duggan states. Attention was called to a psychological test of 100 accident-prone drivers made in Detroit, wherein it was found that 58 out of the 100 were inebriates, mentally deficient or with slow co-ordination of mind and muscles.

Data on the subject is inadequate in Pittsburgh, according to Duggan, but the passage of the accident-reporting ordinance submitted to City Council by the traffic committee would make possible the collection of material for a thorough study of the problem.

The ordinance would require a report to the city government similar to that required by the state authorities on accidents involving any personal injury or property damage over $50.

Park Blames Parents For Juvenile Crime

Parents must take a deeper interest in their children's activities if the annual increase in crime by young persons is to be checked, District Attorney Andrew T. Parks declared in an address at a community service in the United Presbyterian Church, Aspinwall, last night. The Young Peoples societies sponsored the gathering.

After urging the parents to be vigilant regarding the activities of their children, Park said he did not subscribe to prohibition and the World War as causes for the increase of crime in the United States. He said in part:

"It is my contention that a contributing cause to the ever-increasing number of youthful criminals is a breakdown in parental discipline.

"We are not experiencing a crime wave, but a steady increase of crimes in all classes each year."

Mrs. F. E. Sturgeon, vice president of the Aspinwall Women's Club, spoke of the relation of the club to the town, while Superintendent of Schools F. D. Kelsch discussed "Education and the Town."

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Look for Soft Snap, but Don't Alibi Yourself

Shall Julia marry . . . or have a baby?

No, Stranger. I'm not crazy. Julia asked the question herself. And she wants us to tell her what we think.

What's it all about? Well, you might know . . . It's about a married man . . . Such a noble soul . . . and so fond of children. And his wife is just a heartless society woman, so he doesn't dare ask her to have any . . .

And dear little Julia . . . once a petted Only Child, and now a poor, bereaved orphan . . . is all hopped up with the idea that she should step in and . . . but here's the whole story. Read it for yourself:

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"I have never written to you before, but now I am allowing myself the privilege of doing so for two or three reasons—one being that, having read your comments on other problems, I have decided that you have good sense. Please look at both sides of my difficulty, and, if you can, give me some advice. The step I am thinking about taking is a very serious one, whichever way I decide.

"I'll try to go back to the beginning, so you will understand what it's all about. Having been an only child, I had always gotten what there was to get, up to the time my father suddenly died. When that happened, it left a terrible burden on my shoulders. I had had two years of college, and then had gone to work. My parents were buying a home near my business, when Dad was taken, and soon after that sad event, I found myself buying it . . . for Mother, as well as supporting her.

LOVED EACH OTHER

"Where I worked I was thrown in with a man who came to love me, and whom I came to love . . . or at least to think I loved, and who is now very anxious to marry me. But there is another man in my life, too, and although he is married, he is the other side to my problem.

"You see, mother got sick, and there wasn't enough money for a nurse, doctors, medicine, etc. So I went for advice to a well-known attorney with whom I was indirectly in touch, and had been for some years. I asked him if there was any way I could get money to keep going. We talked things over, and he said he didn't think it wise for me to do any of the things we had mentioned, and that he would be glad to lend me the money. OK—as far as I saw. Dumb, eh? How much did I want? $500? No, I only needed $100 at that time. So arrangements were made that I was to have it in two days. Mother knew I was getting the money, so to stop her from worrying, I told her I was signing a note. But I didn't. He never asked it. Next came an invitation to luncheon. Well, I didn't know about that, but being curious, I went. Everything was lovely. Nice chat—delicious food—and then out in the street again. Really, I was rather disappointed. You always hear so many wild stories—and nothing happened. Are you laughing? Well, it went on that way . . . and next time I came away with another $100. Of course, I could have refused and gone off with my head in the air—but he said he liked to give it to me. And nothing out of the way happened. Being a lawyer, he is very subtle. Well, in all I was "loaned" about $1,300. Then, at Christmas time, I was told it was a Christmas present to me.

BILL COMES BACK

"In the meantime I was very much in love with the first man. This was really business with me. Gold digging, call it. Then I had an argument with the first man, and didn't see him for several months. Then mother died, and Miss Martin, you don't know how ghastly lonely I am without her. And now Bill has come back, and wants me to marry him within the year. He makes around $300 a month. Wants a family, in a year or so . . . as do I. That's one step I am contemplating.

"And the other? Well, I don't know if I can make you understand the way I feel or not . . . But the other is giving a baby to this man who has been so good to me and asked so little. You see he has always wanted a family, but he married a young society girl. . . . And she wanted to wait a few years before tying herself down with children . . . and now the subject has become unapproachable with her. But the other night at dinner, he remarked with a drawn look on his face that he hated to die without having had a child.

"If I had one, I would have a settlement first. He is rich. There would be insurance for both myself and the baby, and plenty to live on. The baby would have a marvelous education. Everything.

"What shall I do? It will mean a certain amount of unhappiness either way. And I am not happy now. Haven't been for some time. Marriage doesn't bring happiness — one has to make that—and having another kind of life in the way I have told you would not make me lose respect for myself, and I might come very near to being happy. JULIA D."

NOT RADICAL

So that 's your story, Julia? And it's obvious that you got a big bang out of discussing your thrilling radical plan. But don't kid yourself! It really isn't radical at all. There is nothing new nor original nor daring about either your scheme or your motive. It's just the old, old story of a lazy, worthless female looking for a soft snap . . . and using a baby as well as an alibi.

You don't want that baby any more than I want another ear. You just want to lalligag around Europe and way stations, doing nothing while somebody else pays the bills. Now, personally, I don't care a whoop how or where you spend your life. I have no objection to a lazy existence per se—I would live one myself if I could get by with it. But when you try to dignify your graft by pretending it's a Great Noble Human Experiment, don't expect appreciation from this column for your cute little holdup game.

I have known some pretty low females, Julia. But I have more respect for one of them than I have for one of you dames who use a baby as a cover-up for the oldest racket on earth. If you have to be a rotter, why don't you do it on your own. Why hang it on some helpless little kid?

Certain women excel as social spies.

They have a gift for going around from one group to another gathering tidbits of gossip to relay to those who are eager to hear the worst.

Their success and popularity depends entirely upon their deceit. With their charming manner and a seeming sincerity which inspires confidence they manage to worm out of the most reluctant exactly what they want to know.

None can seem so sympathetic and so understanding to get the gossip she is after.

She keeps in friendly touch with all, so that her sources of information may not lessen.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

Madge Is Assigned to Task of Finding Contents of Letter

There was no amazement in my eyes as Lillian voiced her belief that Philip Veritzen was the author of the letters which had so upset Noel and Mary. But there was distinct irritation at myself more than at her. My anger had been so inflamed against my employer by my persual of the letter he had sent to Mary, that I had given vent to it childishly when my old friend asked me if I had heard from Noel's father. She had shrewdly said that if I had not heard from him I must have heard of him, and of course it was child's play for her to make the deduction when I said I had discovered the author of the letter to Mary.

"Your bet will have no takers," I said. "You win as you always do. He did write those letters, and I'd like to see—"

I stopped, a bit appalled at my anger, and Lillian finished my sentence with a grin.

"His hand 'wither at the wrist,'" she said. "So say we all of us, don't we, Katrina?"

The little nurse nodded.

"If he's been the cause of this upset of Noel's, I'd like to have a hand at the withering," she said.

"When you've read this precious epistle to Mary," I said holding it out, but Lillian put up a hand.

"Sit down and read it aloud," she said, and Katherine promptly echoed her suggestion.

I drew up chairs for all of us, and read Philip Veritzen's strange and heartless letter slowly, to the accompaniment of choking ejaculations of anger from both women. When I had finished, Katherine's face was still angry, but Lillian was leaning back in her chair, laughing heartily.

"Forgive me girls!" she said as she caught our horrified glances, "but I know Philip Veritzen so well. Can't you see how he's pulled all of the old hokum. You know they say there's nobody in the world who can disguise it as he can, when he's putting on those marvelous productions of his. But this time he hasn't attempted to disguise it—he's just spread it thick as sorghum. And what a glorious time the old fool is having taking what he calls his soul out and sticking it full of pinholes and then putting it under the microscope. It's a scream that's what it is."

"It's a scream, all right," I told her soberly. "Remember, Noel got a letter, too, which he destroyed. Let me tell you what the effect of it was as far as Mary is concerned."

The mirth left her face as if someone had wiped it off, and she leaned forward, with contrite eyes.

"Forgive me!" she said. "I had forgotten that these youngsters have not our reactions toward Philip Veritzen. They, no doubt, take him seriously. Tell us what you know."

It was no time for half confidences, I decided, and I availed myself of Mary's permission to tell her staunch friends of Noel's queer behavior. Lillian snorted angrily when I had finished.

"The anointed young idiot!" she muttered. "Sometimes I wonder if he isn't as big a fool as his dad."

But Katherine shook her head soberly.

"Philip Veritzen is also devilish," she said. "You don't know what subtle poison he has concocted for Noel's reading."

"There's one thing certain," Lillian said decidedly. "We must get hold of that other letter."

"But," Katherine protested, Noel destroyed it."

"He hasn't destroyed the memory of it," Lillian retorted, "and one of us must get it out of him if Mary can't."

With one accord Katherine and Lillian turned their eyes toward me.

"No, you don't," I said childishly. "There's no reason why I—"

"Should be the goat," Lillian finished with a little smile which, however, held no mirth. "There isn't, as far as my willingness or Katherine's is concerned to labor with Noel's soul for a year and a day if necessary. But the sad truth remains that while the boy likes both of us immensely, he has had a sort of reverent idealistic affection for you that will make him listen to you if he can be persuaded to give ear to anybody. This is a matter for the most delicate handling. I'm good on many things, I'll take my bow any time I'm asked, and sometimes when there isn't a sign of a curtain call, but when it comes to this psychic business I'm conspicuous by my absence. You might as well send Katie up to interview the lad. Nay, nay, Madgie dear, I'm afraid you're elected."

I looked at Katherine rebelliously and she nodded inexorably.

"I agree with Lillian," she said, "but—there's no hurry about it. Think it over—"

A knock on the door punctuated her words and my little maid's excited face was one broad grin as she hurried through her message.

"Dere vun beeg box for you, Missis Undervood," she babbled, "und Meester Undervood he vant you to coom down qveeck."

Household Hints

Mold the jellied salad in custard cups.

Charity organizations will welcome old books and newspapers and see that they are put to the best sort of use. Why let them accumulate?

If you are planning a house with a terrace that must be fairly steep, plan two lower terraces rather than the one high one. They will be easier to mow and the grass will grow better. Besides, it will add more beauty to the approach of your home.

If you have windows directly the street and it is hard to maintain privacy, paint the screens with white paint thinned with turpentine. This will prevent passers-by from seeing into your room, but it will not cut off an outside view from the interior.

Man's 'Going Foot'

Nearly every man is born with a few drops of the wanderlust in his blood.

* * *

No matter how much he may love his home, there are moments when he feels an itching of his "going foot," and secretly longs to "get away from it all" and lead a roving life.

He seldom has any vital reason; but he can always think up one—if you'll give him time.

It may be because his wife "doesn't understand" him and he yearns for companionship. Or it may be because she understands him too well, and he yearns for novelty and variety.

* * *

It may be because she doesn't give him the mothering and coddling he craves—or because she smothers him to death with her "eternal mothering and coddling." (YOU know how it is!)

* * *

It may be because she is not much of a cook and housekeeper, and he longs for a palatable meal and a few home comforts. Or because she is nothing BUT a cook and a housekeeper, and never has time to pal around with him.

* * *

It may be because she wastes his money, and insists on serving him rich dinners that disagree with him. Or it may be because she tries to save his money, and feeds him on leftovers, half-portions, and Irish stews.

* * *

Sometimes it is because she is too cold and unresponsive and he sighs for affection — and sometimes it is because she is too clinging and affectionate, and he just wants to be LET ALONE.

Sometimes it is because she is too frivolous and drags him out to parties every evening—and sometimes it is because she is too dull and quiet and can't be dragged out of the house, evenings.

* * *

It may be because she will never pick up his things and clean his safety razor, as a dutiful wife should. Or it may be because she is forever following him around like a detective, picking up his things and fooling with his razor."

* * *

It may be because she spends all her time in the beauty parlors and never thinks of anything but her looks. Or because she spends all her time reading novels and eating chocolates and cares nothing for her looks. Fifty-fifty!

* * *

It may be that she is too much of a highbrow, and he longs for a cuddly, little playmate. Or, that she is too much of a dumbbell and he longs for a mental companion or a spiritual mate.

The only thing that he never considers is that his WIFE may have a "going foot," too; and that she may be as bored or fed up or as restless as HE is. And that what they both need is just a nice little Matrimonial Vacation — far, far away from the monotony of domesticity!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Medical Science Realizes Value of Transfusions

Every other group of workers has its oganization. Why should we not have an organization for the protection of blood donors?

DR. COPELAND

In New York City every year there are about 11,000 transfusions, averaging about one pint of blood in each case. About two years ago the blood givers organized the "Co-Operative Blood Donor Agency," in connection with New York Hospital. Later the "Blood Transfusion Betterment Association," was formed. The latter organization maintains offices where candidates are examined and selected, and where monthly re-examinations are held.

Women are not accepted. This is because their veins are too small and, as a rule, they do not stand the loss of blood as readily as men. Donors are chosen, not alone with reference to their physical health and the condition of the veins at the elbow, but also for their appearance and good character.

References to this form of treatment are found in the writings of ancient Egyptians and Romans. It is known that in 1492 the Pope received blood from three donors.

For many years blood transfusions have not been uncommon. Since the World War, however, they have become an important factor in medical treatment.

This story may not mean much to most of you. But there are many cases where this procedure is essential to the life of the patient. There are times when he must have supplied immediately a quantity of good, rich blood.

Of course you know the term "blood transfusion" means the transfer of blood from the circulation of one living person into that of another. Transfusions are given to replace the blood lost by hemorrhage after an accident or operation, or by hemorrhage in cases of internal ulcer.

This treatment is indicated too, in diseases like pernicious anemia, and other conditions accompanying deterioration of the blood. In many infections, it may be helpful. It is given in cases of illuminating gas poisoning.

Science has progressed in its study of this subject so that there attends the transfusion very little or no danger. The physician makes such before giving the treatment that he is using blood compatible with that of the patient. He exercises care that too great a quantity of blood is not given. By proper technique, he prevents the passage of a bubble of air or a blood clot into the body of his patient.

You can see that while it is unusual, it is a method of treatment that has great importance in a desperate case.

Answers to Health Queries

H. B. Q.—What causes cramps in the legs?

A.—This may be due to poor circulation. Build up the general health and your circulation will improve.

* * *

R. S. Q.—I have been troubled with tickling and formation of sputum in the mouth and throat; this I am forced to spit out. Have been examined and my trouble has been diagnosed as a sinus condition. I am still expectorating. What would you advise? My lungs have been X-rayed.

A.—Correct the underlying catarrhal disturbance first of all. Keep the nose and throat clear and keep up your general health.

Beauty Box

Never push back the cuticle about the finger nails with a mental instrument. This habit injures the matrix and produces white bubbles in the nail structure.

Walk with toes pointed straight ahead. Pointing toes outward weakens the ankles, throws the foot out alignment, creates all manner of foot ills. The ankle is a hinge and it was intended the foot should lift straight up, never sidewise.

You can roll them hips away. Lie on the floor on your back, lift one leg, roll the body over and touch the floor with the toe, making it a far stretch. Not only the rollings, but the tensing of the thigh and hip muscles trims down the female form divine.

Are you getting your sun bath every day? Must do. Makes for wim and wigor. Protect the complexion, the neck and arms with a generous oiling of cold cream. After exposure to a strong sunlight use cream instead of soap and water that cause freckles to pop out. Powder is a protection against the rays of the sun.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

What was it Farrell had told her? She must never accept an invitation from a stranger. He would prefer she accepted no invitations whatever until he got to New York. He would show her everything there was to see.

"I'd like to go," Raquel said, with evident regret, "but—my dress wouldn't do." Opportunely she had thought of the dress. It provided the right excuse. She must not offend this woman who wanted to be kind to her.

"Nonsense!" The woman rippled gemmed fingers along the gold of her own gown. "Look at this old rag! Absolutely in ribbons. That little frock is becoming to your style. Severe—and the dull green with your coloring. Don't think another thing about it."

A still small voice in the back of Raquel's mind whispered to her the woman was too insistant. It would be better that she did not go, that she return straight to her hotel.

"I don't know—"

The woman's smile froze.

"Of course," she said with a shrug, "if you'd rather not."

Raquel hastened to placate her. She was so beautiful, so pleasant, so plainly a person of wealth and refinement, it was a shame to be rude to her.

"Oh, but I do want to go!" exclaimed Raquel. "I've never seen a night club. I've been in a cabaret, but it didn't amount to much. If you're sure I won't be a bother, why—I'll go."

The woman took Raquel's arm.

"There's the bell for the curtain," she said. "Come. I'll be waiting for you in the lobby after the performance."

Back in her seat, Raquel began to regret her acceptance. There was a disturbing hardness to the beautiful blonde, for all her cordiality. Perhaps the woman wouldn't wait for her, after all. If she did wait, then Raquel would go. But she would keep her eyes open.

"I came all the way to New York for adventure," Raquel kept telling herself. "It is here right at my elbow, and I'm acting like a scared rabbit." Raquel despised cowards.

Yes, the woman was waiting. Near the entrance. With a short, thick man who bulged in the middle and licked his lips when he talked.

"Mr. Barnes, Miss—Miss—"

"Pleased to meet you, I'm sure," said Mr. Barnes.

If Benny ddin't stop licking his lips, she, Raquel, would walk away from them both and go straight to her hotel.

"I know you won't mind," the beautiful woman rippled on. "We, Miss Hermosa—may I call you—"

"Raquel."

"Raquel and I just happened to stand next to each other between the acts. She's all alone in New York, never been here before, and I thought it would be kind of jolly to show her what the big city is like."

"Yes—yes, indeed." Benny beamed at Raquel. "We'll try the Club Divine. That ought to be lively enough for any little stranger. Put!" Benny blew out his lips with an explosive, putting sound.

"Here's my car." He propelled Raquel and the blonde woman to a long yellow monster enclosed in glass. "The Club Divine, Tony, and step on it."

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Deciding Upon the Evening's Entertainment

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

The young lady I go about with and I have a problem for you. We have decided to let you be the judge—so here it is. A says it is the lady's choice where to spend the evening. B says it is the gentleman's choice. Which is correct? CHARLES.

Since the gentleman is the host it is correct and "masterful" for him to suggest the form of the entertainment. As a matter of fact, usually they talk this over together, and so decide what they would like to do.

Acknowledging the Box of Wedding Cake

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just received a tiny box of wedding cake from a couple I know and I would like to know if I should write and thank them? If so, what should I say? PERPLEXED.

Yes, write a note telling them how much you appreciated their kindness in thinking of you, and how much you enjoyed the wedding cake.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, July 29

A fairly successful and prosperous day is the forecast made from the lunar transit in ascendency on this day. The strongest augury is for new undertakings and for plans in connection with large corporations or secret bodies, or wherever shrewdness, diplomacy and subtlety enter as determining factors. Those in employment are likely to encounter small anxieties.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly successful year with new plans and projects, or in all manner of negotiations calling for subtle, intriguing and cunning manipulation or agreements. Employment may give a small measure of concern.

A child born on this day may be inclined to secretive and subtle ways of managing its affairs, and may incline to curious or mysterious research. It may succeed better with secret bodies or "mergers" in regular employment.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

I would like, in some way, to help Mrs. L., who shows by the letter she sends me that she is brooding over the fact that she is a divorced woman. Married at 28, divorced four years ago, she lived with her husband only five weeks. They were, she says, wholly unsuited, and he drank to excess. Now she loves a man who cannot reconcile the fact that he wants her for a wife, with what he chooses to call "her past." He speaks of it as if she were some sort of felon. He has, evidently, made her feel inferior and unhappy, and his family has helped him in his decision to discontinue their friendship.

Mrs. L. is certain that she did the right thing in leaving her husband. Perhaps she might have had her marriage annulled, but she didn't. She asks if, the next time she meets someone who cares for her, she should hide the fact that she is a divorced woman.

Certain NOT! A divorce is a matter of public record and it wouldn't be playing fair to marry a man who would be sure to find out later and feel duped.

A man who says he loves you, and then speaks of your unfortunate marriage as your "past," as if you were a shady character, is NOT the man you want to marry. If his mother influences him now, how could you hope to untie him from the apron strings?

The divorce subject is a very delicate one. However, when he met you he knew you were divorced. He says he loves you. Then if something stands in the way of his marrying a divorcee, you can only look about for a man who knows all about you and still wants you.

I hope you will stop thinking of yourself as a doomed woman, because between the lines I read that you are a pretty fine sort. What if you had married mamma's darling, and brought some unhappy children into the world? You are in rare good luck because you will now avoid a repetition of your former unhappy experience. Cheer up and don't write him or pay any attention to him. You are a fine woman and we can't all think alike. Plenty of people will be happy to find you just as you are, a clean minded, agreeable girl, with high ideals. Put that former mistake out of your mind.

He may get a wife who will cut the apron string, pull his hair and arrange a nice juicy past for him in the years to come. I'm not wishing him any bad luck, but he was unkind to you.

HE'S KING OF THE COURTS

HENRI COCHET

Cochet, star of the French Davis Cup team, won three matches against the United States in the challenge round play completed yesterday and has usurped the place of the once great Bill Tilden as the world's best player.

(NOTE—James J. Long concludes his vacation today and will resume writing this column tomorrow. The sports editor has been conducting it during his absence.)

OUR OWN WILL M'KECHNIE, of Wilkinsburg, whose home town sticks to him through thick and thin because he's the type of man of whom any folks might well be proud, has his own ideas of the pennant situation in the major leagues.

Bill, who has managed the Pirates and Cardinals to pennants and now is in his first year of trying to get the Boston Braves up there, is doing wonders with the New Englanders, and, with a few changes here and there, mainly in the way of a little well-balanced hitting strength, will be heard from in a substantial, if not violent, manner before he's through with his latest job, which has a four-year contract attached to it. He has the faculty of getting a lot out of the men playing under him, largely because he is human in his treatment of them. The demand for his services is the best criterion of his worth.

BILL THINKS BOTH big league chases will be ding-dong right down to the finish. Of the National League battle, in particular, he says:

BILL M'KECHNIE.

McKechnie is doing great things as the manager of the Boston Braves. He has them within striking distance of the first division and is looking ahead to even better days.

"This is the closest race in the older major league in my memory. The pennant that will be won when it's all over will be the cheapest in years. I do not mean to infer that the teams are not up to standard, but rather that the race is so close that any team playing anywhere near a .600 gait will win handily. I won't make any attempt to name the ultimate winner; any man's guess is as good as another's. Why, if we had a few more good hitters we'd be in the thick of it ourselves. Our pitchers are there and we field with the best of them. When we get the necessary power at bat, we'll cause plenty of trouble. We're scouring the minors and we'll get better as we go along. We don't figure to crowd out the leaders this year, but other years and races are coming, and we'll have to be reckoned with."

Some idea of what Bill means when he says the pennant in the National League will be a cheapie-won one this year may be deduced from the fact that in the entire history of the league, dating back to 1876, only two clubs ever have won the pennant with a percentage of less than .600. They were the Cardinals of 1921, who finished with a mark of .578, and the Phillies of 1915, who wound up with a record of .597. The Cubs won last year with a final percentage of .617. The record for the league was set by the Chicago club of 1880, which won 67 games and lost only 17, for a mark of .798.

In the American League, now playing its thirty-first season, five clubs have won pennants with percentages of less than .600, Detroit, in 1908; Boston, in 1916 and 1918; Washington, in 1924, and New York, in 1926. The Athletics finishing with the high mark of .693 last year, fell short of the Yankees' league record of .714, set in 1927, when they won 110 games and lost only 44.

Today's standings show the Robins leading the National League race with 57 victories and 37 defeats for a mark of .606, as against the Athletics' leading record of .667 in the American League.

TOO MUCH COCHET! That just about sums up the story of the defeat of the United States Davis Cup team in the challenge round with France, completed yesterday. The great Gaul, who has succeeded Bill Tilden to the rank of the world's greatest tennis player, carried too many guns for Uncle Sam's team, winning both of his singles matches, against George M. Lott, Jr., and Tilden, and also

FRENCH CRUSH YANKS; KEEP DAVIS CUP

AUTEUIL, France, July 28.—(AP.)—Once more the tennis musketeers of France have beaten off America's challenge for the Davis Cup.

Capturing both of the final singles matches yesterday, France retained the cup by a margin of four victories to one and left no doubt of the superiority of the French aces, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, over the best America can offer in a tennis way at the present time.

Borotra, the "bounding Basque" of old, clinched the series with a five set victory over George Lott, of Chicago, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6, and Cochet put the finishing touches to an overwhelming French victory by trouncing Big Bill Tilden, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

TILDEN ONLY WINNER

Thus the series ended with Tilden chalking up the only American point by beating Borotra in singles on Friday. Lott lost both his singles matches and Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, Wimbledon champions, lost the doubles to Cochet and Jacques Brugnon.

France had been strongly favored to retain the cup, especially after the defeat of Van Ryn and Allison in doubles, but America had been figured to put up a much closer fight for the trophy it lost in 1927. A year ago France won by a margin of only three to two and most experts expected a similar score this year.

Cochet, showing a remarkable reversal of form after his poor performance at Wimbledon, dominated the challenge round as he has for several years. Once he solved Tilden's game yesterday, he gave Big Bill as bad a trouncing as the Philadelphian ever has taken. Lott put up a gallant fight against Borotra, but the veteran Frenchman called upon his experience in tournament play when pressed and managed to hold the upper hand.

TWO END CUP PLAY

For Tilden and Borotra, the series marked the end of their Davis Cup careers. Big Bill was pressed into service this year against his own desires and announced he would never play for the international trophy again. Borotra also told the Associated Press he was through with cup play.

In the four last challenge rounds, all between France and the United States, the French have won 14 matches to 6 for the United States. France lifted the cup in 1927 at Germantown by a margin of 3-2; defended it in 1928 and won 4-1; won again by 3-2 last year and now by 4-1 again.

Reston Wins Ohio Free Links Title

CANTON, O., July 28.—(AP.)—James (Scotty) Reston, of the Greenmount Club, Dayton, yesterday was crowned first champion of the Ohio Public Links Golf Association as a result of his brilliant victory over a field of 62 rivals in a 72-hole event that started Saturday morning.

Reston, a student of the University of Illinois, still in his teens, had a score of 296.

Second place went to Herbert Bash, of the Indian Spring Club, of Columbus, lead of the field yesterday. Bash had 301.

Third position went to Jose Kurek, of Toledo, with 302.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: EVELYN HAGARA CAN SING THREE MINUTES ON ONE BREATH—Miss Hagara, who lives at 314 West 89th street, New York City, recently performed this unique and amazing feat in my presence. Considering the fact that she can sing a song or run the scales for three minutes in one breath makes the accomplishment more remarkable than holding a single note for that length of time. She has spent seven years of constant work and concentration to rediscover the lost art of Bel Canto breathing and at last has perfected it. HELIUM GAS WILL KEEP CAKE FRESH—Helium has characteristics peculiar to it alone, and these indicate the wide use to which it will be employed by industry. It will not burn, is colorless and odorless and is very light in weight. Ideal applications have been found for it in the fields of food preservation and in a recent experiment a cake was kept in helium atmosphere for six months and found to be perfectly fresh and tasteful. (See: "Popular Aviation" for June, 1930.) THE 18,000 GROSS TONS OF THE SANTA CLARA WEIGH NOTHING—The gross tonnage of a vessel is less than its displacement of water. If you translate the normal pressure of the water of the ocean into weight, it is only necessary to balance the gross tons of a liner against its displacement weight to arrive at the result that the gross tons weigh exactly nothing.

MALCO BATTLES RUDY TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tommy Laurens vs. Tony Arquero, 10 rounds, Lynn, Mass.

Tom Malco, of Soho, one of the most rugged welterweight boxers in these parts, will be out to get even tonight in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, for a victory awarded Young Rudy of Charleroi, in a bout between them at Motor Square Garden during the past winter season. The consensus of opinion at that time was that Malco had demonstrated his superiority over the Charleroi slugger, but the officials thought and voted to the contrary.

The pair clash in the main bout of 10 rounds of an all-star card arranged to take the place of a Tommy Freeman-Johnny Indrisano show, which was canceled when Indrisano suffered a cut eye in training. As both are lusty wallopers, a lot of action is expected to be crammed into their battle.

Another 10-round bout, between Harry Williams, local Negro light-heavyweight, and Patsy Pirrone, of Canton, O., makes the bill a double windup affair. This will be the fourth meeting between Williams and Pirrone.

ERIE WINS TITLE

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 28.—(AP.)—Erie won the Northwestern Pennsylvania championship title in the American Legion Junior League baseball competition Saturday by defeating Sharpsville, 8 to 5.

Uruguay Soccer Team in Final

The Uruguayans will meet Argentine for the title later this week. Argentina eliminated the United States, 6-1, in the semi-finals Saturday.

A. L. MAY QUIT ST. LOUIS

DETROIT, July 28.—According to a copyrighted story in today's Detroit Times, a change in the personnel of the major leagues—the first since the National Agreement was drawn up 27 years ago—is imminent.

By the shift, it is said, St. Louis will lose its American League franchise and will be offered Milwaukee's berth in the American Association. If this is accepted, the present Milwaukee club will move to Chicago's West Side as the eight member of the American League, giving Chicago three major league clubs.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, is said to be opposed to the move, but his objections will be set aside. The plan has been contemplated for about a year, the Times' story says, and will go into effect before next year's pennant races get under way.

Stella Is Permitted To Run for Poland

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—Cablegrams received today by officials of the A. A. U. have granted permission to Stella Walsh, Cleveland sprint star, to compete for Poland in track meets with Austria and Japan and still not endanger her chances of competing for the United States in the 1932 Olympics.

The question of the star's status in the Olympics was put up to the International Federation in Stockholm and the Women's Federation in Paris. Favorable replies were received from both bodies, it was said at the offices of the A. A. U. here.

Miss Walsh, a Polish citizen, has applied for citizenship in the United States and said she would compete for Poland only if she could still compete two years hence for her adopted country.

BUCCOS WIN DOUBLE BILL IN GOTHAM

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

READING, Pa., July 28.—Still intoxicated with the fruits of a dual victory that ended an otherwise common-place journey to the Atlantic seaboard, the Pirates today were relaxing in this well-known Pennsylvania city. The Pittsburghers are meeting the local club of the International League this afternoon in an exhibition game.

Jewel Ens and his voyagers gave the Giant flag hopes a terrible blast before saying farewell to Manhattan. The New Yorkers were riding high, wide and handsome when the two clubs reached the Polo Grounds yesterday. As the shades of eventide fell upon Coogan's Bluff, the Men of McGraw were twice defeated and their pennant aspirations jolted in an indescribable manner.

Approximately 30,000 came out to see the dual attraction which was staged on a sweltering field. The Pirates were bold, bad actors at the plate in both games, the score of the two contests being 10 to 8 and 8 to 4.

BOOL, SPENCER STAR

Two of the newer Buccaneers stood out in the sugar coated triumphs. Farmer Al Bool, who can manipulate a one-man plow as deftly as any man in Nebraska, took the matter of winning the first battle into his own big hands. The powerful catcher rammed out a double with the bases loaded in the sixth inning, his blow cleaning off the sacks. He came up again in the eighth to deliver a crashing three-bagger which also figured heavily in the Pittsburgh scoring.

Glenn Spencer, quiet Binghamton boy, was the hero of the closing struggle. The frail appearing righthander held the vaunted Giant attack to eight safeties as he baffled with his fast ball and hook. Heinie Meine and Steve Swetonic won the opener, Meinie receiving credit for the victory.

Manager Ens went through with his threat to change his lineup against southpaw pitchers. When Bill Walker stepped out to warm up for the early scrap, Ens relegated Gus Suhr to the bench. George Grantham moved to first, Charlie Engle moved in at the keystone sack and Ira Flagstead went to the outfield. Thanks to the power in the bat of Bool, the new battle front came through with colors flying.

SUHR ON BENCH

Ens declares he will keep Suhr on the bench indefinitely when the left-handers work. The Coast League slugger had a tough journey through the East, his impotency with the stick causing his removal. The boss figures the rest period may serve to get him back in his former stride.

By winning both of the fights with the Giants on the last day in the East, the Pirates were able to get back to the top of the second division, displacing the Braves.

The Pirates' second excursion was much more successful than their first jaunt eastward. The Buccos copped nine games and lost eight in the 17 played. One was won and two lost in Brooklyn, four out of five in Boston brought Pittsburgh victories, an even split in four games was the result in Philadelphia, while two of the five contests at the Polo Grounds saw the Pittsburgh colors on top.

Manager Ens went back to his left-handed battle array in the second game in view of the enemy's righthanded pitching. This move put Suhr on first, but the luckless Dutchman could not get any of his drives into safe territory. He made only eight hits on the trip.

Nick Altrock Says:

CHICAGO, July 28.—We finished our road trip yesterday with a couple of flat tires and a burnt out connecting rod. The next two days we play exhibition games as a horrible example of what can happen to a pennant contender when it buys a mileage book. Our worst setbacks of the entire season came from the Browns and White Sox, which is like Jack Dempsey wading into a swarm of Singer's Midgets and coming out with a black eye. If we are going to win the flag now, we need Charley Paddock as a pace maker. I wish the A's all the luck in the world and hope they step into an open manhole on the way back to Philadelphia.

M'KAY LEADS IN P. G. A. QUALIFYING TEST

DAVE BREAKS FOX CHAPEL RECORD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Dave McKay, Pittsburgh Field Club professional, established a new competitive record for the Fox Chapel Country Club course and paced a small but select field for the first 18-hole round as 19 Pittsburgh district pros engaged in a 36-hole fight for this sector's two qualifying berths in the national P. G. A. tournament at Fox Chapel today.

Flashing consistant brilliance on the fairways and putting with a magic touch, McKay reeled off six birdies, 10 pars and two buzzards for a scintillating 69 three strokes under par and one better than the previous competitive record for the layout. His only slips were at the par-4 first where he took a 5, and the par-3 sixth where he took a 4.

NUMEROUS BIRDIES

Birdies at the fourth, seventh, eighth and ninth more than offset these lapses, and he reached the turn in 36, one under perfect figures. On no hole on the in nine was McKay over par, and birdies at the twelfth and fifteenth enabled him to card his record total. The sinking of a 45-foot putt on the spacious twelfth green was the highlight of his great round. His card:

Par, out	4	5	3	4	4	3	4	5	5—37
McKay, out	5	5	3	4	4	4	3	4	4—36
Par, in	4	3	4	4	4	5	4	3	5—36—72
McKay, in	4	2	3	4	4	3	4	3	5—33—69

George Flinn, Fox Chapel amateur, carded a 69 on his home club course in a friendly match, but until today his mark had not been matched in a tournament.

BARONI SECOND

Fred Baroni, of Stanton Heights, was second to McKay at the finish of the first round with par 72. Perry Del Vecchio, Greensburg, and Peter O'Hara, Westmoreland, followed with 73 and 74, respectively. Baroni balanced two buzzards with two birdies going out, and shot even part on all holes coming home. His car:

Out . . 4 5 3 5 4 4 3 5 4—37
In . . . 4 3 4 4 4 4 3 5—35—72

The second 18 holes of the test are being played this afternoon, and the first-round scores indicated that there will be many withdrawals. The scores:

Dave McKay, Pittsburgh Field Club . . . . . 36-33—69
Dale Zimmerman, Chartiers Heights . . . . . 42-40—82
Walter Johnstone, Butler . . . . . 39-38—77
Jack Kennedy, Fox Chapel . . . . . 42-35—77
Fred Baroni, Stanton Heights . . . . . 37-35—72
Perry Del Vecchio, Greensburg . . . . . 37-36—73
Peter O'Hara, Westmoreland . . . . . 36-38—74
Ted Luther, Cory, Pa . . . . . 38-37—75
Walter Loeffler, South Hills . . . . . 38-39—77
Vincent Eldred, Highland . . . . . 38-40—78
George McBride, Country Club of Pittsburgh . . . . . 40-38—78
George Underwood, Altoona . . . . . 40-40—80
Burt Baird, Johnstown . . . . . 43-38—81
Eddie Towns, Ambridge . . . . . 41-42—83
Jimmy Devlin, Hernando . . . . . 41-37—78
Horace Brand, Uniontown . . . . . 40-41—81
Charley Manning, Sharpsburg . . . . . 41-39—80
Johnny Manley, Montour Heights . . . . . 44-40—84
Jock Sutherland, Fox Chapel . . . . . 40-41—81

The next big event of the week will be played at the Oakmont Country Club Wednesday when star amateurs and dubs alike from throughout the district will make use of their state handicap cards and events. A new record for entries is expected before the day is done. The entry fee is only $1.00 and post-entries will be accepted until time of play at the office of the State Association, Miss Lois Miller, Atlantic 0519.

Likewise, those who do not have state handicap cards may make application for them even at this late hour. Those not presenting handicap cards must play from scratch. And all amateurs are eligible to compete if their club is affiliated with the commonwealth governing body.

WOMEN PLAY FRIDAY

On Thursday, a big day will be marked at the Valley Heights Country Club, officially titled "Boosters' Day." A red and blue team match will mark the event, the winners entertaining the losing team—and the party will be a stag from beginning to end.

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania has slated a one-day medal play tournament for Friday at the popular Greensburg Country Club.

Tomorrow, Carl F. Kauffman, national public links champion for the last three consecutive years, pride of the local muny golfers, will set forth on his journey to Jacksonville, Fla., where, beginning Monday of next week, he will endeavor to defend his crown and bring back to Pittsburgh an honor only expected of a Bobby Jones—a fourth National championship. Kauffmann is quite confident of his prowess, and his game is just reaching its edge. Everyone in this section is pulling for him to make good his fight against what is expected to be a strong field.

Kenneth C. Witherow, U. S. G. A. public links committeeman from this district, will escort the remaining players to Jacksonville, either Thursday night or Friday. They will entrain for Washington, D. C., and proceed South from there.

which indicates that they have pleased the fans in the past.

In an eight-rounder, Floyd Hybert, Erie and New York, takes on Bert, of Erie and New York, boxes Allen Beatty, Negro welterweight, of McKeesport. Hybert has boxed Tommy Freeman, Baby Joe Gans and others of note.

Two six-rounders open the show. Jimmy (Snowflakes) Wright, Negro knockerout, of Cleveland, meets Nick Polis, Aliquippa middleweight, in the second of these, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, and Steve Senich, of Homestead, bantams, ring up the curtain at 8:45, daylight saving time.

Between Rounds

Ray Cullins, the blonde, hard-hitting lightweight, who meets Battling Glass, of Denora, in the main bout of the double windup show at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night, with Young Barker, of Charleroi, and Billy Brent, of the Hill, furnishing the other 10-rounder, qualifies as one of the few Erie battlers who have made good with the local fans. Most of the highly-touted Erieites flop when they show their wares before Pittsburgh fans. Cullins has won decisions over Johnny Smarkey and Andy Andruzzi in his two appearances in local rings.

Bronzer rain halted the staging of the semi-finals and finals in the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament at the Meyers Bowl after 10 bouts had been fought Saturday night, the completion of this event two hours set back to next Friday night, making it a four nights' affair. Bouts were decided last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, the said having been one of the largest ever gathered for an amateur tournament around here.

Jimmy McVey, Negro middleweight of Rankin, is a new member of the Benny Bonfiglio stable, which also includes Buck McTiernan, George Pabla, Peaches Gallagher and Angelo Cerquone. One of the stars of the Golden Gloves tournament also will join this string shortly.

Battling Glass and Art Fromer have been matched for a 10-round bout at Johnstown, August 11.

BUFF DONNELLI DUKE COACH

Waldo (Buff) Donnelli, one of the greatest football stars turned out at Duquesne University and former captain of the Heidelberg National amateur soccer football team, has been appointed freshman football coach at the Bluff school, it was announced today.

The appointment of Donnelli marks the first time Duquesne University has had a freshman coach. Donnelli will assume his new duties this fall.

Donnelli played a prominent part in leading the Bluffites to an undefeated season last fall. He captained the 1928 and 1929 elevens at Duquesne.

JUNIOR STARS SEEK CENTER NET TITLE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Now that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh Public Parks net championship is definitely off the board, save for the detail of engraving more than a score of trophies and of whipping the winners, Frank Broida of Frick and Mrs. Jean Artzberger of Olympia, into the best of trim for the National Public Parks tourney in Washington, D. C., next month, thoughts of Steel City racqueters—particularly those of youthful vintage—turn to opening of the annual Pittsburgh Center Junior and Boys' championships on the Carnegie Tech rectangles tomorrow morning.

With one of the best-balanced junior fields in local history and one of the smallest and weakest boy's groups in district annals, the youngsters' event goes to the post as an affair likely to consume not more than three days and perhaps even less.

BOYS' ENTRY LIGHT

At final meeting of the Center Tournament Committee late yesterday it was decided that, in view of the limited group entered in the boys' division, the bars might be let down to some extent in the juniors so that 17 entries have been accepted in that section. The list of prospective contestants closed last Saturday evening with the aforementioned junior total and only three aspirants to boys' laurels.

The junior seeded quartet is topped by Frank Broida, who last week not only copped the Pittsburgh public parks crown, but took time out to journey to Philadelphia and there to advance within a point of the Pennsylvania state junior semi-finals. Second is Jack Redmond, Pittsburgh city high school premier, who pushed Broida to four tough sets in the inter-park semi-finals Friday. Chuck Arensberg, hard-hitting Shady Side Academy captain, is third, with Jack Hermann, parks semi-finalist and another Shady Sider, fourth. There is no seeding among the boys.

In addition to the Pittsburgh junior host, which includes Broida, Redmond, Arensberg, Herrmann and several other clever contenders, there will be numerous out-of-town delegates, such as Crosby Leyda, Bellevue; Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburg; Edwin Clark and Duane Littell, Beaver Falls; Maurice Saperstein, Bridgeville; John Burke and Harry Foreman, California, Pa., and Delmont Barbor, Wilmerding. Among the boys, Harold Mathieson, of Koppel, is the lone visitor.

TO DEFAULT TARDY

The milling will get under way under the direction of Jack Lauler, P. A. A. star, and Jack Beatty, Stanton Heights captain, tomorrow at 11 a. m. Entrants failing to report promptly will be defaulted, for court facilities will be limited and the tourney must move forward without delay to allow for completion late Wednesday or early Thursday. Winners in the respective divisions will be sent by the Pittsburgh Tennis Association to compete as Steel City representatives in the national junior and boys' championships at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., the week of August 11.

Reverting for the nonce to mention of the lately-terminated Public Parks conclave, the writer was most gratified at the remarkably fine condition of the new Frick Park net enclosure in which the Inter-Park Elimination Series was run off. The Forbes-Braddock rectangles evoked unsolicited praise from such authoritative sources as National Public Parks Tennis Committeeman David I. McCahill; former West Penn Champion Dave O'Loughlin, West Penn Doubles Champion McCook Reed, and nearly every one else who last week inspected the layout for the first time.

COURTS LAUDED

Personally, we are convinced that these courts, six in number, constitute the classiest battery of rectangles in the district and that goes for club, as well as municipal, lots. All of which reflects vast credit upon Supt. Crass and merits special commendation for Groundkeeper Jim Pryor, who did an amazingly good job of keeping the clay surfaces in tip-top shape despite the ravages of a fortnight's dry spell.

Committeeman McCahill also came to bat with a strong boost for the enterprise of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in sponsoring the Public Parks play in such comprehensive and thoroughly successful fashion and he also took occasion to add a word of gratification over the many beautiful prizes awarded winners and runners-up in the various parks and classes.

JUNIOR SINGLES.

Preliminary round—John L. Green vs. John Burke.

BOYS' SINGLES.

Tilden was superb in his comeback attempt, winning the only match for this country, against Jean Borotra, in the first encounter, and taking the first set against Cochet. The eleventh-hour naming of this hero of a decade of Davis Cup play was justified by his performance. But for him, our forces would have been subjected to a humiliating shutout defeat.

IT PROBABLY WAS Tilden's last stand in Cup play. And, with his passing, we may have to wait several more years while our young stars develop before we may reasonably hope to overcome the very pronounced French supremacy, which now has held sway for four years.

Cochet stands at the top and he should be almost invincible for a few more seasons. He is a one-man team, who has beaten Tilden in their last three meetings in Cup competition and has lost only their first tussle, back in 1927. Lott's great losing battle against Borotra yesterday was a noteworthy effort.

TOM DUGGAN, the hockey and horse and dog-racing promoter, who died suddenly from a heart attack in Montreal the other night, and who was known to the sports fans of Pittsburgh as the pioneer of greyhound racing at the Bridgeville Speedway, is just beginning to receive credit, in death, for his breadth of vision and imagination as a promoter. Many stories of the man are being told and written, and the writer who so far has come forward with the best insight into the man's character and the workings of his mind and hand is Alfred Dayton, of the New York Sun.

Dayton tells how Duggan, a decade ago, foresaw the possibilities of professional big league hockey in the United States and sewed up for himself the New York, Brooklyn and Boston rights. At that time the National League consisted of only four clubs, the Ottawa Senators, Toronto St. Pats, Montreal Canadiens and Hamilton Tigers. He persuaded the league to grant him two franchises in the United States for approximately $6,000. Today a franchise is worth at the very least $100,000. One of his franchises Duggan sold to Boston interests and the matter still was in litigation at the time of his death. He induced Bill Dwyer to take over the New York territory with the Rangers, and, when his friend, Col. John S. Hammond, wanted to put in a second franchise, the Americans, Duggan, who could have kept him out, told him to go ahead and even helped him to get started.

It is doubtful if Duggan left much cash behind when he died. He was a hail fellow well met who spent lavishly and liked to see his friends enjoy themselves at his expense. He was full of ideas, but seldom remained long with one after launching it. He always was getting into something new and leaving other people to develop and cash in on his brain children. His hockey operations were merely a sample of this trait.

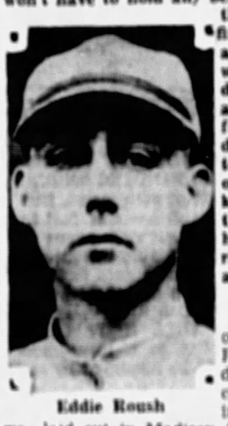
ONE OF THE busiest men in baseball is not in organized baseball. He is John M. Dugan, of Cincinnati, a recent visitor here to attend the annual meeting of the board of directors of the National Baseball Federation. He will return next month for the annual tournament of the Union Printers' International Baseball League, in which representative teams from 11 cities will compete.

A printer on the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune during the fall and winter months, Dugan confines all of his interest during the warmer months to sandlot baseball. He is the Judge Landis of the sandlotters in his home city, as president of the Greater Cincinnati Amateur Baseball Commission; is president of Cincinnati Typographical Union No. 3; chairman of the board of directors of the National Baseball Federation, whose annual world championship tournament he has been managing since 1918, and president of the Union Printers' International Baseball League, which has staged annual tournaments since 1908, with the exception of the World War years.

DUGAN KNOWS HIS baseball. Before taking up his executive baseball duties, he was an umpire for 19 years, 12 of them as a sandlotter and the last seven in professional leagues, having officiated in the Central, Western and South Atlantic circuits. He took the place of Cy Rigler in the Central League when Cy moved up to the National League.

Sport Vignettes

Time was when Eddie Roush, a star of the Federal League, later with the Cincinnati Reds and New York Giants, could get away with his annual holdouts and was a high-salaried ace, but, with his best playing days behind him, the old gag doesn't work any more. After receiving $70,000 from the Giants for the 1927, '28 and '29 seasons, he held out for $15,000 this year and still is whistling for it. However, he received princely pay for 15 years and saved his money and they won't have to hold any benefits for him . . . . One has to hand it to the managers of modern boxers for their financiering when it comes to the winning and losing of titles . . . . It is no secret that when a champion knows he is doomed to defeat by the first good mugg that comes along he begins to do some bargaining, offering to sell the crown to the highest bidder . . . . That's why some ordinary contenders get the chances while the deserving ones who won't pay for the privilege of knocking the slipping rulers off their thrones are passed up. The oldtimers may have been better fighters, but they were rank novices when it came to phenagling around for the coin.



Eddie Roush

FOR YEARS, THE late Paddy Harmon, of Chicago, wanted to be known as the Tex Rickard of the Middle West, and before he died last week, following an automobile accident, he asked that he be laid out in state in the Chicago Stadium, just as Rickard was laid out in Madison Square Garden. The sports temple that he built, even as Harmon had caused the Stadium to rise as a monument to his memory . . . . Almost anything may happen in baseball now that the Boston Red Sox have given $50,000 in cash and players for Shortstop Harold (Rabbit) Warstler, of the Indianapolis Club . . . . Warstler comes highly touted. He is 24 years old, lives in Canton, O., and is the father of four children, having been married when he was 18.

FRED WRIGHT, who recently won his third successive Massachusetts amateur golf title, says he is just beginning to learn what this tournament business is all about after 15 years of competitive golf . . . . He avers that it isn't merely a matter of making the shots . . . . He trains for tournaments by playing a lot of rounds, preferably over the tournament course, to familiarize himself with the troublesome spots, then plays everything safe throughout his matches and never concedes anything, but plays out his string on every hole . . . . "Too many golfers give up too quickly when they get into a bad spot," he says. "There is no telling that they won't chip into the cup from a bad lie or that their opponents won't fooule. Yes sir, there is quite a lot to playing tournament golf, and most of it is hard work, practice and playing everything right up to the pin." . . . . One of the greatest games pitched by Grover Cleveland Alexander, recently dropped from the Texas League as incorrigible, was turned in just 20 years ago when he was a kid breaking in with the Phillies. It was a 15-inning battle and Alex won it, 2 to 1. Doc Scanlon, who opposed him over the route, like Alex, allowed only eight hits . . . . While Alex now is down and out, the good doctor, who was a veteran when he tangled with The Great in that battle, still is a keen-eyed, ruddy-faced physician with quite a practice in Brooklyn, where they are making so much fuss over the Robins' pennant chances these days.

HAIL TO OUR new city public parks tennis champions, Frank Broida, in the men's singles, and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, in the women's singles, crowned in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's two weeks' elimination completed last Saturday . . . . They came through a severe test and should give Pittsburgh strong representation in the national public parks tournament in Washington, D. C., less than one month hence . . . . Certainly they've taken the lively ball out of the major leagues. If you don't believe it, just squint over what happened at the Phillies' park during the past week, when the Phillies and their opponents, the Pirates and Cubs, rolled up a total of 125 runs among them in seven games in six days, an average of almost 18 runs per game. Twenty home runs contributed to the hilarity, eight of these coming in one game and five in another. If this isn't a record, it will do until someone produces evidence to the contrary.

That some fistic titles hang by the merest threads is demonstrated by what happened in the Benny Bass-Tony Canzoneri bout in Philadelphia a week ago . . . . Canzoneri was to come in heavier than the junior-lightweight limit of 130 pounds, so Benny's title would not be at stake, but he couldn't get up that high . . . . As the story goes, there was consternation until Canzoneri ate several oranges and drank a lot of water and finally tipped the beam at 130¼ pounds. That night he lambasted Bass to a faretheewell, but Bass still is the champion. What a joke and barney on the public! . . . . Did anyone ever tell you that Babe Hunt, the Oklahoma heavyweight, has Osage Indian blood in his veins and is known back home as the Big Gusher, and that George Panka, the Homestead heavyweight, got his professional boxing start as a sparring partner for the Babe? . . . . And that Frank (Bull) Brown, our own local product, is just about the best umpire in the American Association this year and may yet get a chance in the big show? . . . . This finishes the job of subbing for good Jim Long, who'll be back with you in this spot tomorrow.

SCOTT, STRIB WEIGH FOR BATTLE

LONDON, July 28.—(INS.)—In anything but a friendly mood, W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Georgia, and Phil Scott, British champion, shook hands today when they met at the Stadium Club in Holborn for weighing in preparatory to their bout tonight.

Stribling scaled in at 187 pound 14 ounces, Scott had a decided advantage, with 206 pounds, 2 ounces.

The weighing-in ceremony was marked by considerable bickering. Scott arrived 25 minutes late and found that Stribling already had weighed in. When he learned the Georgia boxer had gone on the scales with his clothes on, he objected strenuously. Stribling had allowed nine pounds for his clothing, and his weight had been announced as 184 pounds 14 ounces.

Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager, voiced strenuous objections.

"If there is to be any weighing at all," Johnston said, "it must be done stripped."

Stribling complied, doffed his clothing and ascended the scales again. It was found his figuring had been three pounds in error, for he tipped the scales at 187 pounds 14 ounces. Scott then went through the weighing procedure.

To the eyes of observers, both fighters seemed to be in splendid condition. The obvious antipathy between them foreshadowed a real battle when they square off at the Wembly Stadium tonight.

Stribling continued a 2-to-1 favorite.

The bout will start at 9:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m. eastern daylight time in the United States). The identity of the referee will not be disclosed until immediately before the fight.

Sporting scribes on London dailies have a hunch that Stribling will knock out Scott inside of five rounds, according to opinions expressed in various articles today.

Both fighters, however, have expressed themselves certain of a victory.

Stribling said:

"I shall hit Scott with my left hand, and, if he doesn't fall, look behind him to see what's propping him up."

Scott said:

"I never felt better or fitter in my life. I shall probably win by a knockout—most certainly on points if it goes any distance."

BUCCOS JOLT GIANT HOPES

Walker lost the slab verdict to Meine in the opener. Pete Donohue taking the grief in the second battle. Neither was able to finish his game.

Swetonic's fine relief pitching was a high spot of the first contest. Meine was in a delightful stride for seven rounds, but he faltered in the eighth. Swetonic saw a lot of queer hits fall around the park as he stepped to the slab, but the North Side youth showed his mastery in the crisis. The tieing run was on the sacks in the eighth when he made Hogan loft a fly to end the round.

Meine gave a remarkable performance against the Giants in the opener until he weakened in the eighth. Heinie shut the door in the faces of the New Yorkers through five hot innings and he was just about as effective in the sixth when Dick Bartell's miscue on Allen's roller opened the way for two tallies. Melvin Ott cracked out a home run to start the eighth and from that point until Swetonic relieved him later in the inning, Meine was not himself.

The Buccos are due to open a three-game series with the Cardinals at Forbes Field tomorrow.

POLOISTS ARRIVE

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The four Ashton brothers, from Australia, who won the recent invitation polo tournament at Ranelagh, England, arrived here today in quest of further laurels.

CHINESE TO FORE

The ignominious defeat of the Chinese track team at the Far Eastern Olympic Games at Tokio has aroused a certain editor of the north of China, who writes as follows:

Knute Rockne

"Let no youth in the country minimize or belittle this athletic defeat. Physical development has an important bearing on mental and moral development. When a nation is beaten in the field of sport, it indicates that there is something wrong in the intellectual development of the people. In science, literature and other similar achievements we do not excel.

"Indeed, it seems to us that the specialty of our students lies in broadcasting long manifestoes against any president or principal who happens to incur their wrath and indulging in other forms of illegitimate agitation. In this they easily win the championship of the student world."

It may be that the editor is right and the land of Confucius can be improved upon by adopting American competitive mass athletics.

BOWEN LANDS TWO WINS

HELINGFORS, Finland, July 28.—(AP.)—Reginald (Pete) Bowen, sprint star from the University of Pittsburgh, won the 100 and 400 meters events at an international athletic meet here yesterday.

Bowen won the meter in 10 7-10 seconds, with Corts, of Germany, second, and Jarvinen, of Finland, third. The Pitt star outran Jarvinen and Wilen in the 400 meters, which he won in 48 1-10 seconds.

Tommy Warne, of Northwestern, won the pole vault, clearing 13 feet, 9 6-10 inches. Reinikka was second with 12 feet 1⅝ inches and Nikander third at 11 feet, 6 inches.

Polish Team Wins In Chess Tourney

HAMBURG, Germany, July 28.—(AP.)—The Polish team won the team tournament of the International Chess Federation with a lead of one and a half points over Hungary, the winner at London and The Hague recently.

The United States team, defeating Spain three to one, wound up in sixth place, just ahead of Holland and England. F. J. Marshall, I. Kashdan and H. Steiner, of New York, won their games. J. A. Anderson, of St. Louis, lost.

Poland defeated Finland by 3½-½, while Hungary lost to Holland 2½-1-½½. Germany finished in third place.

SCOTS CAPTURE M.-A. LEAD; GUVS STAR

The Governors tied with Fairmont's Black Diamonds for victory honors, each capturing five of seven engagements. The Governors, however, monopolized offensive honors by slamming out 76 hits, five better than Cumberland, scoring 53 runs, 10 more than the closest rival, again the Colts, and hitting 12 home runs, with the Colts getting eight for runner-up laurels.

Yesterday the Guvs dropped a heartbreaker, losing in 13 innings to Clarksburg by a score of 2 to 1. Clarksburg tallied in the first innning, and the Governors tied the count in the ninth. A wild pitch by Gumbert with a man on third accounted for the winning run.

The Wheeling Stogies skidded badly yesterday, dropping to third place when Fairmont landed a 7-to-3 triumph after a 10-inning struggle.

At Cumberland, Scottdale hammered out a 16-to-12 victory over Cumberland, gaining first place thereby. The Scots tallied 16 runs on 15 hits. King, Gray and Dyer had three apiece.

Despite rallies by Jeannette in the seventh and eighth innings, Johnstown landed an 8-to-7 victory at Johnstown. Beam, pitching for the Jays, hit two home runs in three trips to the plate. Bishop and Pritchard, of Johnstown, and Pasquella, of Jeannette, also clouted four-basers.

ONWENTSIA VICTOR

FORT SNELLING, Minn., July 28.—(AP.)—Onwentsia Club of Chicago yesterday won the Northwest golf championship by defeating the Fort Snelling Blacks, 13-8, in the finals of the annual tournament here.

KONJOLA VERY MEDICINE HIS CASE NEEDED

Former Sufferer Glad to Tell What New and Different Medicine Did for Him.

After all, what mightier recommendation can a medicine get than the grateful words of those who, to their everlasting joy, found in Konjola the very medicine they needed; the medicine they should have had in the first place.

MR. G. R. CHARLTON

Konjola wins victory after victory because all of Konjola's 32 ingredients work together in cleansing the system and stimulating the ailing organs, bringing quick and glorious relief from ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and from rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Consider, for example, the case of Mr. G. R. Charlton, 527 Woodward Avenue, McKees Rocks, near Pittsburgh. Think it over, and then resolve to meet the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city. Hear from him the remarkable record of this remarkable medicine. But now read the words of Mr. Charlton, who said to the Konjola Man:

"For years I suffered with a very bad case of stomach trouble. Food did not digest, and did me little good. I tried several medicines in two years, but none gave relief. Six months ago I started taking Konjola, and found it to be the very medicine I needed. I am feeling better than in years, and can eat all kinds of food. Gladly I recommend Konjola to all who suffer as I did. Konjola relieved constipation, too, and I do not have to take laxatives of any kind."

So it goes, everywhere Konjola is put to the test. Konjola is for the aged or the infant; for all the family. That is why Konjola is a household word in tens of thousands of American homes.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

RELIANCE, HORNES CLASH

SHOEMEN FACE DORMONT IN CITY LOOP

By TOM BIRKS.

Reliance Life, meeting the Joseph Horne nine in the Commercial and Industrial League, is the feature sandlot battle of the evening. It will be staged at delightful Camp Horne.

A. H. Burchfield and Sammy Craig are out to try and put a crimp in the winning way of the Insurance boys, but with Spencer and Hurley pitching good baseball, and the team hitting, it is hard to see the Campers stopping the Miller aggregation.

ACES FACE TEST

In the West Penn League, the top notchers, Homestead Aces and Wilmerding, will clash at West Field, Homestead. Ferig is out to cop that second-half title and seeing that the Airbrake nine have gotten away to a wonderful start, a good battle should ensue.

In the Central loop one game will be played. This finds the Jimmy Coslett club tangling with the Y. M. H. A. at Schenley High School field. The Bellefielders, one of the hardest-hitting clubs in the loop, will have a tough battle.

Two games will be played in the Minor League. Jednota meets the North Side Aces on the North Side, and the Brodericks face the William Penn club, which plays its games at Crafton Heights.

Two real games will be staged in the City League. Dormont goes to Olympia Park to meet Book Shoe. Leo Carroll will probably oppose the Shoe men. W. O. W. will go to Dean Field to meet the J. L. Thomas nine. The boys bearing the name of the popular Bloomfield sportsman are going at a sensational pace.

CRAWFORDS BEATEN

The Kokinos Cards nosed out the Crawford Stars in a well-played independent tussle yesterday, 5 to 3. A two-run rally in the seventh with the score tied at three-all turned the trick.

The Homestead Grays, campaigning in Columbus, O., defeated the Monarchs by a count of 6 to 3. Home runs were struck by White of the Grays and Duncan of the Monarchs.

Iroquois won over the P. J. Cauls, of Ambridge, 4 to 0. St. Johns hammered out an 11-to-10 win over the Allegheny Collegians and the Jordons defeated the De-Mor team, 3 to 1.

The St. Clair Frogs defeated Hillrock, 5 to 4, and the Jimmy Cosletts won over Homeville, 9 to 4.

The Crawfords lost to the Stowe Civics, 4 to 2, Saturday evening in a benefit game for the Coleman Home. The net proceeds amounted to $155.40. A few hours work, eh?

Ruth Tells How to Care for Arm and Shoulder Ailments

BABE
THERE ARE TWO KINDS OF SHOULDER SORENESS. THIS IS ONE — A TENDON STRAIN — WHICH COMES EITHER FROM THROWING TOO HARD BEFORE ARM IS PROPERLY WARMED UP AND MUSCLES AND TENDONS LOOSENED OR FROM AN IMPROPER THROWING MOTION.
FIRST CURE IS REST FOR A TIME — AND AFTER THAT, VERY LIGHT USE UNTIL SORENESS DISAPPEARS.
CORRECT THROWING MOTION IF FAULTY.

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

Mac watched Dr. E. V. Painter, our trainer, working on some of the boys one day and was much interested.

"Gee, whiz," he remarked, "I didn't know there so much work in training a ball club."

Doc laughed.

"Ever have a sore arm?" he asked.

"Oh, sure," Mack replied.

"Well, what did you do for it?"

"Nothing—just let it get well."

Doc frowned.

"Take off your shirt," he commanded. "Let me show you something about arm soreness and how to take care of it. That's mighty important."

I won't try to repeat the conversation now. I'll just try to tell you some of the things Doc told Mac. There are two kinds of shoulder soreness, Doc said. If the soreness of your arm is in the top of the shoulder or the joint (where I am pointing) that's a tendon strain. An injury of that sort can be traced to one of two things. Either it comes from throwing too hard before the arm is properly warmed up and the muscles and tendons loosened, or it comes from an improper throwing motion.

REST IS FIRST CURE

The first cure is rest for a time—and, after that, very light use until the soreness disappears. And, of course, a correction of throwing motion.

If the soreness is in the back of the shoulder, then you may be sure your trouble is a muscle strain. The treatment for that (again I'm repeating what Dr. Painter said) is entirely different from the treatment of a tendon strain. In case of a muscle strain, the first thing is an application of heat. Hot towels are the easiest and most common form of heat application. Follow the heat applications with a light massage that increases circulation and brings a glow to the skin. Be careful to avoid a pounding massage or one that irritates the muscles. Simply rub and massage lightly. And, in case of a muscle strain, use the arm regularly. Don't attempt to throw hard or put any further strain on the arm—but don't give it complete rest, either. If you do, the muscle tightens up. Light but regular use is the thing, with plenty of heat and easy, smooth massaging until the pain and soreness disappear.

WARM UP SLOWLY

The important thing, however, is to avoid soreness—and the best way to do that is to warm up carefully before you start in to play. Always wear some sort of undershirt covering your back and shoulders and arms. Kids have the idea that an undershirt is hot and cumbersome, but it isn't. The undershirt serves a double purpose. It holds the body heat in and keeps the muscles supple, and in addition, it absorbs perspiration and keeps players from cooling off too quickly when they stop playing.

If a soreness does come, don't ignore it. Sometimes soreness will correct itself, but it doesn't pay to take chances. If you're playing on a school team, see your trainer or coach the minute such soreness appears. If no trainer is available, start in on the remedies Doc has outlined above. Remember, a slight strain, if it is not cared for, can develop into a lot of trouble.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

READING, Pa., July 28.—Well, folks, guess the Pirates have made a lot of better Eastern trips than the one we just finished, but I'll bet they never made a hotter one. I thought the Texas League was a scorcher, but you don't ever have to be in the game to lose weight in the weather we've been through.

Lloyd ran so far after one fly to deep center yesterday we all thought we would have to carry him back, but he finally reached the bench. I guess he was afraid to weigh in after the contest was finished. It's a darn good thing that Jule didn't play him in both games, else he might have faded out under the shower bath when it was all over.

LAUGHS AT HEAT

Some fellas jes' naturally don't mind the heat. Take Glenn Spencer, for instance. Glenn was as cool as a fella drinkin' home brew in a cellar. He had that old fast ball a clickin'. When Glenn went out to warm up with Oscar Stanage, he made that old fast ball smack into Oscar's glove jes like it was a firecracker. As soon as we saw the way Spencer was, we figured we had a good chance to get two games.

McGraw wasn't on the Giant bench, and I guess it's a good thing, or he would have been carried off. There's a great guy for baseball, but they say when his team loses two games in one day he gets incommunicado, which is a polite word for going hay wire as far as I can find out.

M'GRAW ABSENT

McGraw went up to Montreal to look at a player, accordin' to the dope that was passin' around our bench. When he got the news I suppose he tried to buy a flock of players.

That double defeat may be the means of knockin' them Giants out of the flag. You see, the Dodgers gained two games on them as they won a couple from the Phillies.

Well, we're doing a stunt in the International today, but we're due home tomorrow to take on the Cards. If it's as hot in Pittsburgh as it has been in the East, I'm gonna move my bunk to Schenley Oval.

Score Injured As Montreal Stands Fall

MONTREAL, July 28.—(AP.)—Twenty people were injured, three seriously, yesterday when a section of seats in the Montreal baseball stadium collapsed at the finish of the international 500-mile relay race.

Police said persons standing on the top bench of a row of bleacher seats caused it to turn over and fall onto the spectators below. Other seats were overturned in the rush for the exits, and a panic followed in the section.

Several persons were hurt in jumping over railings into the playing field, and many were trampled on in the crowded exits.

The injured were taken to hospitals, where all but three were released after treatment.

OLD OAKS WINS

RUMSON, N. J., July 28.—(AP.)—A surprise polo victory in the semi-final round of the Herbert memorial trophy tournament was posted yesterday by the youthful Old Oaks team, captained by Arthur Bowen, of the Rumson Country Club, over the Greenbrier, L. I., four. The score was 8-5 after an abbreviated game of six periods.

GOLF PLAYOFF WEDNESDAY

ANCASTER, Ont., July 28.—(AP.)—For the twelfth year in succession, Canada's open golf championship will go to the United States.

Tommy Armour, Detroit's professional, shot an almost incredible 64 on his fourth round Saturday to tie Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente pro, for the lead at 277 for the 72-hole competition. Plans to play off the deadlock yesterday were abandoned when it was learned both Diegel and Armour had booked exhibition matches for yesterday and arrangements were made to decide the championship over the 36-hole route at the Hamilton Country Club here Wednesday.

SHIELDS WINS SWIM

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS.)—William Shields, 25, Miami, Fla., swimmer, today was awarded $500 first prize money for winning the swim around Manhattan Island. His time for the 27½-mile course was eight hours and 25 minutes, 21 minutes better than the best previous time for that distance. Ann Beloit, Holyoke, Mass., was the winning woman swimmer.

Horses Run Dead Heats Twice In Same Day

PARIS, July 28.—(AP.)—Two modest handicap horses accomplished on the Maison Laffitte race track yesterday the exploit hitherto unheard of in France, of running to a dead heat twice in the same day. Mullingar and Portland, 3-year-olds that never have established any claim to fame, started in a nine-furlong handicap with 11 other horses. Both ran waiting races, coming fast at the finish and passing the post in the same stride.

The owners decided to run the race over again. Portland was the favorite in the runover because Mullingar was giving him 19 pounds, but the horses came up the stretch together this time and for the second time the judges were unable to separate them and declared a second dead heat.

CREW ENTRY HEAVY

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—(AP.)—Seven scull eights are entered for the fifty-eighth regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen to be held on Boston near Friday and Saturday. In all, 30 crews are entered. It was announced here today at a meeting to determine the crew.

PITT OPENS COACHING SCHOOL

The University of Pittsburgh summer football coaching school got under way at the Stadium this morning with some 50 coaches of other colleges and high and prep schools in attendance. In the picture above, Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, who returned home from a visit to Scotland only last Saturday, is demonstrating with Jim MacMurdo, Panther star, the proper position of the feet for a lineman on the line of scrimmage.

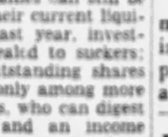
SOUND TRUSTS LACK BUYERS AFTER RELAPSE

Skeptics Slow to Respond To Ideal Investments; Upward Move Forecast

By MERRLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 28.—If Wall Street were responsive to the fundamental logic of events rather than to popular whims and prejudices, it would currently be considering the flotation of new investment trusts.

With security prices deflated, this is an ideal time for skilled investment managers to start out building up a portfolio.



Mr. Rukeyser

Instead, investment trusts were created on a grand scale last year before the panic when stocks were overpriced and unattractive. Investment trusts in the United States start out with a black eye because they raised 60 per cent of their aggregate capital in 1929, which proved to be a singularly unsuitable year for making commitments in common stocks.

OVERCOME HANDICAP

Given time, the honestly and ably managed genuine investment trusts will work out of the handicaps of a poor beginning. If they had been all wise, they would have kept the funds entrusted to them by their shareholders in cash or its equivalent.

Many who were skeptical of last year's high prices bet against the bulls by keeping a substantial portion of their funds in brokers' loans, but nearly all of them had more in common stocks than subsequent events justified, if they were companies of a trading nature.

Curiously, the public was in a mood to pour funds without stint into investment trusts last year, which proved to be a singularly poor year to launch investment trusts. And this year when a new investment trust could start on an infinitely firmer foundation, with much greater prospects of success, the idea is out of vogue; so much so that some of the better grade investment companies can still be acquired below their current liquidating value. Last year, investment trusts appealed to suckers; this year the outstanding shares can find buyers only among more analytical persons, who can digest a balance sheet and an income account.

It would not be without historical precedent if a secondary interest in investment trusts revives in time. In England, there was wildcatting in the launching of new investment trusts between 1887 and the Barino crisis of 1890, when numerous weak and ill conceived enterprises met their Waterloo.

SOUND TRUSTS SURVIVE

In the subsequent three years, when security prices were low, numerous sound new trusts were launched, and these have in many instances survived up to the present.

In seeking to inflame the jaded public mind with a new bullish enthusiasm, after the excessive and seemingly unwarranted decline which culminated last month, a broker told the tale about a retired Wall street man who was complimented on the fact that he had made and kept several millions as a nest egg for old age. He modestly exclaimed:

"Why, that was easy. You see, I had three panics to buy on."

"We do not advance any suggestions that there are definite signs of prosperity visible on the economic horizon, but we are convinced that the night of depression has lasted its full length and that the turn is at hand. We believe that this is the time to take advantage of the situation and to buy stocks, disregarding any immediate minor fluctuation—it is impossible to pick the exact bottom of the market."

It will be observed that there has developed a new vogue of encouraging advices by brokers and industrialists since the end of the June liquidating movement. Practical men of the world who want to be followed contend that it is best to let stampedes spend their energy, before seeking to exert constructive leadership. Looking back, the investor will readily see that the worst time to sell stocks is when other excited speculators are ruthlessly competing to sell.

UPWARD MOVE FORECAST

If the business recession is no more than an ordinary cyclical readjustment, as now appears, it is logical to take the view that the late spring and early summer liquidation overdiscounted adverse factors. The economic setting indicates that the next major movement of security prices will be upward, but, in the light of past history of markets, there may be false rallies before the genuine one arrives.

In spite of the depression, there has been nothing like a rout in the field of retail distribution. Aggregate sales at retail for the first six months of the year declined 5 per cent below the total for the corresponding six months of 1929, also running against the long term trend toward annual growth. Until the general economic situation and especially unemployment are corrected, retail sales will probably not swing back to the normal growth trend.

Chains have seemingly been doing better than independent merchants. Fifty typical chains reported a gross increase of 2.3 per cent over the sales for the same period in 1929.

New Industries Needed To Aid Labor

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WANTED—A NEW INDUSTRY. This is what labor and capital need today. The development of manufacturing for the past century has been a story of constantly improving efficiency as machinery has made it possible for labor to increase its production.

While invention at times caused hardships for labor, it has, in the long run, proved a benefit. It has made possible higher wages and shorter hours.

Two factors have taken up the slack in employment caused by newly invented machinery. The change from the 12 to the eight-hour day has been one of these. The development of entirely new industries has been the other.

New Industries Make New Jobs

WHILE BETTER MACHINERY has made it possible for steel mills, copper mines and other industries to get along with fewer men, products unheard of a few years ago have kept the employment situation on an even keel. Motion pictures, radio, automobiles all have contributed their share in supplying new jobs as fast as the older types of activity have cut down their forces.

It would be practically impossible to make an estimate of the number of jobs created by the growth of the automobile trade in the past 20 years. The mere factory employment at Detroit and other automobile centers has been a small part of it. We might trace the new jobs back to the parts factories, to the steel mills and glass plants whose production has been increased to supply materials for cars. We might further trace the new jobs through the countless garages and service stations and then through the petroleum industry, which would be a mere fraction of its present size without the constantly growing demand for gasoline.

Radio and Movies

MOTION PICTURES and radio have gone hand in hand with the automobile trade to maintain the balance in the labor market. The same story could be told of these types of business by tracing the new jobs caused by the need for materials, actual manufacture and finally distribution and servicing.

One of the latest additions to the ranks of the new industry has been the electric refrigerator. This promises to have a continued growth at an exceptionally rapid pace. Up to the present time the installation of new electric refrigerators has not been as rapid as the growth in the number of houses wired for electricity. The refrigeration industry has not even started to keep pace with the growth in electrical customers. Strange to say electric refrigeration has not had any serious effect on the distribution of ice, but it seems probable that eventually the ice man's business may be hurt.

New Product Needed

THE GREATEST HELP which could be given to labor at present would be the development of another new industry. The present condition of employment is principally attributable to the lull in business, which is merely a temporary condition. Even in the last period of intense industrial activity, however, there was a fairly large number of jobless men and women.

It seems likely that the restoration of really good employment conditions will require the manufacture of new products in addition to an improvement in general business activity. The past history of our industrial growth has shown that when such a stimulus has been needed it always has been found.

Procter & Gamble Gets British Unit

LONDON, July 28.—Procter & Gamble Co., of Cincinnati, O., has acquired controlling interest in Thomas Hedleyce, Ltd., of Newcastle-on-Tyne, the largest independent soap manufacturing company in Great Britain.

It is understood Procter & Gamble plans to expand the manufacturing and distributive business throughout Northern England and Scotland.

It also is reported that Procter & Gamble is negotiating for Cadum Soap Company, of Paris, and other plants in France and Germany for manufacture of acids, oils and soap in Europe.

Terminal Coal Cuts Second Quarter Loss

The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation reports for the second quarter of 1930, deficit after depletion, depreciation and charges of $206,776, against deficit of $216,654 in the first quarter.

Net loss for six months ended June 30 was $423,429 after depreciation, depletion, etc., against net loss of $321,365 in the first half 1929.

Continental Oil Reports Big Gain

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Continental Oil Company of Delaware and subsidiaries for June quarter report consolidated profit of $2,120,518 after franchise taxes, intangible development costs, depletion, depreciation, interest and minority interest, but before federal taxes, against profit of $523,302 in the preceding quarter and $3,842,081 in the June quarter, 1929.

Six months consolidated profit amounted to $2,643,820 before federal taxes, against $2,200,526 in the first quarter of 1929. Capital stock consists of 4,743,103 no par shares.

Western Weather Threatens Crops

MINNEAPOLIS, July 28.—The hot, dry weather still unbroken is the most serious for many years. It is especially severe in South Dakota, parts of North Dakota and Montana and unless relieved soon will necessitate material revision of all former estimates of production of wheat, flaxseed and other crops, and a big scaling-down of railroad crop tonnage.

Which skin fault spoils your beauty?

LARGE PORES?
BLEMISHES?
BLACKHEADS?
SUNBURN?

But there's no need now for your complexion to have even one defect. For nurses have discovered a quick, easy way to end all five of these common skin faults—a way that already has been successfully used by over 6,000,000 women—Noxzema Cream.

Noxzema's special formula is the secret of its many different results. It contains soothing emollients that soften rough, scaly skin. A mild medication that clears away blemishes—rids the pores of poisons and harmful wastes corrects excessive oiliness. Gentle astringents that shrink coarse pores to exquisite fineness. No wonder dull, faded complexions become so youthfully fresh and charming.

See for yourself the glorious new beauty Noxzema can bring your skin. Try it tonight. Instantly you'll feel your skin grow softer and smoother. Tomorrow morning you'll see how much clearer—finer-textured—it has become.

SHARES MOVE TO HIGHER LEVELS

Selling Flurries Hamper Efforts of Professionals; Steel Under Pressure

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The forces working for higher prices struggled with considerable animation in today's stock market to jack up prices above the resistance levels of the rally from the June lows, established on July 18.

Their work was hampered by rather tempestuous flurries of selling, but the list worked irregularly higher, several issues selling up about 2 to 4 points and recording new high levels for the movement. Trading was fairly active based on the reduced standards of these days. There was a notable shift of bullish operations from industrials into the utilities as the latter group was not so thoroughly exploited during the past week. Oils were later pushed up.

BRIGHT SPOTS APPEAR

News of the day and the week-end still failed to present any palpable evidence of the expected Autumn improvement in business but out of the rather gloomy flood of earnings statements appeared a gratifying number of bright spots. Of more than a score of first half statements appearing over the week-end about half of the individual companies showed gains over last year although the aggregate earnings of all companies so far reporting shows a loss from the like period of last year considerably in excess of 50 per cent, and about 5 per cent from the like period of 1928.

Early indications are that steel mill operations this week are little more than holding their own. From the Youngstown area came an estimate indicating that operations had been reduced from 60 to 58 per cent of capacity. Reports from representatives of some of the industries which have suffered least in the current recession were gratifying.

George Washington Hill, president of American Tobacco, told stockholders that 1930 earnings promise to exceed for the first time those of the original company dissolved under anti-trust proceedings in 1911. The management of Beatrice Creamery announced that earnings had expanded each successive month this year. Ambitious foreign expansion plans for American Can and Procter and Gamble were disclosed. Farm implementsturned upward on disclosures of another large order from Russia for International Harvester.

WARNER BROS. BREAK

Warner Bros. broke 5 points to a new low, to the accompaniment of unsettling rumors regarding rapid expansion,large bank loans and the security of the dividend, but Albert Warner, vice president, told the Associated Press that unsettling rumors were untrue. This break unsettled the entire list for a time. The action of this stock has been disappointing in view of the optimistic forecasts made some months ago for that supposedly depression-proof industry.

U. S. Steel was under considerable pressure, evidently reflecting growing doubt that the $1 extra dividend rumored some time ago, would be declared tomorrow.

Such shares as American Telephone, American Gas, Columbia Gas, Electric and National Power and Light, North American, American Water Works, Standard Gas, Westinghouse, Atchison, American Tobacco B, Union Carbide and Woolworth gained 2 to 4 points or more. Oils turned upward in the early afternoon, with good buying of Standard of N. J., Barnsdall and Phillips. The last named had sagged a point earlier with a transaction of 48,000 shares. During the morning, Radio Keith, International Telephone, Vanadium and Johns Manville sagged moderately. Transamerica was a soft spot, losing more than 2.

Call money was again at 2 per cent on the floor, and 1¼ outside. Commercial paper was firmer at 3 to 3¼, against 3 flat late last week.

Soviet Order Lifts Harvester Schedule

MILWAUKEE, July 28.—International Harvester Corporation will increase operation of its local plants by 50 per cent within the next 30 days, due to reception of a large Russian order for tractors.

While Harvester officials refuse to give exact figures on the purchase, information comes from other quarters that the order was for $7,000,000 worth of tractors.

American Tobacco Split-Up Approved

NEW YORK, July 28.—Stockholders of the American Tobacco Company have approved the 2-for-1 split-up of common and common "B" stock.

George W. Hill, president, said earnings for 1930 will undoubtedly far exceed for the first time the earnings of the company before dissolution.

Atchison Handles Less Cars in Week

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Steel prices per 100 pounds f. o. b. Pittsburgh: Blue annealed sheet 210-215; galvanized sheets 240-270; black sheets 240-255; steel bars 165-170.

PENNA. CRUDE OIL PUSHED

BRADFORD, Pa., July 28.—The Tidewater Oil Company announces its decision to manufacture a new lubricant of 100 per cent Pennsylvania grade crude oil from its Bradford refinery and to do all in its power to increase popularity of Pennsylvania crude. Noel Robinson, vice president, in charge of foreign and domestic sales, says:

"So confident are we of the quality of Pennsylvania oil that we have fitted our tankers to carry that grade and the first shipment will be ready to leave for the West coast in a month."

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 28.—Noticeable improvement is reported during the last 10 days in Northwestern Pennsylvania refinery conditions. No change is reported in independent marketing outlook but decision of producers to cut production 30 to 50 per cent until September 1 or even later is expected soon to have a favorable price effect. Drilling is at a standstill in Northwestern Pennsylvania counties.

Kentucky Tobacco Hurt by Drought

RICHMOND, July 28.—Half of Kentucky's 1930 tobacco crop has been damaged, by the prolonged drought, the State Department of Agriculture estimates. Rainfall this season has been half of normal, and last week's heat wave aggravated the situation.

American Piano Co. Payment Authorized

NEW YORK, July 28.—Judge Alfred C. Coxe, in Federal Court, has authorized receivers of American Piano Company to disburse a 50 per cent dividend on the claims of all general creditors of the corporation.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 9 to 11 points on buying which was evidently promoted by the failure of early weather reports to show any rain in the Southwest and yesterday's firm Liverpool cables.

The new October sold up to 13.09c and March to 13.37c during the early trading, making net advances of 18 to 20 points on the more active positions, but offerings increased after the passing of the weather map. This showed a cool wave north of the belt, which some traders thought might work downward and cause showers in northern portions of the western belt. October eased off to 13.04c and March to 13.31c by the end of the first half hour, making reactions of some 6 or 10 points for the best. Liverpool cables said there had been trade calling covering and considerable buying in the market on the bearish situation in the South.

The early selling carried the market off to 12.76c for October and 13.02c for March or back to nearly Saturday's closing quotations. Prices steadied up a few points on a private report making the condition of the crop 66.6 and the indicated yield 14,095,000 bales but the buying was light and prices were barely maintained.

At midday the market was quiet at 1 to 7 points net advances of 2 to 5 points on the more active positions.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP.)—The curb market began the new week today with a bullish demonstration in the utilities, its old favorites. This group, which has been moving sluggishly in recent weeks, displayed considerable liveliness and accounted for the bulk of the trading.

Gains of one to two points in Electric Bond and Share, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Tampa Electric and American-Foreign Power warrants were accompanied by improvement of about a point in American Superpower and United Light "A," among others. American Gas and Electric was again active, adding several points to Saturday's net gain of 8. Northern States Power "A" was strong. Industrials and specialties were quiet.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

West Leads in Flying; Alaska for Vacation

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE WEST, July 26

I HAVE just been visiting what Seattle with justifiable pride describes as "the largest factory in the United States devoted exclusively to the manufacture of airplanes" — owned by the Boeing Airplane Company operators of the San Francisco-Chicago and Los Angeles-Seattle mail passenger routes which carry approximately 25 per cent of the nation's air mail and also a large volume of express and passenger business.

Mr. Forbes

You learn, too, that "Since the World War it has been the largest producer of pursuit ships required for Army and Navy purposes. Recently it has become more active in commercial planes, and half of the nation's air mail is flown in Boeing equipment."

Such facts rather jar the untraveled New Yorker. He can't quite understand how such things can be 3,000 miles from Broadway.

MR. BOEING is a type of American happily on the increase. Although left ample wealth, he elected, not to become a genteel loafer, but become a dynamic worker.

The West's pioneer in aircraft, he has built up a great reputation and a great business. When Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank of New York, and forward-looking associates decided to participate in aviation's future, it was Boeing they wisely tied up with. Boeing is now a vital part of United Aircraft and Transportation Corporation, giant of the infant industry. Mr. Boeing is as hard at it every day as the busiest man in his employ. Contrary to the Easterner's conception of the go-getting Westerner, this Seattleite is extremely diffident, quiet, retiring.

SEATTLE'S municipal airport, Boeing Field, covers 450 acres inside city limits. Regular flying services are maintained with many cities. Flying is more a part of daily life in the West than in the East. On the Pacific the use of planes by high business executives is becoming common.

Two naval air stations are on the Pacific; one at San Diego, Cal., the other on Lake Washington, adjoining Seattle. It was from the latter that the first round-the-world flight began and to which the fliers returned triumphantly in 1924.

IN THIS PART of the world you hear much about Alaska. The Canadians blame America for being blind to the potentialities of their northwestern neighbor.

"We would expand faster if the United States would only develop Alaska as it should be developed," British Columbians tell you.

Alaska's unexplored resources are described as virtually unimaginable, incalculable. She has already produced some four hundred millions of gold and more than half as much copper, while fishing has yielded nearly a billion. Packing canned salmon has approximated a million pounds every business day in a good year.

Alaska has furs galore, unlimited coal deposits of high steaming value, a hundred million acres of forests, reindeer herds multiplying amazingly and supplying an increasing amount of food to the United States.

We sell Alaska $35,000,000 worth of manufactured goods a year. Incidentally 90 per cent of Alaska's business is transacted through Puget Sound ports.

INSTEAD OF RUSHING across to Europe, try the Pacific Coast and also Alaska for a vacation. Yacht owners are especially recommended to taste the pleasures of cruising along a thousand miles of inland waters and ideal, Norwegian-like fjords, where beauty and sport abound alluringly.

My own brief vacation, I've decided, will be spent on the Pacific Coast.

Weems' Orchestra Feature at Villa

Ted Weems and his orchestra will begin a one-week engagement today at Eddie Klein's Villa, Babcock boulevard. Headed by Sammy Walsh, dancing master of ceremonies, the Villa's new floor show has several new entertainers. Two of the new attractions are Irene Faery, dancer, and Edith Murray, singer.

Meeting Notices

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 22, 1930.

NOTICE OF MEETING — The meeting of the Stockholders of the Pittsburgh Forge & Iron Company will be held at the office of the Company, No. 801 Chamber of Commerce Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Tuesday, August 5, 1930, at 3 o'clock p. m., for the election of Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

W. I. MILLER, Secretary.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 28 — (AP) — Only nominal interest was displayed in bonds today. The greatest demand was for stock privilege issues, which followed the fluctuations of shares. Railroad convertibles were steady during the early dealings.

Some heaviness developed among carrier mortgages. Second grade issues attracted more interest than legals, for the vailable supply of the latter has been depleted by the demand from banks and other institutions. Utilities were quiet and firm. The scale of buying of foreign issues fell below last week, but no change of trend developed, and small fractional gains were the rule.

NEW YORK, July 28 — (AP) — Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

DAILY TRUE STORY

'Wide Awake'

"All of that talk last year about panic and hard times was pretty straight goods, Joe."

"Uh, huh," Joe muttered, only half hearing what his visiting cousin was saying, as he was intent with the hose spraying the roses that made the hedge between sidewalk and street.

"Oh, I know you wouldn't understand—you happened to be living on easy street, but I tell you I darn near lost my shop."

Joe Baker shut off the water, reeled up the hose and sat down in one of the big chairs under the big pepper tree. His cousin, Kiley Baker on from the East on a business trip, followed suit.

"So," said Joe, "I wouldn't understand, eh? Last year I was on easy street eh?"

"Wasn't you?" asked Kiley.

"Listen, Kiley, last year to be exact, eighteen months ago—"

"Yes, I know—it was eighteen months ago when the big smash came."

"Here's something you didn't know—and I hope the shock doesn't kill you, old Know-it-all!"

Joe and Kiley chuckled. That had been Joe's name for Kiley ever since they were kids together back in Massachusetts.

"What is it I don't know?"

"Eighteen months ago when you say you darn near lost your wood-working shop and when you also say I was on easy street where was I and how much money do I have?"

"Right—that's something I don't know."

"Well, I was somewhere near the Rockies and I was hitch-hiking out to this place and I had exactly nine dollars and two bits to last me until I got here."

"No."

"Yes."

"How come all this affluence? Uncle Dan couldn't afford to stake you to all this—swell home—swell car—prettiest girl for a wife I ever saw—how come? Crooked business?"

Jobs Scare

"Wide awake," Joe said.

"Eh? Oh, you keep wide awake. Well plenty of us did, but we darn near lost our shirts—some did."

"No, I mean the sentence, 'Wide awake.'"

"I don't believe two words like that make a real sentence, Joe; but hop to it—what about this 'wide awake' stuff?"

"Well, when the Hanes machine plant was gobbled up by the big trust and then the big trust calmly closed it up and left us all flat, where was I?"

"Out of a job. That's one thing I know."

"Not only that, but jobs were as scarce as timid and meek red-headed girls."

"So you took your life's savings and bought a—"

"Shut up," Joe said, grinning.

Mrs. Baker came out with a pitcher of orange juice and the evening paper a boy had tossed on the front porch.

"Dinner in half an hour, Lun says," she told them.

"What's a Lun?" Kiley asked.

"Lun is a 'he,' a Chinese jewel—he cooks and he cleans and he shops."

"Life didn't hand you such a rotten deal—this swell home out in this country of eternal sunshine and roses, a mighty fine wife, servant—oh, yes, 18 months ago you were saying, you didn't have any more of a job than a rabbit. How come?"

"Wide awake!"

Joe poured the orange juice.

They drank.

"Well, out of a job, no jobs here. I recalled Uncle Dan. He had influence out here, although he had always been too honest in politics to get rich. I had a hunch that he could get me some sort of a job. I couldn't sponge on you and mother up country, she could just manage on her income, so I started out in the general direction of the setting sun, hitch-hiking."

Pretty Waitress

"Tough?"

"No, rather interesting. I slept in a good many empty box cars and hay ricks and so on and on, but I managed to get long rides now and then. In several places I worked over some balky cars and got a few bucks. A big farmer got me to fix up his harvesting machine and handed me a ten spot."

"Well, how about this 'wide awake' thing?"

"It was back in Montana. I washed up in a creek after a dusty ride in an open car and went over to the little railroad station for food. A girl appeared and smiled. I had been riding with an old grouch for 10 hours and that smile looked good to me.

"Ah, ha, the plot thickens. Here is where the 'wide awake' comes in."

"It does," Joe admitted.

"This girl with the smile and the handsome blue eyes brought the eggs. They were the best eggs any man ever ate. Of course the girl with the smile, helped. I wished there was some sort of a job in that town so's I could eat at this eatery just to see the gurl smile at me and order my eggs wide awake. I asked her

"'Mister' the gurl said, 'there ain't any more jobs in this town than there are spats on goldfish.'

"Well, I hung around that day. Next day I was having six more eggs, wide awake, and counting the few bucks I had left when a chap stopped in who began to cuss about his car. I fixed it. He was in a rush, he was going 200 miles straight west and I grabbed the chance to go with him.

"All the way along with this gent in such a hurry I was wishing I could go back and get some more eggs."

"And how! No other gurl ever got me that way. I was one who could take my lady friend or leave em alone. I never thought about them afterwards. But I kept thinking of this little beauty and I dreamed about her.

At Destination

"Love—it's a helluva calamity, Joe," Kiley said, solemnly.

Kiley was joking. He was happily married.

"It's a calamity all right when you've got only a few bucks and no job and keep putting distance between yourself and the one little girl. Finally I landed out here in this sweet country and found Uncle Dan. Uncle Dan is a corker. He wanted to stake me. He wanted to put me up and keep me right along. I had it out with him. I wanted a job, that was all. He asked me what I did best. I told him 'machinery.' I told him about the plant I worked in where ore crushers, hydraulic presses and such junk were made.

"Uncle Dan took me downtown. He introduced me to Mr. Smithson. Mr. Smithson represents a concern that makes mining machinery and equipment. He talked shop with me and found that I knew the stuff and could repair it.

"Well, he gave me a job as a salesman, small drawing account, big commissions. 'Give him a good steer to start,' Uncle Dan said to Smithson, 'or we'll boost your taxes seven million per cent.' I didn't know what the joke was, but Smithson sent me down the line where the deal was practically closed. I sold an equipment to this silver mine and the commission I got made me dizzy.

"After that I was on easy street. I went around the silver and gold mines and up into the copper district.

"All this time I was remembering the pretty girl with the smile who had ordered wide awake eggs for me. I couldn't remember the name of the town where I had met her."

"What was the matter? Too love sick to recall it, Joe?"

"Listen, you hitch-hike across the continent and towns and villages all seem alike—like beads strung on a long string—you get so fed up that you don't stop even to look at the sign on the depots, you don't even ask what town it is."

"Tough break, Joe."

"Tough? Listen Kiley, I got out maps and express station books and read names of hick towns until I was blue in the face. One seemed just like another.

Dinner Served

"The worst thing was," began making real coin. When you sell an ore crushing plant or milling outfit to a mine, boy, you've sold something! One sale a year brough, me more coin than I could make in a year back East in the machine shop. By the time I had been working for these people six months I had made eight sales! I should have been happy, but I wasn't. I went into every station eatery I came across, but the beautiful girl with the smile wasn't there. It was a queer sensation. A few months before, any sort of a job would have made me feel like a million dollars. Here I was, raking in big money and getting sore and crabbed all the time because I couldn't remember what hamlet it was I had met up with my 'wide awake' girl, that was what I called her. You see I never even knew her name. Tough, it was more than—"

Joe's wife came out and said "Hoo-hoo." Then she made motions of washing behind the ears.

"Dinner, Kiley — we've just time to wash up."

They went in and washed up and came down to dinner.

Mrs. Baker was radiant.

Joe and Kiley were hungry.

Lun, the Chinese miracle boy, came in with an immense platter and put it down—succulent ham, in an ocean of eggs, garnished with cress!

Kiley grinned.

"Mr. Baker," Joe's wife said, "I forgot to ask you how you like your eggs—Joe always wants them 'wide awake!'"

"Now, Joe, you've been telling all about me," scolded Mrs. Baker, then she turned to Kiley. "If he hadn't found me I'd never been happy, I used to dream about him," she said.

"Where do you suppose I found her?" Joe asked.

THE NEBBS — The Problem — By Carlson

WE HAVE OUR HEROES REQUESTING LEGAL INFORMATION AS TO HOW THEY CAN CALL A MEETING OF THE OSSER MFG. CO AND THROW OUT RENROD WHO IS CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
YOU UNDERSTAND, JUDGE, WE THREE HAVE THE CONTROLLING INTEREST IN THE OSSER MFG. CO. AND WE WANT TO CALL A MEETING TO DUST CALEB RENROD AS CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS — HOW DO WE GO ABOUT IT?
HAVE YOU A LIST OF THE STOCKHOLDERS SO YOU CAN NOTIFY THEM OF A MEETING?
NO, WE HAVEN'T, JUDGE.
NO, WE DON'T KNOW NOBODY CONNECTED WITH THE CONCERN. WE JUST HOPPED IN OURSELVES
WELL, THEN YOU'LL HAVE TO SERVE NOTICE OF A MEETING AT LEAST THREE WEEKS PRIOR TO THE DATE OF MEETING — YOU CAN DO THIS BY ADVERTISING IN THE LOCAL NEWS PAPER
YOU SEE, JUDGE — WE 3 HOLD THE CONTROLLING INTEREST — OF US DO YOU THINK SHOULD BE THE CHAIRMAN?
YOU SEE NEBB IS THE ONLY ONE TOO BUSY TO TAKE IT AND HE'S ONLY A LITTLE "STOCK" HOLDER
I DON'T KNOW JUST HOW MUCH THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEANS — USUALLY IT IS A SORT OF HONORARY POSITION BUT IF IT MEANS ANYTHING I DON'T THINK THERE IS MUCH CHOICE AMONG YOU

Sour Plight of the Buttermilk Toper's Daughter

NEW YORK.—Salvation Army officers in the Bowery plan to open a buttermilk bar next to every speakeasy in Manhattan. I'll get drunkards so full of buttermilk there won't be any room for booze," declared Lieutenant-Colonel Wallace Winchell.

"Mother, it's now half-past eight!
What keeps father out so late?"
"Hush, my child."
"Mother, you are crying; had we Better go and hunt for Daddy?"
"Hush, my child."
"Mother, don't tell me to hush—
I'd lay dough that father's lush."
"Hush, my child."
"Tell-tale spots upon his clothes!
A ring of froth upon his nose!"
"Hush, my child."
"I know father and his ilk!
Soused each night on buttermilk!"
"Hush, my child."

Miniature golf courses are being installed in American cities at the rate of 1,600 a week.

* * *

The only drawback to miniature golf is the exertion. But then that can be remedied by installing escalators.

Dr. Davidson's Death Is Great Misfortune

Pittsburgh has suffered a grievous loss in the death of Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of public instruction. He was an educator of supreme ability, as the progress made by the Pittsburgh schools under his administration bears witness.

Prior to Dr. Davidson's assuming charge, the city's public school system was in none too good condition. It was a great piece of good luck for the city when he took charge.

Death has removed him when he was at the peak of his ability, and familiar with problems that it may take his successor a long time to understand as thoroughly as Dr. Davidson understood them.

Besides being a great educator, Dr. Davidson was an outstanding figure because of his admirable traits of character. He was a kindly, upright citizen, a Christian gentleman in the best sense of the word. We can ill afford to lose men like him.

Demoralizing Effect of Clearing House Lottery

The warning issued by the Carnegie Steel Company to its employes to desist from playing the Clearing House lottery is pretty good evidence of the pernicious effect of widespread participation in this commercial gambling game.

Great corporations like Carnegie Steel are not accustomed to concern themselves with the private morals of their employes. One can hardly conceive of such a company interesting itself in the promulgation of an abstract moral principle that had no direct bearing on its business. No, it was without doubt a business consideration that led to the notice to the employes. The Clearing House lottery undoubtedly was interfering with the Carnegie Steel Company's business, as it is with that of every other large commercial enterprise in Pittsburgh.

Workers of every description, playing the lottery, become restless as the time arrives each morning when the winning number is to become known. Their attention wanders from their work. Some, who have staked more than they can afford, are in a nervous state. After the number is announced there is the inevitable discussion of what might have been. "If I had just had a 6 instead of a 7." "If I had only stuck to the number I played last week." And so forth, ad nauseam. In the aggregate thousands of hours of productive work are lost in Pittsburgh's mills and offices every day because of the employes' absorption in the lottery mania.

That has been the history of lotteries everywhere. They are demoralizing. The experience of centuries has been that people are better off if they do not gamble. On economic, if not on moral grounds, the laws against lotteries should be rigidly enforced.

Allegheny Observatory Presents Grand Pageant

The theater business is in the usual midsummer doldrums, but one institution in Pittsburgh is giving a nightly show to capacity audiences and is booked for months ahead. The situation is a testimonial to Pittsburghers' appreciation of a good show—for the institution is the Allegheny Observatory and the spectacle which it is presenting is the pageant of the heavens, the grandest exhibition that the universe offers.

Through the great telescope Saturn is shown, with its extraordinary rings, and star clusters, variable stars and a host of other wonderful celestial objects. Every Pittsburgher ought to visit the observatory and take his family. Admission is free, but tickets must be obtained in advance, for attendance on any one night is limited to a number which will give everyone opportunity to look through the telescope.

While a telescope or even an opera glass is helpful, the pageant of the heavens can be enjoyed with the naked eye. It will abundantly repay study, and there is no season at which the study can be made to better advantage, for we have been having a long succession of clear nights, while at other times there is always a strong possibility that the sky will be obscured by clouds.

Obtain a star chart. You can borrow a book containing such charts at any public library. With its aid and a little patience you will soon learn the constellations and the largest stars. The brightest luminaries in our evening sky at present are the planets Venus and Saturn, and the fixed stars Vega, which is almost directly overhead; Antares, the Scorpion's Heart; Altair, and Arcturus.

Thomas Carlyle expressed regret that he had not learned the constellations in his youth. Certainly the heavens, our greatest show, are much more interesting when one is acquainted with the names of the celestial characters and knows something about the parts they play.

Governor Fisher's Hall of Fame Proposal

Gov. Fisher's suggestion that a "hall of fame" for distinguished Pennsylvanians be set up at the State Capitol is interesting. Such an institution might serve to direct attention to the lives of eminent citizens of this state whose deeds and services are not known as they should be.

New York University has a "Hall of Fame for Great Americans," established by the generous gifts of an unknown donor. Pennsylvania does not have the representation in this institution that it deserves.

For example, there is no bust of Stephen Collins Foster, of Pittsburgh, whose songs are known throughout the world and are generally hailed as classics. Foster has been repeatedly proposed for recognition in the New York Hall of Fame, but has always failed of election. Yet one will find in the hall busts of Maria Mitchell, Mark Hopkins and others whose names mean nothing to the average citizen.

It is gratifying to see great men and women honored with statuary, and a collection of busts of distinguished Pennsylvanians at Harrisburg would add to the attractiveness of the capital.

But, as the rejection of the claim for a place for Foster in the New York University Hall of Fame discloses, a great man's fame may endure and increase without a statue.

Paving the Way

By Nelson Harding

"Hell is paved with good intentions"
Is an old familiar saying,
And the paving of this roadway
Leading to financial ruin

Is composed of wholly worthless
Stocks and shares bought by the victims
Of that meanest brand of sharper,
The stock racketeer and swindler.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Golf O' My Thumb

The miniature golf craze is sweeping the nation like a maniac using a mop in a telephone booth.

Every place you go, or even if you don't, you see erratic citizens pounding their native turf with deadly, unconcealed putters and proscribed niblicks.

"Bugs" Baer

Tom Thumb golf courses have sprung up on all the busy corners of industry and the army of the unemployed has been reinforced and augmented by dizzy divoteers.

The stunted suburban pastime started out in California, the playground of America, and spread as rapidly as stains on a boarding house tablecloth.

It galloped through Arizona, New Mexico, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania and finally reached New York, even though some people seem to think it is too good for the Democrats.

On a motor trip we got our first load of it. We were running behind the traffic jam schedule at three in the morning when we noticed a group of people clustered around nothing.

Now when a mob forms in our free and equitable states, there is usually something in the middle.

That's always the reason the mob coagulates. They either want to look, pull or slug, all depending on the tides and the stars.

We couldn't imagine what a crowd would be doing at three in the morning so we decided to take out a two-weeks' card to the incipient panic. When we got to the center of the business we discovered they were watching a man putting an illuminated golf ball.

For the first time we had stepped within the consecrated confines of a Tom Thumb links.

The boys were playing golf by candle light. We thought they were growing mushrooms.

Nobody has yet succeeded in discovering whether golf is fun or sport. And miniature golf compounds the puzzle, which is now a problem in long division and short pants.

But everybody seems to enjoy golf. Except when they are playing it.

And if the boys want to stand up all night just to play tiddlywinks with bouncing checkers, it's all right with us. If it is good enough for Lincoln, it is good enough for Washington. And what is good enough for Washington should be all right for the other cities.

THE RADIO EYE

By Archibald Henderson

Guglielmo Marconi, electrical wizard and sane prophet of the coming era of scientific conquest, predicts that progress in radio development will go forward with unimpeded speed in the future. Television has been partly perfected for short distances of a few miles; but the time will soon be here, Marconi thinks, when it will be possible to talk from New York to Rome, and at the same time for the conversers to see each other as they talk. The scientific apparatus has already been fairly well developed; all that is required is the achievement of exceptionally good transmission conditions.

An extraordinary development of radio and aviation working in conjunction is the marvelous device known as the radio-eye. This invention has been made by C. Francis Jenkins, and also by John Hays Hammond, Jr. The airplane is equipped with an eye—an eye that will not only see, but will broadcast for hundreds of miles all that it sees. In Jenkins' invention, the television sending apparatus, which picks up and transmits the scenes before it, is placed in the fuselage of the airplane.

Pictures, like sound, are transformed into waves of current which travel on until they reach the receiving station. There they are changed back into pictures. The sending machine transmits the radio waves controlling the flickering of a tiny electric lamp, energized by radio, at the receiving station. This lamp throws upon a mirror a dot of light, which, zigzagging back and forth, makes on the mirror a complete picture in less than one-sixteenth of a second.

It is the speed at which the dot of light zigzags across the mirror which enables the view to be glimpsed as a picture. The effect is that of a movie—a succession of pictures the making of each one requiring less than one-sixteenth of a second.

The value of the radio-eye is obvious at a glance. A general of the Red Army, say, wishes to have, at a given time, an exact picture of the enemy's fortifications: troops, supply trains, gun emplacements, trench defenses.

The aerial eye in the Red Army plane soaring over the enemy's territory looks upon them, reconnoiters, locates a Big Bertha, takes note of a long line of reinforcements coming up from the rear. Having taken in all this, the aerial eye transmits its findings instantaneously.

By means of giant aerial towers at headquarters, the general of the Red Army picks up the waves coming through air from the airplane, transmits them to the receiving set in the headquarters office, and the scenes are instantaneously flashed upon a specially contrived mirror scene. The general of the Red Army, scrutinizing the mirror, spots all the salient features of the enemy's fortifications and the disposition of his forces. At once he issues the necessary orders for a scientific training of his own guns upon the enemy's fortifications, and the requisite counter movements of his own forces. It is not haphazard and uncertain information, a sort of higher guesswork.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Do normal women always want babies? And is a woman "queer" who doesn't?

They don't and she isn't, according to a lady named Caroline M., who frankly states she'll have no babies on her budget.

Dear Miss Robinson:

From time to time you write an article glorifying motherhood and implying that there's something queer about any woman who doesn't want children. I resent this, for I consider myself perfectly normal and I certainly don't want children.

For the past four years I have filled a position which keeps me perfectly contented. It is interesting and important work and I think it is exactly as creative, for me, as motherhood would be. Of course I hope to marry some day, but I shall never marry unless my husband agrees that we shall have no children.

I think it is as unreasonable to expect all women to want children as it is to expect all men to want to be lawyers or doctors. A woman has as much right to pick her career as a man. You wouldn't brand a man as abnormal if he preferred to be an engineer instead of a dentist. Then why brand women because they don't all want to follow the same profession?

CAROLINE M.

But motherhood is not a profession, Caroline. And the desire to have a baby is quite different from the desire to be an engineer. Motherhood isn't a matter of mental determination. It's a matter of physical hunger . . . of physical equipment. All men weren't fitted by nature to be dentists. But all normal women were fitted by nature to be mothers. And a normal woman wants her baby as naturally as a normal man wants his food.

It is true that no one would consider a man queer who denied an interest in a certain profession. But he'd certainly be voted crazy if he denied an interest in food and water. And, in like manner, people consider a woman queer who doesn't want children.

It's probably lucky for the child and society in general if she does deny it, for unwilling motherhood has doubtful value. But the fact remains that the woman who doesn't want babies is as abnormal as the woman without toes or ears.

She may, I admit, put on a very adequate performance as a substitute for motherhood. She may camouflage her cowardice and laziness and selfishness with a thousand fine sounding alibis and much noteworthy action. But nothing, to my notion, can keep the deliberately childless woman from being a flat tire.

Personally I would rather be even a fourth rate mother than have the greatest career that ever hogged a spotlight.

However, as I said, that's just my notion. And you're at liberty to mail a red hot argument agin it, by return mail.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There was a Chicago gunman that was in trouble. He was going to be sentenced the next day. So that night the minister was giving him some good advice and trying to console him.

"Don't you get discouraged," says the preacher. "Every human has his trials and tribulations you know, and we've all got to bear 'em."

"Well," says the gunman, "I ain't complaining about the trials. They've been a sleigh-ride so far. And the tribulations I don't know nothing about, unless it's one of them motions the lawyers make for a hundred and fifty bucks apiece. But it's the sentences that worries me. Every human ain't got to have them, has he?"

Song at Twilight

Whose tender wings fold down

Whose sandalled footsteps creep
Across the hills and valleys
As earth is lulled to sleep!

The drowsy songbird twitters
Upon the swaying bough,
And all the forest voices
Are muted music now.

How sweet the dusky shadows,
The night wind and the dew;
But the sweetest of the twilight gifts
Is going home to you!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Even among mammals this undoubtedly primitive method of ending growth is to be found, for many voles and other rodents increase in size every year that they live, even after sexual maturity. This method, once we reflect a little, is what we should expect. What needs explanation is not the continuance of growth throughout life, but its suppression even before the full vigor of life is attained.

The higher vertebrates and the insects are the most important groups with limited growth, though the little Rotifers are in some ways even more remarkable, arriving at a definite fixed number of cells (often only about a thousand) and then stopping short.

H. G. Wells

Fixed adult size obviously confers certain advantages in standardizing the species, making it more delicately adjusted to its mode of life, and stabilizing all relations, social, parental or sexual, between different individuals of the species.

We have only to reflect how awkward family life would be if, after we had started to produce children, we proceeded, like female hermit crabs, to quadruple our height, or, like male lobsters, to multiply our weight by over 20, to realize the biological value of checking growth during the adult phase.

In part, such considerations doubtless apply to insects, too; but in addition the impossibility of moulting their wings makes it a necessity for them to cut short their growth immediately the winged phase is reached.

In higher vertebrates the cessation of growth in height is brought about by the solidification of the epiphyses or end pieces of the long bones and vertebrae and their fusion with the main central part of the bone; the gristly zone of cell multiplication between them and the main shaft is obliterated, turned into bone tissue, and after that further growth in length is impossible.

We know that the time of this fusion is, in part, at least, regulated by the ductless glands, but just how these act and how the other tissues of the body are stopped from growing, too—of this we know next to nothing, and we are equally ignorant of what brings the growth of insects to a close, just as we are ignorant of why many of them, such as the stick insects and many crustaceans, double their weight with remarkable exactitude from one moult to another.

We must confess our ignorance of what stops growth. But besides the stoppage of growth there is its slowing, and this is universally found in all many-celled forms, in those with continued growth as much as in those with fixed final size.

Our simplest measure of growth is the percentage amount put on each hour, or day, or month; if we plot out curves of percentage increase, we find that every organism grows steadily less and less rapidly from earliest stages of growth onward.

We are apt to think that our own growth after birth, multiplying our original seven pounds or so by about 20, is considerable. But it is our pre-natal growth which is really both so vast and so rapid.

The human fertilized egg weighs two or three hundredths of a milligram. It thus multiplies its weight by about a hundred million times in the nine months before birth; and the egg of a large whale multiplies itself some three million million times before the whale has reached full weight.

The average increase of baby children for each year, expressed as a percentage of their weight at the beginning of the year, is 200 per cent in the first year of life; in the second year only 20 per cent; and by the seventh year it has fallen to 10 per cent.

There is a slight increase before and during puberty, but then it falls off again and declines to 1 or 2 per cent by 20 years of age. If we had taken months instead of years as our standard, the average for the first year after birth would be under 17 per cent; in the last month before birth it is over 25 per cent, and mounts rapidly as we go back, being over 100 per cent for the sixth month of pre-natal life, and over 200 per cent for the fifth.

Precisely similar curves, though on a different scale, are found for guinea pigs, silkworms, rabbits, sunflowers, and indeed, for every organism which has been accurately measured.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

ANTWERP.—I wish the home office would permit me to linger in this Belgian city of 300,000 awhile instead of annoying me with childish cables I'm overdrawn. The overworked word quaint describes it. The birthplace of Flemish painting it is the home of Rubens and his illustrious students Van Dyck and Jordans.

The public square in which a heroic statue of Rubens is flung up faces happily the entrance of the gaunt gray cathedral where hangs his most famous picture, "Erection de la Croix." But a greater interest for me was its port. I counted 300 craft in the harbor. Thirty ships arrive and 30 depart daily.

In a moment of adventure we selected a modest pension hotel on the turbulent water front—a mean looking inn with a red-nosed maid named Josephine and a pock-marked waiter named Napoleon. Narrow sidewalks are clogged with Arabs, Somalis, Flemings—big chested men with rolling gaits whose constant jabber in alien tongues is harsh and emphatic.

Nearly all Antwerpians speak four languages—German, Dutch, French, English. French, however, predominates. Next to shipping, diamond cutting is the main industry. A big district, like Wall street, is given over to the delicate art, with a Diamond Exchange, comparable to our Stock Exchange, in its center.

I saw one diamond weighing 72 karats. Indeed, I held it in my hand, there being no windows in the room and the door locked. Some 40,000 workers, mostly Polish, are engaged in the work, and about 90 per cent of the world's diamond cutting is done in the area. Oddly enough it is not a highly paid profession.

Another feature of the city is its beautifully formed Flemish dray horses. Carters here, on account of the immense ship hauling, are specialists. They form an immense guild, divided into classes. Each class hauls only certain articles on the low-hung wagons. One of the impressive buildings is their club house.

The magnificent animals are closely cobbed, with only a fan-shipped nubbin of a tail. They are powerful Percherons wea enormous collars glittering ginger-bready brass ornam Manes are flecked with bows and hoofs are lacqu Drivers use but a single line tached to a plush padded and never use a whip.

In order to impress others you have always made your vaca trips a lot more expensive than you could well afford.

To satisfy your ego you have expended many unnecessary dol what have you gained?

Have you realized anything permanent in increasing your come?

Each year you conclude it was a mistake, and each year you peat it.

You know you should be more sensible, but when you have leisure to rest quietly and gain health and strength for the fifty w of hard work ahead you fly wide of your orbit and spend too free

Those who have accumulated wealth would not think of sp ing proportionately what you do.

To find themselves in later life in easy circumstances they been saving and frugal and earned their old age comfort thereby

They were able to take advantage of opportunities because had a little ready money to accept chances for financial better
